RECIPE TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

By a Specialist.

A very satisfactory preparation which darkens gray hair and acts as a corrective agent for dandruff and other diseases of the scalp can be made at small expense and in your own home by dissolving a small box of Barbo Compound in 7 ounces of water and then adding an ounce of bay rum and a quarter ounce of glycerine. Any drug store can furnish these ingredients. This is to be applied once a week until the hair is sufficiently darkened, then every two weeks to keep the hair soft and glossy and the scalp in a healthy condition. It may be used with equal success on the hair of the beard. This is a preparation that gives splendid results, both as a hair darkener and a remedy for all scalp disorders, and is well worthy of a trial. You will find it far superior to the ordinary store preparations and much less expensive.—Adv.

OF PARAMOUNT importance in the social world as well as for the lovers of sport was the ice hockey match played last night at the Hippodrome. Incidental to the numerous box parties given by prominent society folk, there were many delightful dinner parties. The boxes were filled with charmingly-gowned women and their fur-unwrapped escorts. Among the box-holders who entertained parties ranging from four to eight guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Farrell, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. William MacMaster, Mr. and Mrs. Shepard Bells, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mackay, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wessinger, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Farrell, Mr. and Mrs. A. Much of the social interest of the week centers around the eminent actor, Sir Johnstone Forbes-Robertson, who has a host of admirers and personal friends in the smart set. He has been entertained informally since his arrival in this city, and will be the completed guest of Mrs. Solomon Hirsch on Thursday afternoon.

Friday night's skating party for the benefit of the Day Nursery under the auspices of the Fruit and Flower Mission is one of the most keenly anticipated events of the week. Particular attention will be given the amateur skaters in the competitions, both the juveniles and older people.

Miss Phoebe Hunt, a former San Francisco society belle now playing in the Orpheum, is being entertained by several prominent matrons. She is charming and very clever girl, and has been feted by society in every city she has visited on this tour. She studied for several months and was about to sail for Europe to further her studies when the war broke out. Yesterday Mrs. Harry Hogue, of the Nortonia, presided at a charming luncheon for Miss Hunt and the three women members of her little sketch, with Mrs. William Pangie as additional guest. The lunch followed an interesting motor trip about the city, and last night Mr. and Mrs. Hogue again entertained for Miss Hunt with a dinner party, additional guests being Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Ralph C. Today Mrs. Greenberg will be honored guest at a luncheon to be given by Mrs. Ben Selling at Hotel Benson.

The "hard times" social held on Monday by the Society of Oregon Artists at the studio of Miss Jeanne M. Stewart, 326 Pittcock block, was a great success. There was a large attendance, and the majority of the club being in grotesque costumes. The program was voted the best and Mrs. J. E. Miller's a close second. The program was nicely carried out, Mrs. Ada F. Elder giving an interesting talk on "Pictures in the Home," followed by a whistling solo by E. D. M. Fowie.

The Woman Who Doesn't Relax. A semi-invalid said to me the other day: "For years my physicians and myself have been trying to find the cause, the root so to speak, of my trouble. We have followed one theory and then another, but evidently we have never got hold of the real cause, for I do not get well. But yesterday I think I discovered it. The knowledge came in a flash, a sort of mental illumination, as it were."

"What do you think it is?" I asked, thinking perhaps her reply might help some of my reader friends who are not as well as they would like to be. "Ever since I was a young girl in my teens," she said, "I have been living at a tension. I came under the influence of a teacher, then, whose hobby was that one should fill every minute of one's life in some useful way, that not a moment should be wasted, its equivalent of something useful done. His idea was that even when standing on a street corner waiting for a car, one should be studying something. And he would tell us of the wonderful amount of things various people had learned by using their odd minutes. His doctrine sank into me and I started in on that programme. And I don't think from that time to this I have ever really relaxed or rested. I have not been able to do anything, always felt I must be doing something. And when circumstances interfered so I actually couldn't use my time in any way I believed to be inwardly fretted and chafed. I never went in for pleasure simply for the sake of the pleasure. When I took time for other things, I always felt I was looking upon it as a physical or mental tonic and so as a means to helping me work better. And this tension, this closed the anxiety to accomplish has put me where I am."

"After a few minutes she went on: 'I am going to quit it all now. I do not have to run the universe. I am going to enjoy just living for a while. I am going to enjoy flowers and people and stars just for what is in them, not for what they can get me. I am going to read real nonsensical books that haven't a page that is intellectually profitable. I am going to lie back physically and mentally, and I don't think all this tension inside of me that has tightened up every organ of my body will disappear.'"

"Do you not think she has made a profitable discovery?" "Perhaps there are others who may benefit by her suggestion. I think, as a rule, we women are apt to keep ourselves up too high. We have not to the extent that this woman did. But we do over-look. We do over-do. We are over-conscious, we are over-ambitious, we are over-urged. We do not take life simply enough. We do not stop so often as we should and just stand still and enjoy the good side of life. All about us we find that many of our physical ills would disappear."

DAN MOORE ASSAILS CHARGE THAT TOWN IS NEARLY BANKRUPT.

Resenting statements that have been circulated, particularly by an Astoria newspaper that the City of Seaside is practically bankrupt, Mr. Moore, well-known citizen of the latter place, characterized the statement as unqualifiedly false while in Portland on a business trip yesterday. Mr. Moore had just received statements from a firm of expert accountants in this city which has gone thoroughly into the books of the city, and this report, he said, entirely disproves the charge.

"During the past year," said Mr. Moore, "Seaside has put through no fewer than 26 different improvement projects, and the total cost of these improvements has been $1,800,000. These included street grading, paving, the enlarging of the water system and sidewalks. "During the past year Seaside has paved 20,000 yards of streets and graded many more; four and one-half miles of concrete sidewalks have been laid; a beach pipe, 18,000 feet long, of water pipe, a 75,000-gallon water tower have been installed, all of which the citizens of Seaside, whether or not they are strictly taxpayers, are proud of. "Naturally, improvements of this nature cannot be accomplished in a moment. It is the duty of the Council by the outgoing officers. Accountants who have gone over the city's books find that cash on hand and in the bank amount to $1,215,118 in the general fund, and in special funds there was $617,485, while there is due in taxes, including the 1914 taxes, $929,774. Special improvement bonds in Seaside have levied amounting to $40,821.37, while outstanding warrants, largely because of the semi-permanent improvements mentioned, amount to $19,824. Warrants drawn on the special fund total to $59,161.94, and of this sum $32,441.77 will be assumed by property owners, or money promptly refunded, less with this preparation. The Pinet Co., Ft. To Keep Your Skin Free From Hairs

(Beauty Topics)

If you are willing to spend a few minutes' time in your room using a delicate paste, you can easily banish any ugly hair growth without discomfort or injury. The paste is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This is then spread over the hairy surface and after about 2 minutes rubbed off and the skin washed. You will not be disappointed with this treatment, providing you get real delatone.—Adv.
