Fog Is Blamed.

The accident was peculiar, and probably was due to the fog. The motorman is reported to have underestimated the distance to the switch. When the car struck, the switch the front trucks stayed on the Upion avenue tracks, the rear wheels taking the Alberta-street turn, throwing the car completely over.

The car was No. 191. It is believed by F. A. Rasch, examiner for the State Raliroad Cammission, who was on the Raliway, Light & Power Company and it is said a deal may be closed.

It is said that negotiations between the Linnton interests and the United Raliways Company are progressing, the two sides having reached an agreement as to the value of the property. The Linnton interests, it is said, are trying to find a way of operating the line. The proposition has been put up to the Portland Rallway, Light & Power Company and it is said a deal may be closed.

Final Scene Effective.

He does not utter half a line and then stop to act again while the clock runs away with Shakeepeare's chances all the time. His novel and astonishingly effective and touching treatment of the final scene makes "the rest is slience" a touchingly humorous apology for not being able to finish his business, and an inspiration.

Forbes-Robertson is not only actor, but actor-manager, and the perform-ance shows the marks of his work throughout. The staging is magnifient, both in its lavish display and in its reserve force. The supporting com-pany is particularly fine; in no instance is there less than a splendid reading of Jean Tuckett portrayed the role of Ophelia with womanly charm and infinite delicacy. Dramatically satisfying and convincing was the art of Adeline Bourne as Queen Gertrude. With impressive sincerity and a fine sense of humor Ian Robertson makes old Potonius take on new color, and S. A. Cookson's study of Horatio is most dignified and clean cut.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone and three or four more applications will completely dis-solve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.
