HIT-OR-MISS STYLE OF TEACHING LOST

Sunday School Workers Now Trained Bible Students in Graded Union.

SESSIONS ARE INSTRUCTIVE

Driest Subjects Painted in Colors That Stir Enthusiasm and Enlist Aid -- Santa Claus Gains

BY EDITH KNIGHT HOLMES. The old-style, haphazard method of teaching Sunday school is a thing of onstrated at the institute held yesterday by the Portland Graded Union of Sunday School Workers, who assembled in the auditorium of the Young Women's Christian Association. Afternoon and evening sessions were held and were well attended by earnest workers, who are getting Sabbath school teaching down to a science.

Mrs. F. R. Cook presided. Addresses were made by many of the officers and prominent members. Mrs. M. Meacham, librarian of the organization, distributed books on the various phases of work which an up-to-date Sunday ool teacher is supposed to under Missions Made Interesting.

Mrs. De Long, assistant to Rev. W. B. Hinson at the White Temple, gave an address on missions. It wasn't a dry, musty, uninteresting talk as the uninitiated might perhaps suppose, but a live entertaining, heart-to-heart address that was full of helpful sugges-of her methods in teaching, and did it so entertainingly that she inspired her audience to renewed zeal.

Whether the Sunday schools should give their pupils Christmas trees, presents and candy, or should receive donations for the poor was the subject of discussion, led by Mrs. S. W. Ormsby. Although the spirit of self-sacrifice and giving was upheld, it was generally agreed that the little folks should have some candy or other trifle from "teacher." "Let us tell the children that Santa Claus is the spirit of loving and giving," said Mrs. Ormsby in reply to the question, "Shall we let the children believe in Santa Claus?"

Teachers Now Well Trained.

The Portland Graded Union has been founded for 20 years, and in that time quietly and unostentatiously it has been reorganizing the whole method of teaching in the Sunday schools. Today its members are trained, efficient teachers and workers. They have gotten the point of contact, as they call it, they have found the way to interest people of every age and variety. In their meetings every week they have learned the psychology of Sunday school and Bible work.

There was a time when the same lesson was given to old.

There was a time when the same lesson was given to old and young alike. The little children fidgeted about while a teacher read long words and unteiligible phrases. Now the lessons are picked out to suit the age and understanding of the student. The teacher knows just how to present the lesson to claim the attention and interest and to hold the person for his

In all churches where the teachers have taken up this work in the Graded Union a marked increase has been noted in the attendance. Probably the best feature is that it solves the prob-lem, "How to keep boys and girls of the early teens in Sunday school."

Interest Artfully Aroused.

Johnny won't play truant if he finds the school interesting. If he has a teacher who tells him about baseball and gets him thoroughly convinced that she knows what she is talking about he will soon get enthusiastic over her vivid description of the Holy Land and her entertaining way of tell-ing the Bible stories and extracting the moral. The art of being a good Sunday school teacher is one that is sequired in the Portland Graded Union. One other splendid feature of the organization is that it brings together on a common basis teachers of all denominations. They exchange views, they learn to co-operate one with another. Chalk talks are given. Books are read and discussed. The best methods are adopted.

the use of the best is encouraged. At yesterday's session Miss Lulu Forrester for Sunday schools. Mrs. S. E. DuBols contributed what he styled "A Pincushion Talk," in which she told how the youngsters could have a good time watching the teacher pin up pictures illustrating the lesson.

The children at a contributed with the definition of Attorney powers that a group of alienists should examine Tropson and qualify.

The Graded Union meets every Fri-day in room A. Central Library. At 2 o'clock the teachers' training class as-sembles and at 2 o'clock there is al-ways a discussion of practical Sunday school methods and some music. The sectional conferences take place at 3:30 o'clock. Mrs. F. R. Cook is presi-dent of the union. Mrs. C. A. Morden is recording secretary and has charge of field work. Mrs. C. Ordemann is treasurer and Mrs. M. B. Meacham, librarian. Mrs. S. E. DuBols is first vice-president and has charge of the beginners' department.

