By Gertrude P. Corbett

ALL important on mltady's social calendar yesterday was the opening dance of the Cinderellas, which took place last night at the Waverly Country Club. The organization is made up of 30 charming members of the younger set, who entertained an equal number of their men friends. The affair was under the chaperonage of the patronesses, who are Mrs. Theodore B. Wilcox, Mrs. William MacMaster, Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett, Mrs. Cookingham and Mrs. Joseph N. Teal.

On Wednesday evening Miss Myrtle Blake entertained with a charming dance party for her sister, Miss Greta Blake, whose wedding to Kenneth Dalby, of Vancouver, B. C., will take place on December 20.

In addition to the honor guest there were Mrs. H. R. Dunaway, Mrs. Norton, Misses Gladys Farrell, Edith Sutmeyer, Margaret Jones, Ruth Agnes, Frances Agnes, Mrs. W. Masters, Miss Florence Ogden, Mrs. Berryman, Miss Gertrude May, Miss Myrtle Roberts, Miss Christine Parrott, Miss Flora Belle Parrott, Mrs. H. W. Graham, Mr. Norton, Mr. Wahershak, Lionel Church, Archie McAllen, Walter Conwath, Paul Goddard, Gordon, Floyd Payne, Dewey Herald, Mr. Berryman, Harold Godfrey, Lester Ogden, Charles Hoffman, H. W. Graham, Daniel Haley and Emerson Blake.

Society is much interested in the concert to be given this evening at the Heilig Theater under the direction of Steers & Coman, the attraction being John McCormack. A few dinners will precede this affair, and several matrons have planned to attend.

Mrs. George E. Chamberlain and daughters, the Misses Lee and Fanny, are temporarily domiciled with the former's daughter, Mrs. H. R. Galtner, during the remodeling of the Chamberlain residence.

Mrs. W. A. Elliot will entertain the members of the Art Association at a charming costume party at her home on January 8. The guests are to be garbed to represent various old masterpieces of famous artists. The affair promises to be not only artistic, but decidedly unique and charming. The members of the art association represent matrons and maids of Portland society.

Mrs. Charles T. Courtney, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. Coulson Hare, for ten days, left yesterday for her home in Astoria. Her visit in this city Mrs. Courtney was entertained delightfully at luncheons, dinners and theater parties.

A most charming affair was the Monday Musical Club "at home," at the beautiful Irving Hotel, when Mrs. Roscoe Giltner, on Monday afternoon, about 200 women were present.

Mrs. Giltner received in an imported cream embroidered marquisette gown and carried red roses.

The decorations were appropriate for the holiday season. Palm, holly, red carnations and colored lights and a fountain playing in the conservatory made the rooms a veritable fairyland.

A most enjoyable musical programme was given by Mrs. M. E. Ross, vocalist; Mrs. E. L. Knight, violinist, and Lucien Becker, pianist.

After the programme a delightful social hour was enjoyed. Mrs. Suzanne Patterson, Mrs. Rodney Herrick and Mrs. Joseph Stafford presided at the samovars.

W. A. Sellwood, secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association at Doty, Wash., and Miss Estelle Lucy Coas were married at St. John's Episcopal Church by Rev. J. D. Wright yesterday.

Mr. Sellwood is a member of an Oregon pioneer family and has been connected with the Industrial Young Men's Christian Association for years. He was secretary for time at Kelso, Wash. Mrs. Sellwood was connected with the New York office of the Episcopal Missionary Society, with headquarters in New York, until a year ago.

Mrs. Sellwood wore a seal brown traveling suit, white crepe de chine blouse and she carried a shower bouquet of roses.

Only immediate friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Sellwood left at 4 o'clock yesterday for their new home in Doty.

Charles Henry Davis, Jr., who has been making a tour of the timber country for the past few weeks, returned to Portland Wednesday evening.

Homer A. Rogers, of Mount Hood Lodge, is passing a few days in town visiting friends. He is making preparations to enter the J. Wesley Ladd Ski Club and the Mazamas, who soon will make the ascent to the summit.

Mrs. Wade Pipes will entertain this evening for the benefit of the British Red Cross fund at her home.

The wedding of Miss Laura Bogardus, of Saginaw, Mich., and Charles Barnum, of Eugene, took place at the home of Mrs. A. W. DeLong, 101 East Seventh street, Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The home was decorated prettily with ferns and roses, and the ceremony performed by Dr. W. B. Hinson, witnessed by a few intimate friends.

THE SANDMAN STORY FOR TO-NIGHT
By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

Drusilla's Dilemma.
ONE night after Drusilla had returned from the hospital Bobby Jones popped out of his box and asked: "What is the matter, Drusilla, have you had another accident?" "Accident?" questioned Drusilla.

"Yes," said Bobby, "you look so queer in that long white dress, and I thought it might be medicine. Where are your own clothes?" "Well, Bobby Jones, I don't feel quite sure whether I am having an advanture or whether, as you say, I have met with an accident.

