

HOTELMEN VOTE TO ASK FOR ELECTION

Proposed Amendment to Permit Liquor Sales Drafted and is Approved.

NOVEMBER IS CHOSEN

Petition Asks Measure Be Submitted to People This Year—Speakers Say Plan Will Regulate and Cut Use of Intoxicants.

Members of the Oregon State Hotelmen's Association, who met yesterday in annual session at the Hotel Multnomah, unanimously adopted a petition to be submitted to the Legislature asking that an election be held in November, 1915, to vote on an amendment to the prohibition amendment which was passed at the last general election.

Almost the entire session was devoted to a consideration of the proposed amendment. M. C. Dickinson, president of the association, who presided, explained the essential features of the measure and after it had been read a few minor changes were made before its adoption.

The last election showed conclusively that the people of Oregon do not want the "open saloon," said Mr. Dickinson, in the course of his remarks. "The public bar has been a bad thing," he said, "and it is believed that a few minor changes were made before its adoption."

"In our amended proposal we propose to make greater safeguards against the promiscuous use of liquors. We think that residents of hotels and hotel guests should have the same privilege as the person in his home in regard to the use of liquors. At the same time we believe that the provision of the prohibition amendment permitting the use of five gallons of liquors in a year, every four weeks is not stringent enough. As a matter of fact, we believe less liquor in homes should be permitted."

Possible Consumption Figured.—The population of Oregon is 150,000. Figuring four people to the family, there are 37,500 families in the state. Figuring 20 gallons of beer for each family every four weeks, there would be 3,000,000 gallons of beer allowed to the families of Oregon each four weeks. Inasmuch as there are 50 gallons to the barrel, this would amount to 60,000 barrels, or 1,200,000 gallons a year. The product of all the breweries of the state is scarcely 300,000 barrels a year, and yet the prohibition advocates would deny the manufacture of liquor within the state, destroy millions of dollars invested in plants and drive a great payroll from the state to the benefit of the manufacturers in other states.

Figuring the same way on five gallons of vinous or spirituous liquors, there would be 937,500 gallons of liquor allowed to the families of Oregon every four weeks. As there are 40 gallons to the barrel, this would amount to 23,437 barrels, or 468,750 gallons a year. Reduction in Use Believed.—Our amendment will have the effect of reducing the consumption of liquor, of regulating its use in the homes as well as in the hotels and of reducing the chances for illicit sale of liquor. Our penalties are so rigid and safeguards so drastic that the operation of our amendment should prove more satisfactory and effective than the prohibition amendment.

Discussion of the proposed amendment brought out the expression from the hotelmen that there would be a more moderate use of liquor in Oregon with the adoption of the amendment than the prohibition amendment. It was announced that petitions calling for the special election in November will be circulated throughout the state. It is expected 50,000 signatures will be obtained. The petition will be submitted to the Legislature February 1 and on February 2 the members of the association will meet in Salem to explain the purposes of the amendment to members of the Legislature.

Following the adoption of the amendment the annual election was held. M. C. Dickinson, of the Hotel Oregon, was elected president; J. H. Metcahan, Jr., of the Imperial Hotel, vice-president; W. F. Osborn, of Paines, treasurer, and E. W. Beahm, of the Hotel News, secretary. R. O. Gates, of the Hotel Multnomah, was appointed chairman of the executive committee, and Phil Metcahan chairman of the legislative committee.

"HONOR BOY" IS TRUE

Judge McGinn Reports Lad Making Good After Four Months.

One "honor boy" paroled nearly four months ago by Circuit Judge McGinn, is making good. Shortly after Judge McGinn took the criminal department and declared that he didn't want to send any boys to the penitentiary, Henry Rogers, 18 years old, was brought before him for burglary.

"I wish I could find someone to parole this boy to someone who would take care of him," the judge said. "If you please, your honor, send a strange man rising from a seat in the rear of the courtroom, 'I'll take care of him. You may parole him to me if you wish.'"

