Puget Sound Tugboat Goliah Appears Off Columbia.

RENTAL OFFER REJECTED

With Activity in Grain Trade Increased, Shipping Is Expected and Lively Scramble for Business May Result.

With the arrival off the Columbia River yesterday of the tug Goliah, of the Puget Sound Tugboat Company's fieet, that corporation is said to have thrown its gauntlet into the ring of competition with the Port of Portland in towing ships in and out of the river. The Goliah and Tatoosh were sent there the first time in September, 1911, and came unannounced, the same as the former did yesterday. During the 1911-12 season there was strenuous opposition there, but since the Spring of 1912 the Port of Portland has controlled the field.

Recently the Puget Sound Tugboat Company offered to lease a tug to the Port of Portland, and it was considered briefly at the last meeting, but as it had been determined previously to reestablish the pilot schooner Joseph Pulitzer off the bar, so that she could put pilots aboard all inbound vessels, and the tugs Oneonta and Wallula were service, another tug was not deemed

In information conveyed to the Port of Portland Commission it was said the Puget Sound corporation's fleet was not busy these days, which accounted for the tug being available for bar service. Whether a second tug will be ordered to the river is not known, but as there are a number of vessels on the list to load grain and there promises to be a busy time until Spring, it is regarded certain that the opposition will be strengthened as before.

as soon as the cold snap ends and southerly winds blow. Then there will be a scramble between the two tug fleets to be the first to reach inbounds.

The British bark Oweenee, grainladen for the United Kingdom, towed to sea at 11:55 o'clock. There is a wager between her crew and that of the British bark Crown of India, which towed to sea at 12:45 o'clock Friday, as to which will be first to arrive out.

The Oweenee has a number of good rivals were reported.

akes is disfiguring all the wooden nulls. The sheathing will be fastened on around the waterline, just wide enough to ward off the cakes.

All traffic on the Upper Snake has ceased on account of ice and low water. It is reported that the Columbia is frozen over for a distance of several miles around St. Helens and Warrior

A thin sheet of ice ran well out from the shores of the Willamette early yesterday morning, but the river was not frozen over. The ice disappeared when

DREDGE ORDERED TO SAFETY

Multnomah Will Be Taken to Coal Creek for Fear of Damage by Ice.

Danger from floating ice prompted Government engineers to order the dredge Multnomah shifted yesterday from Mount Coffin to Coal Creek, as a large amount of ice was reported being carried down stream which might have played havor with the pontoon pipeline of the digger. The Port of Portland towboat Ocklahama was sent to shift the Mult-nomah, and as the latter is equipped with an ice cutter, it was not thought she would meet with difficulty making her way between the mouth of the

The steamer Geo, W. Elder sailed this evening for Eureka and Coos Bay with freight and passengers from Portland and Astoria.

TOLEDO, Or., Dec. 20.—(Special.)— The steamship Bandon, of San Franor steamship Bandon, of San Francisco, arrived in Toledo Tuesday and left Friday, loaded with 600,000 feet of lumber from the Moore Lumber Company, of San Francisco.

Marine Notes.

The steamer William Chatham, en route from Tacoma to Portland under charter to W. R. Grace & Co., ran ashore at Marrowstone Point Saturday night. The damage was slight, according to a report received by the Merchante Exchange vesterday, although cording to a report received by the Mer-chants' Exchange yesterday, although there was a slight leak in the forepeak, Marrowstone Point is in the Strate of Juan de Fuca, 70 miles from Ta-coma. The vessel was ashore about three hours. She returned to Seattle after the mishap and was expected to resume her voyage last night. The cause of the accident was not reported.
