CASH BOND ELIMINATED

ELECTRICAL WORKERS WIN FIGHT

AGAINST PROPOSED RULE.

Commissioner Dieck, After Hearing, Says He Will Recommend Provision Be Not Included in New Code.

Electrical workers and small electrical contractors won their fight yesterday against incorporating in a proposed new electrical code a provision requiring that a cash bond of $100, in addition to a surety bond of $500, be deposited with the city to guarantee the proper installation of electrical fixtures. The small concerns and the workmen charged that the proposal was a scheme of the larger concerns to put some of the persons who do electrical contracting on small scale out of business.

A hearing was held by City Commissioner Dieck, who announced after it that he would recommend to the City Council that the cash bond be not considered. The opposition in the fight was headed by Eugene E. Smith, business agent of the Electrical Workers' Union. The advocates of the provision were represented principally by F. D. Weber, of the Underwriters' Association.

City Attorney La Roche expressed his opinion to the effect that the cash bond would be unreasonable. The surety bonds under the plan now in effect, City Attorney La Roche said, give protection to no one but the city. It was pointed out, however, that the bond could be made to offer protection to property owners in case of defective work being done.

There was considerable controversy over the question of a board of appeals. Workmen and small contractors argued that such a board could be made an agency of persecution rather than a board of arbitration. The question was not settled.

The electrical workers, at the close of the meeting, presented a proposal to have the city prohibit any man with less than four years' experience from serving in any capacity excepting as an electrician's helper. It was denounced by the larger contractors. Mr. Dieck will pass on the matter later. He proposed to submit the proposed new code to the City Council for action next week.

Sufferers, Half of Which Will Be

Provided by Oregon Residents.

Remainder in Washington.

The Belgian relief committee appointed by Governor West, of which Samuel Hill is chairman, has availed itself of the state-wide organization of the Oregon Development League in its campaign to raise funds and supplies for the Belgian relief ship.

Mr. Hill announced yesterday that T. B. Wilcox, president of the Oregon Development League, has consented to become chairman of a committee of the league, which will co-operate with the Governor's committee in the campaign to raise the fund and supplies.

Half of the cargo of the ship which is to sail in the near future from the Portland municipal dock, carrying a supply of food to the starving Belgian refugees, is to be raised in Oregon and loaded in Portland. The other half will be taken on at Puget Sound ports.

Remittances to the Oregon Development League committee, if in money by check, should be made payable to "Theodore B. Wilcox, for Belgian Relief."

"Oregon must meet the obligation that has been placed upon her at this time," said Mr. Wilcox yesterday. "There are no 'ifs, ands or buts' about it. It is up to Oregon to donate and to donate liberally."

"Never before was there a greater opportunity offered for the citizens of Oregon to show their generosity and their sympathy for a distressed people. All subscriptions should be made in money or in non-perishable food supplies, with the understanding that donations of money will be converted into non-perishable food supplies under the supervision of the committee appointed by the Governor, of which Samuel Hill is chairman."