Investigation proved that this was Patrick Kelly, a farmer who lived near The Dalles. Satisfied that he was a proper person to take care of the youth, Judge McGinn paroled young Rogers to him. A month later he received a letter from Kelly, declaring Rogers to be a good boy and a good worker.

Four times Judge McGinn has heard from Henry Rogers. Yesterday he got a note which said: "Dear Judge: Just a line to let you know that I am still here at Mr. Kelly's."

ty Judge and Assessor of Union County and later was a member of the State Board of Equalization. He was identified prominently with the State Grange and the Farmers' Alliance in this state. Judge Goodall was born in Jefferson County, Missouri, August 1, 1828. He enlisted when 18 years old in General Price's army and marched with that command through to Matamoras. He first came to Oregon in 1853, and after returning twice to Missouri, settled permanently in this state in 1859, living most of the time in Union and Linn Counties. For the last two years he lived at Brownsville.

est amusement street in the history of international exhibitions, but it is afforded probably as great or a greater variety of big "worth-while" attractions.

The length of the "Zone" is less than that of the magnificent chain of courts from the Palace of Fine Arts to the Palace of Transportation, and represents a comparatively insignificant portion of the distance from the eastern entrance of the Exposition to the western end of the athletic field at the other extremity.

A trip of observation at the present, although many of the attractions are just beginning to be installed, impresses one with the fact that there is practically a total absence of the ancient type of side show which seemed to exist for no other purpose than to collect admission. The "Zone," at a casual glance, looks like good fun and worth the price of admission, from one end to the other.

Lanterns Strung Along Street. One can enter the "Zone" "going or coming." From the Van Ness avenue entrance it is the first thing in the Exposition. The other end of it lies south of the Machinery Palace and the automobile exhibit, just to the right of the Filmore street entrance. Half way down the "Zone" there is a "Jog" in the street that gives one the impression that it is longer than it really is.

The lanterns along the street are hung on the spouts of little green seahorses, and on the top of every lantern post is a dolphin, flicking his tail up and down in a flip-flop off the pole in sheer exuberance. On each side, colossal faces and figures greet the passerby. There are two scenic railways on the "Zone." One is said to be the longest in the world. The shorter of the two has an entrance guarded by two pea-green, plaster elephants.

No amusement section would be complete without the reproduction of the "Great London Fire" or some other disaster reproduced in one of the concessions. To meet this time-honored demand of the public, the big Dayton flood is being installed in a building opposite the Teahupetep Village. The outside of the Teahupetep Village presents enough varieties of grotesque masks and ideas done in yellow and red and blue to make the chief totem whittler of all the Alaskan tribes wild with envy.

"Villages" Scattered Along Way. Peering through the entrance of another building one can see the two submarines that afford comfortable, dry trips to the bottom of the ocean and the "lost land of Atlantis" a little further down from the ramping, stamping steeds of Neptune is another concession designed to deal with the evolution of the dreadnought from the time of the Monitor and the Merrimack.

All manner of "villages," German and Alpine, Irish and Indian, are scattered along the "Zone." There are two "Days of '49," and its building is surmounted with a great, placid Buddha, white as a rain-blanching bone, waiting for the painter to dress him. Two of the biggest concessions are the reproductions of the Arizona Grand Canyon and of the Yellowstone National Park. The park towers up over the Zone just at the right of the Van Ness entrance. There are ostrich farms and alligator farms there, too.

The concession that is likely to be the whirlpool of meriment, whither everyone must circle and center at last, is the big concession occupied by "The Principality of Toyland." Two "tin soldiers," more than 50 feet high to the tops of their bearskin hats, stand stiffly at one of the gates, with the ticket windows glaring out of the tops of their monstrous boots.

Beauty Doctor Tells Secret. Detroit Beauty Doctor Gives Simple Recipe to Darken Gray Hair and Promote Its Growth.

Miss Alice Whitney, a well-known beauty doctor of Detroit, Mich., recently gave out the following statement: "Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home, at very little cost, that will darken gray hair, promote its growth and make it soft and glossy. To half a pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1/2 oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is also fine to promote the growth of the hair, relieve itching and scalp diseases and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair.—Adv.