"This bottle is filled with milk, and it is my supper. I was put to bed with it, because that is the way they do with the new baby downstairs, and because he wears a long dress, I have to."

"He!" echoed Bobby Jones. "Do you mean to tell me, Drusilla, that a boy has come to live here all the time?" "I can't say whether he has come to stay or not, but he is my little mother's brother, and I reckon he will live here."

"Oh dear, oh dear!" sighed Bobby Jones. "What will become of us?" "Oh, he is very little," explained Drusilla; "not much bigger than I am. It will be a long time before he can get up here. I am not worrying about that; it is whether I am to be a baby or not that I am fretting about."

"Why will you have to be a baby?" asked Bobby; "isn't one in the house enough?" "You would think so if you could hear him cry," answered Drusilla; "but the trouble is this—my little mother wants to play with the new baby; she wants it for a doll, and when the nurse would not let her give it a bath and dress it she began to cry."

"So they told my little mother to play like a baby, and do all the things the nurse did with the new baby."

"That is the reason I have on this dress. It is much too big, and now instead of candy and cake I have to take milk from the bottle."

"I have to be put in a baby and stay there until the new baby is taken up, and I can't go out in my carriage because I am too young. I am all powder and have to have all my clothes pinned with safety pins because they are too large, and sometimes the pin is not at all safe. Why, this minute there is one sticking in my back."

"Your little mother will get tired of playing you are a baby, said Bobby, who was trying hard to help Drusilla bear her trouble calmly. "You will be dressed in your own clothes in a day or two, and riding in the park as though you were a baby all day."

"Oh, dear! I do hope so, Bobby Jones," said Drusilla. "Here I do not know whether I have to grow up all over again or whether I should be a boy or a girl. This isn't an adventure or an accident; it is a dilemma."

"Good night, Bobby, I don't suppose I should have talked to you tonight, because the new baby can do nothing but cry, but whatever happens I hope to be able to talk to you at night, even if I have to be a baby all day."

DORIS BLAKE'S ADVICE.

Calls Once a Week.
"D EAR Miss Blake: I am 23 and my fiancé is 25. We have been engaged six months. He calls Sunday evenings only, stating that business keeps him occupied the rest of the week. I know that he attends public places and escorts girls home from these affairs. He very seldom takes me out, for he pretends that he is saving to get married. Shall I break our engagement? Do you think he would continue the same after marriage? Do you think lost confidence can be regained?"

I think that the man is treating you unfairly. If he has time and money to spend on other girls, he surely should do more for you than merely to call upon you once a week. However, it is your fiancé's privilege to know why you are breaking the engagement. If you break it, tell him quite frankly what the trouble is. If he is earnest about wanting to marry you he will reform. If he does not reform, you would not want to marry him, anyway, would you?"

He Is Angry.
"Dear Miss Blake: Several weeks ago a boy friend of mine asked me for a date, which I readily gave. Afterward another boy friend insisted that I had already given him an engagement for that evening, and I remembered then that I had. I thought the only thing to do would be to tell the first boy that I couldn't see him, which I did. He got real mad and I haven't seen him since, except to speak to. I think a great deal of them both, and I see no reason why the second boy should have acted that way. Do you do you think I should be the first one to make advances? PERPLEXED."

You should have explained the matter frankly to both of the boys. I am sure that the first one would have realized your position when he knew that you had a previous engagement. I judge from your letter that you did stitute. Messrs. Noyes and Jones assisted him by contributing musical selections. Miss Isabella Gauld, Miss Cornelia Cook and Miss Dorothy Sanford presided over the feast that followed the programme. They had planned the refreshments which were quite elaborate and were appreciated greatly by the boys.

"The institute will not hold its regular big Christmas this year, as most of their work will be done by the staff. Miss Catlin's school will hold an entertainment on Christmas eve when 25 of the boys of the People's Institute will be guests of the school."

The workers of the institute are busy investigating cases which they will help during the holidays. They make a plea that all who provide baskets for the poor put in them some staple groceries. Good substantial food is needed more than the fancy articles.

Kipling will be the subject of the literary department's hour this afternoon in the Portland Woman's Club. Professor W. G. Harrington, of the Pacific University, will speak on "Kipling's Kipling," and songs from among the poems of the same author will be sung by Mrs. Ione Townsend.

The opening meeting of the gifted youths' singers frequently heard at club gatherings during this season. This meeting will be called to order by the chairman, Mrs. D. Spencer, at 2:30 o'clock after the lecture on art by Dr. Rebec, which will begin at 2:30 o'clock. The opening meeting of the afternoon will be that of the Psychology Club department.

Llewellyn Parent-Teacher Association will give a Christmas entertainment this evening when the children of the school will participate. A candy sale will be conducted by the pupils of the upper grades. This will take the place of the regular meeting.

The members of the Council of Jewish Women are interested in the sale of their Neighborhood cookbook, which is being conducted by the members in the Eilers music store. Each day a different group of members preside in the booth.

