CONSERVATION ACTS ARE UNLIKELY SOON

Administration Programme Is Expected to Meet Opposition in Senate.

LEASING PLAN NOT LIKED

System Again Would Concentrate Power in Washington and Keep States From Collection of Taxes, Are Arguments.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Wash ington, Dec. 4.—The Administration's conservation programme will not slip through the Senate as easily as it went through the House of Representatives, and there is no certainty that the re-maining conservation bills can be passed before the close of the short ses sion. Western Senators, generally, disapprove of the leasing system which is embodied in the three big conservathe committees which now have them in charge.

When the Alaska soal land leasing bill was being considered by the Senate last Fall, several westerners, and particularly Senator Shafroth of Colorado and Senator Borah of Idaho except the second section.

Commany but State Description will not be granted to those whose countries so desire.

Representatives of South American republics have informed Secretary Bryan of the receipt of such notice from radio and Senator Borah of Idaho except the second section of the receipt of such notice from radio and Senator Borah of Idaho except the second section of the receipt of such notice from radio and Senator Borah of Idaho except the second section of the receipt of such notice from radio and Senator Borah of Idaho except the second section of the receipt of such notice from radio and senator Borah of Idaho except the second section of the receipt of such notice from radio and senator Borah of Idaho except the second section of the receipt of such notice from radio and senator Borah of Idaho except the second section of the receipt of such notice from radio and senator Borah of Idaho except the second section of the receipt of such notice from radio and senator Borah of the second section of the receipt of such notice from radio and section of the receipt of such notice from radio and section of the receipt of such notice from radio and section of the receipt of such notice from radio and section of the receipt of such notice from radio and section of the receipt of such notice from radio and section of the receipt of such notice from radio and section of the receipt of such notice from radio and section of the receipt of such notice from radio and section of the receipt of such notice from radio and section of the receipt of such notice from radio and section of the receipt of such notice from radio and section of the receipt of such notice from radio and section of the receipt of such notice from radio and section of the receipt of such notice from radio and section of t particularly Senator Shafroth of Colorado and Senator Borah, of Idaho, expressed their disbelief in the leasing system, especially as applied to the states. They did not make a protracted fight against the Alaska leasing bill. however, as they realized it must be a leasing bill or nothing, and they did not care to defeat the only bill which possibly could be passed with a view to opening up the Alaska coal fields for development.

Alaska being almost entirely made up of Government land, they conceded of the governing board of the Pandrican Commission, composed of Secretary Bryan and eight other members of the governing board of the Pandrican Commission.

with few exceptions, ventured the pre-liction that the leasing system would not prove a success. When the attempt is made to put through a general leasing bill providing for the development of the coal, oil, phosphate and other mineral lands in the Western states, a stubborn fight will be made by those who do not bepieve in the leasing system. One of the principal objections will be that there is already too much bureaucracy in the government service, and especially in those branches that deal with the West.

The rational forests are now admin. When the attempt is made to put through a general leasing bill provid-ing for the development of the coal,

The national forests are now administered largely from Washington; the public lands are under Washington direction, as are the Indian problems, and much of the discontent has been due to misunderstanding on the part of Washington officials of the conditions that prevail 2000 or 3000 miles away—that and because of delays in dealing with Washington. Under the leasing system, Washington again would be headquarters, and hundreds of new offices would have to be created to administer the leasing system. Furthermore, the objection will be The national forests are now admin public lands are under Washington direction, as are the Indian problems, and much of the discontent has been due to misunderstanding on the part due to develop and the part d

And lastly, comes the question of waste, which always has been found when the leasing system has been tried out.

These objections will apply, in most instances, to the leasing of power sites, as well as to the leasing of coal and other mineral lands, and the fight that is made on the leasing bill will be repeated on the water power bills, or vice versa, depending on which is first brought up for consideration. In all probability there are votes enough in the Senate to pass all the pending conservation bills, but with so much other legislation demanding attention this Winter, there is a doubt whether a vote can be had on the leasing bills before March 4.

Handle and carefully handled.

These objections will apply, in most of vessels through the canal is caused by the discharge into the great locks, all ready filled with sait water from the oceans at either end, of the perfectly fresh water which fills the prism of the canal and is supplied from the Charges and other rivers.

The result of the sudden mixture of the waters when the lock valves are opened is the creation of heavy currents which continue until the fresh water has thoroughly permeated the heavier salt water.

One of the prettiest Christmas pictures painted in lavish colors by the busy brush of charity was exhibited at the Albertina Kerr Nursery when its 38 gurgling, cooling, gleefully wrinkling charges were grouped about a "pitty twee" and initiated into the strange, gay rites of Christmas day.

Another of the allied charities was the gifts to city and county prisoners by the Oregon Prisoners' Aid Society. Each one of Sheriff Word's charges received a box containing a pound of cake, a glass of jelly, oranges, apples, nuts and candy. Similar boxes were delivered to all city prisoners. Another consignment was sent to the 485 prisers now confined in the Salem peni-

Prohibition Forces Say New Legislature Is Overwhelming on Their Side-Influx of Ousted Resorts Greatly Peared.

506 Panama bidg. Phone Main 9068. Washington and on January 1, 1915, go over into the prohibition column. This is the plan of the dry forces, who have raised in it one of the most momentous political issues in the his-tory of this state. The Legislature will be $5 per cent "dry," according to their figures. This means that not only will a constitutional amendment be passed but a statewide prohibition act will be placed on the statute books.

There are 61 votes in the next House of Representatives. Of this number the drys claim 45, or both two-thirds and a majority. In the Senate there are 33 votes. The drys believe they have 27 of these for both constitutional and legislative prohibition.

Fear that Idaho may be used as a stamping ground by the liquor traffic when Oregon and Washington go dry in 1916 has prompted the move to make the proposed act effective on the same date as the laws of the two Western border states. This will give the liquor interests in Idaho a year to prepare to go out of business.

William J. Herwig, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, has stirred party leaders with the peculiar condi-tions that confront prohibition advo-cates. After reviewing the legisla-tion passed in Oregon and Washington

"If we only submit a constitutional amendment we will not be able to vote on this amendment until ten months later than January 1, 1316. During this time Idaho would become the dumping ground of the liquor traffic of the states of Washington and Oregon. We need Idaho dry for our own protection."

That there will be some lively sidestepping in the new Legislature over the prohibition issue is now conceded by party leaders. This will be brought about by a dispute as to the exact meaning of the Republican party pro-hibition plank. The Republicans have control of both branches of the Leg-

The party platform convention nailed into the platform a plank providing that in the event a two-thirds majority membership was elected to the Legislature a constitutional amendment would be passed, and in the event there was not a two-thirds membership elected a statewide problitting.
