

ROSARIANS MAKE MERRY AS THEY GO

Miles of Band Concerts Signalize Entry of Party into Southern Oregon.

LASSEN WILL BE VIEWED

Oregonians on Way to Dedication of State Building at Exposition to Rise at 5 A. M. to Observe New Volcano.

HORN BROOK, Cal., Dec. 29.—(Special.)—Fifteen miles of band concert over the cement highway between Medford and Ashland signaled the entrance of the Royal Rosarians into Southern Oregon today, en route to California.

The Rosarians had been enjoying themselves thoroughly all the way out of Portland, when they were not asleep but it was in Medford that they really had a full awakening to the enthusiasm of the trip.

At Roseburg the band hopped off the train long enough to serenade the city, and all along the way there was a continuous concert going on in the observation car, under the direction of E. E. McClaren, manager of the band.

Medford Committee Waiting. When the crowd reached Medford the committee from the Medford Chamber of Commerce was waiting for it with a score or more of automobiles parked beside the depot.

At the station in Ashland, white waiting for the train to start, the Rosarians frolicked about the station, while the motion-picture operator of the Northwest Weekly faithfully cranked away, making a record of this stage of their trip.

A wedding party was boarding the train at this point and when the band saw a trunk tumbled on board, decorated with white ribbons and orange blossoms, it cut loose in an impromptu rendition of Mendelssohn's wedding march that sent the whole local delegation of rice throwers into storms of applause.

The committee that met the party at Medford and piloted it across country to Ashland consisted of Benjamin Sheldon, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce; M. Alfred C. M. English, C. E. Gates, J. C. Murphy, Dr. E. H. Porter, Dr. S. Seeley, Fred Powell, Perry Ashcroft, E. J. Trowbridge, A. S. Rosenthal and J. A. Kidd.

Edward Boyce Initiated. Edward Boyce, president of the Portland Hotel company, following his initiation into the roars on board the train, held a party for everybody and gave a box of candy to every woman on the train.

The Rosarians will tumble out of their berths at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning in hope of seeing the continuing performance of Mount Lassen as they go by, and at 8 1/2 will stop at Sacramento, where they will receive the formal welcome of the Governor of California.

LARGE CROWD IS EXPECTED Rosarians to Have Charge of Program on Exposition Grounds. SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—(Special.)—The dedication of the Oregon building at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition tomorrow promises to be the liveliest affair of the kind that has been held on the exposition grounds.

Reception to W. J. Hoffman, prince regent, and his wife, C. C. Collier, prince of the Royal Rosarians, and the Oregon State Commission, together with members of the Oregon State Society, in the Oregon building.

Address on behalf of the Oregon State Society by P. E. D'Arcy. Formal transfer of the architect's plans and the keys of the Oregon building to the contractor, Foster, Vogt & Co., to O. M. Clark, president of the Oregon State Commission.

Selection by Royal Rosarian Band, "Where Roll the Oregonian." Response and acceptance on behalf of the Commission by President Clark.

Formal dedication of the building as one of the exposition family of state buildings, by the Oregon Commission.

Soloists, Royal Rosarian Band, "I Love You, California." Address by C. C. Moore, president of the exposition.

Brief addresses by the exposition officials, George M. Hylan, president of the Oregon State Commission.

Investment of the honorary membership in the Order of Royal Rosarians to the Kingdom of Rosaria upon C. C. Moore and other officials.

Grand special exhibition initiatory ceremonies of the Royal Rosarians, by W. J. Hoffman, prince regent, C. C. Collier, prince of Rosaria; H. L. Pitcock, duke of Rosaria, and special degree masters, Sir Knights Sir Elmer George M. Hylan, W. R. Roman, Dean Vincent and J. Fred Larson, concluding with the crowd of the Rosarians, by Sir Knight G. H. Pike, and the planting of the Oregon rose bush in front of the Oregon building and vocal rendition of American and National airs.

Hundreds of boxes of Oregon apples have been shipped to the exposition grounds to be distributed among the visitors to the dedication.