The Gleason Society of the Anabel Presbyterian Church held its regular meeting on Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. S. A. Gentry. The members went on record pledging themselves to purchase Oregon-made goods for all the coming year provided these goods can be bought as cheaply as others. The members expressed a wish to see the coming year provided and publish a list of home-manufactured articles. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. J. A. Gibson, 5506 Thirtieth avenue Southeast.

The Multnomah County W. C. T. U. held an institute this afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. P. Alloway. Department work of the organization was discussed along educational and legislative lines. Mrs. G. L. Euland spoke on the educational work and Mrs. M. L. T. Hidden on the legislative work.

Many of the bills which are to come before the legislature were brought under discussion.

STOCKMAN'S WIFE FINED
Mrs. A. C. Ruby Drives Auto Between Standing Car and Curb.

Mrs. A. C. Ruby, wife of a wealthy Portland stockman, was fined $5 yesterday by Municipal Judge Stevenson for driving her electric brougham between a streetcar and the curb, while the car had stopped to discharge passengers. This is a violation of a city ordinance that is being enforced by the police at the instance of the Public Safety Commission.

Harry P. Coffin, chairman of the Commission, first brought the charge against Mrs. Ruby, but adding that he had not been driving the machine at the time, changed the indictment to his wife. Mr. Ruby appeared for her in court and paid the fine.

Women's Clubs
By Edith Knight Holmes.

THE Daughters of the Confederacy held their regular meeting yesterday in the Hotel Portland. After a delightful Christmas programme the members and their guests were served with tea in the grill. The tables were decorated artistically for the occasion.

Among the interesting numbers were the following which were contributed to the programme: Solo, Mrs. Curtis Simmons; accompanied by Mrs. Fay Huntington; reading, "Christmas Night in the Quarters," Mrs. C. M. Kiggins; recitation, "Minty Malvina's Christmas Gifts," Miss Grace Miller. A message was read from the president, Mrs. F. Joplin who is in San Francisco, in her absence, Mrs. Morton presided.

The West Portland Parent-Teacher Circle will meet this afternoon at 1 o'clock in the clubrooms. The teachers and the children have joined with the parents and have arranged a special Christmas programme. Miss Jessie Miller of the Portland Library, will tell her Christmas stories. A tree and refreshments are among the attractions in store for those who attend. All residents of the community are invited to attend.

In the People's Institute these are busy days. On Wednesday the Mothers' Club of the Albina branch entertained with a Christmas party and Mrs. John Claire Monteith arranged the programme that was the source of great enjoyment.

On Tuesday night the Triad Club held a Christmas social. On Monday night Ray Small arranged a party for the boys of the Albina In-

"CHRISTMAS COMING AND NOTHING TO WEAR! WHAT AM I TO DO?"

"Here's an invitation to my cousin's ranch for a glorious holiday house party. Big crowd from college, you know, and there'll be all sorts of festivities. For a minute I was pleased. Then up popped a mental picture of my wardrobe—nothing new or smart in it—and I just sighed 'hopeless!'"

"Phyllis, it isn't! Here's where we try that CREDIT PLAN OF CHERY'S that the girls tell me is so perfectly splendid. I'll go up with you tomorrow."

"Get a Redingote suit—a dark blue one, or any other of the stylish shades—and pay for it ON INSTALLMENTS. Then a dress! CHERY'S have such darling fluff chiffon saved silk ones with lacy overskirts for as low as $14.95. Oh, I'm not imagining! I saw them all and more, too, for sale there ON CREDIT."

"Irene wanted to get her new suit that had been altered a little, and while we waited I saw just enough to make me long to go again. They're in the Pittcock block, 289-291 Washington st., and by-the-way, they are open Saturday evening, till 10 o'clock."

without any compensation except the regular salary. In the past extra allowances have been made for cases which took him to the Supreme Court. This was the last regular meeting before the new Council will assume its duties. Several of the Councilmembers were present.

BOY FILM AT MAJESTIC
"SAVED FROM LIFE OF CRIME" IS SCREENED SERMON.

Picture Approved by Juvenile Courts and "Big Brother" Movement Shows Saving of Venturesome Lad.

A toy pistol, a lurid dime novel and evil associates almost contribute to the downfall of a boy in "Saved From a Life of Crime" at the Majestic Theater. The film has been commended and recommended by the "Big Brother" and juvenile courts as being one of the best sermons for a boy ever visualized.

It shows how the growing boy, starting out in the holiday game with a toy pistol for a weapon and a dime novel for a guide is swayed from the life of crime through the efforts of the "Big Brother" and juvenile courts as being ever visualized.

A Biograph comedy-drama, "A Scrap of Paper," and a Vitaphone comedy, "The Mysterious Mr. Davsey," add a bright touch to the programme, and the Hearst-Selig Weekly gives interesting current events.

Beginning Sunday, Catherine Coultiss, formerly of the Baker players, and Charles Richman will appear in "The Idler."