Miss Olive Clark directs the cradle roll, Mrs. M. E. Toby the primary and Mrs. C. L. Smith, the junior. Mrs. Ormsby has charge of the secondary or uniform lessons. The teacher training department is under the care of Mrs. I. A. Dannenhower. First-class organ-ization and practical, systematic pedagogy of teaching Sunday school are the things for which the union stands.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, ec. 4.—(Special)—The bill that is a provide for hydro-electric districts in Oregon will be presented to the first special session of the State Common-wealth Conference by John McCourt, of Portland, former United States Dis-trict Attorney for Oregon. The bill will set furth the proposals of the Oregon Hydro-Electric Commission, of Oregon Hydro-Electric Commission, of which Mr. McCourt is a member. After the conference has approved or amended it, a committee probably will be named to see that the bill is put into the hands of the proper committee in the Legislature. The general problem taken up at the conference will be that of increasing the utilization of Oregon water powers.

Finances Are Provided Hydro-electric districts, if authorized by the Legislature, will be composed of cities and their tributary water-shed areas. They will be empowered to finance by bond issues their own water powers. The theory of the Commission is that such procedure would bring electricity into more general and cheaper use on the farm, in the factory and in the town.

the factory and in the town.

The hydro-electric section of the commonwealth conference will meet Saturday, December 12, at the State University. The earlier days of the conference, December 10 and 11, are to be devoted to "Unemployment" and "Reorganization of the State Administration."

Law to Get First Test. Law to Get First Test.

Dan E. Powers, attorney, representing the Hop Sing Tong, of which Jung Shing is a member, said last night that his partner. William P. Lord, has gone to Salem to file the habeas corpus proceedings. The contentions in demanding the writ are: First, that the manunder arrest is not Louie Hing at all, but is Jung Shing. The second contention is that, even if he is Louie Hing, there is no law at present under which he can be convicted of first-degree murder.

Louis Hing is accused of shooting Lum Chee Fong in the back in a Chinese restaurant at 81½ Second street on March 16. He was arrested three weeks ago, after he had received a bullet in the leg in one of the battles incidental to the recent tong war. He has stoutly maintained that he is not Louie Hing Yesterday the Chinese was arraigned Penalty Held Eliminated.

No plea will be entered, says Mr. Powers. Instead, the Supreme Court will be asked to take jurisdiction on the habeas corpus proceedings.

In the opinion of many preminent attorneys, the constitutional amendattorneys, the constitutional amend-ment passed by the voters at the elec-tion on November 3, repealing the cap-ltal punishment clause, leaves no ital punishment clause, leaves no method of punishing a man for first degree murder. If this is true then all first degree murders committed prior to November 3 become ex post facto cases, and are not punishable at all. In this case, Louie Hing, who was indicted in March, 1913, for first degree murder, cannot be punished. This is the question the Supreme Court must decide.

The only way the decision can sibly be sidestepped is to give the Oriental his freedom on the first contention-that he is not Louis Hing. however, is regarded as a matter for a Dr. Charles E. Barker Unable to court of lower jurisdiction to decide. Cases of Two Discussed.

When the anti-capital punishment amendment passed, the possible release of Lloyd E. Wilkins and John Pender, then under sentences to hang, was much discussed. To circumvent this much discussed. To circumvent this possibility. Governor West, before proclaiming that the amendment had carried, commuted the sentences of these men to life imprisonment.

But the two alleged murderers do not have to accept the commutation unless they want to. Furthermore, though their sentences be commuted, they are still being punished for first-degrees murder—a crime which, in the though their sentences be commuted, they are still being punished for first-degree murder—a crime which, in the opinion of many prominent attorneys, does not exist on the statutes of the State of Oregon at all.

If the Supreme Court denies his writ of habeas corpus, Mr. Powers says he has many other methods of handling the case without actually going to trial, He can move in the Circuit Court to quash the indictment, or move for a directed verdict on the same grounds he has presented to the Supreme Court. But this, says Mr. Powers, would put the state to unnecessary expense.

Should he fall in his petition to the Supreme Court, Mr. Powers says he will try to get his case in the United States District Court on grounds that Jung Shing or Louie Hing is an alien. If that contention falls, he will go to the United States Supreme Court with the case on grounds that the expost facto law is a constitutional question which would naturally fall under the jurisdiction of the Nation's highest tribunal.