WARFIELD SIMPLICITY ITSELF IN HOTEL CHAT

Famous Actor Recognizes Interviewer by Gown She Wore Two Years Ago, Smiles Charmingly and Has Rebuke for His Alleged Imitators.

BY LEONE CASS BAER.

Maybe it wasn't a compliment and maybe it was, but when I went to meet David Warfield last night at the Multnomah Hotel yesterday I was struck by the interesting genius, sitting in the lobby reading the editorials in The Oregonian, recognized my best dress as I hurried past him, and knew me before I knew him.

So few actors can resist the temptation to be grandiloquent, or as well as on. Mr. Warfield has never had in his speech or manners any influence of stage traditions. Always he demonstrates the artistic work of simplicity. I asked him about the Christmas he had just spent in San Francisco with his home people, and about the story his press gentleman tells us of it being the first time in 20 years that Mr. Warfield had Christmas at home.

Mr. Warfield's income being $2.85 per annum more than mine he didn't wear the same suit, but he did wear the same smile, a whimsical little boy smile that reaches out and finishes what his rare personality overlooks. He recognizes the efficiency of the expedient of simplicity even in his chats.

Stage Forgotten Outside. One thing that Mr. Warfield can't laugh at, no matter at what angle he views it, is the "correct imitations" of Mister David Warfield in "The Music Master." The "If-you-don't-want-her-I-want-hers" head the list of persons he would like to see hanged at sunrise.

First Unitarian Church, where the services were held. Dr. William G. Elliot, Jr., and Dr. T. L. Elliot, pastor and pastor emeritus of the Unitarian Church, and Dr. Luther R. Dwyer, pastor of the First Congregational Church, officiated.

Dr. J. Chunder Bose, of the University of Calcutta, who came from India to attend the convention, demonstrated at a meeting of the Botanical Society of America some of his experiments with the nerve centers of plants. He showed plant nerve tissue to correspond with that of animals and demonstrated that poisons acted on the sensitive nerve movements in the same manner as upon animals.

Dr. Tom A. Williams, of Washington, D. C., who discussed "The Craving for the Supernatural" at a joint meeting of the American Psychological Association and the Southern Society of Philosophy and Psychology declared that the condition which induces this craving may be a physical one, as an effect on the brain of a microbe, or poisoning, as in the case of De Maupassant, whose morbid feelings he interpreted into a second self of supernatural order.

At a joint meeting with the American Anthropological Association, Allison V. Armour reported on the recovery of $25,000 from the Italian government for breach of contract made by Turkey with the Institute for Archaeological Research Work at Cyrena, in Africa, Cyrene falling into the hands of Italy, which interrupted the excavations after the first year.

He also said that Turkey and Greece would not permit the taking out of their domains of any art treasures recovered through archaeological research and that the French had obtained practical monopoly of archaeological research in Persia.

John Franklin Crowell, of New York, said "the best lesson that we can learn from the combinations of the world today, that cause wars. One of the causes of war is the assumed right of one nation to tell how the ships of another nation shall float on the high seas," he added.

POLICEMAN AIDS IN WORK

Merle Brown, Wilbur Carl and Curtis McKinney Practically Smothered Flames by Stream From Hose in Building.

David Warfield, Noted Actor, Who Is at the Helix in a Revival of His Famous "The Auctioneer."

Through the courage and coolness of three 17-year-old boys, Jefferson High School was saved last night from a fire that broke out on the third floor of the building at about 7:30 o'clock. About $1000 damage was done to the building.

The boys—Merle Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Brown, 146 Summer street; Wilbur Carl, son of Rev. and Mrs. George Carl, 1125 Albina avenue, and Curtis McKinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. McKinney, 1081 Kirby street—belong to the high school fire department, the efficient student organization conceived and perfected by Principal Hopkins and his staff.

Merle Brown was in his father's home when a woman ran frantically to the door, shouting for a stream of water. The lad hastened to the nearest firebox and turned in the alarm. Wilbur Carl and Curtis McKinney were at their homes when the fire apparatus went past.

The damage was caused chiefly by the water, which flooded the building and did much damage to the furniture. The school has been closed for the holidays.
