

WEST'S BEST HENS ARE NOW ON VIEW

Pigeons, Ducks, Rabbits and Pheasants Also Included in Annual Exhibit.

ALL WINNERS ARE MARKED

Object of Show Is to Demonstrate Commercial Value of Poultry and Educate Fanciers to Breeding to Best Types.

The pride of the Oregon poultry farms is on exhibition in the Pittcock block, where the Oregon Poultry & Pet Stock annual show opened yesterday under auspicious circumstances.

The show this year includes 536 poultry birds, a crate of ducks, four pheasants, 135 pigeons and 61 rabbits.

The average hen lays 88 eggs a year. One at Oregon Agricultural College laid 303 eggs in one year and there are hens exhibited at the show descended from others which laid 262 eggs.

The poultry comes from all over the West. The winning birds, rabbits and pigeons follow:

practically been eradicated, but stockowners are still cautious and the Government inspection of inter-state shipping rigid.

In spite of this serious drawback, the show will prove by far the most successful yet held in the West. There are now something like 150 carloads of hogs, sheep and cattle in the entry list—and that number will be swelled before this article is read.

It is impossible for one to go to this show, or to any livestock show held in Oregon, without heaving a deep sigh, or as in my case, dropping a tear, because of the thought of one who for many years of his life dreamed of a great livestock show to be held annually in Portland.

It shows we are coming to the light; more that we have reached the light. Just think of 75 carloads of hogs being sent to this show! Can you grasp the thought? Why, it is not so many years ago when it would have been the last little razor-backed shag in the states of Oregon and Washington to make up even 50 carloads; now you can find 75 carloads of hogs in 75 carloads of first-class hogs!

That is a sort of magna charta, for it must be remembered the bulk of the livestock being shown will be sold at auction, the sales beginning this morning at 10 o'clock, when the fat stock will be placed on the block.

Two Hundred Holsteins for Sale. These auctions are really the nib of the shows, because nothing tends to improve herds, and breeds, like the dispersal of first-class breeding animals. In this year's catalogue of Holsteins cattle there are about 200 pure-bred and registered animals to go un-

Association Formed Last Year With 100 Members Now Has 282—Report of Secretary Shows 11,200 Beef Cattle Being Fed.

At the annual meeting of the Oregon Cattle and Horse Raisers' Association in the Imperial Hotel last night a bill was drafted which will be presented at the coming session of the Legislature providing for more rigid inspection of brands.

The measure provides that a brand inspector shall be appointed and paid by the association and shall have full legal authority to make arrests and seize stolen animals or to hold animals suspected of having been stolen.

The meeting was held in connection with the livestock show, which is being held at the Union Stockyards this week. The Oregon Cattle and Horse Raisers' Association was organized with 100 members in May of 1913, and now has 282 members.

REED PLAY IS NAMED

GIRL STUDENTS TRY OUT FOR "EVERYWOMAN'S ROAD."

Morality Production With Only Four Speaking Parts and of Pageant Nature to Be Given Soon.

Reed College after several weeks' consideration has decided definitely to produce "Everywoman's Road," a morality play, written by Professor Josephine Hammond. The play was written when Miss Hammond was in Boston and was head of the English department and director of dramatics in the Girls' High School of Practical Arts.

The date for the production of the play has not been decided upon, but it will not be given until late in the second semester. It is probable that there will not be enough women in the college to handle all of the parts and that some of the parts will be required.
