Coast Need Is Urgent. The Secretary said the enactment of the coast artillery bill would bring that arm of the service up to 50 per cent of the strength it would have in war. A single shot from a big gun, he said, would sink a $15,000,000 battleship, but no foe would take a chance against the coast defenses in order to drop a few random shells into cities.

This railing will not delay projects for which Congress makes ap-propirations this session, but the ruling is directly applicable to the proposed plan of co-operation between the State of Oregon and the Reclamation Service, Secretary Lane has held informally that if the state, prior to July 1, should furnish $450,000 to be used jointly with a like amount, which he tentatively al-lotted for the co-operative project, the smount so allotted by him would be available until expended. The Con-troller holds to the contrary and his decision is final. Therefore, if the state and the Government come to a final agreement before July 1 looking to co-operation, it will be necessary for Congress to make an appropriation for that purpose to carry on the work after July 1.
