BRIDGE AUTHORITY SHIFTED

Bill Filed to Put Interstate Span Under County and Governor.

STATE CAPITOL, Salem. Or., Jan 21. STATE CAPITOL, salem. Or., Jai 21.—
(Special)—To give the County Commissioners of Multnomah County and the Governor exclusive jurisdiction over the Oregon end of the interstate bridge across the Columbia River beover the Oregon end of the increases of the Columbia River between Portland and Vancouver, Wash, is the object of a bill introduced in the House today by the Multnomah delegation. While the measure is intended to enact a general law for the state it will affect the Portland-Vancouver beider only inamnuch as that couver bridge only, inasmuch as that is the only structure to which it will have immediate application.

At a meeting of the Multnomah delegation Wednesday afternoon members of the Railroad Commission pointed out that the present statutes are condictive, as they present the consecutive consecu flicting, as they prescribe one set of officials for construction of the bridge and another for its operation and maintenance. The Railroad Commission is designated as the operating body, but be fund any provided no funds are provided.

Commissioner Aitchison said that the Railroad Commission does not want to operate the bridge and suggested that the authority be turned over to the Governor and the County Commissioners acting for the state. The bill was introduced to conform with this view,

HER BILL DEFINING CONSPIRACY IS FAVORED.

Measure Is Filed to Prevent Collusion by Contractors in Bidding on Publie Work-Pennities Severe.

STATE CAPITOL, Salem, Jan. 21,-(Special.)—The House committee on revision of laws tonight voted to report favorably on Miss Towne's bill defining the crime of conspiracy and fixing a punishment for it. The measure will be reported to the House tomorrow morning and is expected to precipitate a controversy, inasmuch as it will af-fect all contractors who enter into

"It will prevent all collusive bidding," said S. B. Huston, chairman of the revision of laws committee, "and ought to be passed. The committee believes that the House should give it believes that the House should give it full consideration, as there seems to be a demand for a law of this kind."

Complaint has been made that in numerous cases recently contractors conspired to force up bids and that the state or the county was compelled to pay a much larger sum than actually necessary for the work. Miss Towne introduced the measure last Friday. "As request," but declared her faith in by request," but declared her faith in

One provision of the bill is that it provides a fine of not less than $100 or more than $1000 and imprisonment in the County Jail of from 30 days to one year or in the Penitentiary from one to five years. These penalties are considered unduly severe by a few members and it is probable that efforts will be made to have them modified. It is contended also that the bill as it is drawn is too broad and that it will affect not only persons who conspire to defraud the state, but those who conspire to break the state laws. spire to break the state laws.

STATE CAPITOL, Olympia, Wash., Jan. 21.—(Special.)—President Charles L. Mackenzie, of the Washington State Good Roads Association, the entire ex-Good Roads Association, the entire ex-ecutive committee of the organization and other good roads boosters from all parts of the state descended in force upon the Legislature today to urge that body to continue the permanent highway levy of 1½ mills. That their plea probably will be vain is indicated by a poll of the House taken by Representative McArdle, of Jefferson, chairman of the House roads and bridges committee, who advocates

Jefferson, chairman of the House roads and bridges committee, who advocates a reduction of 1 mill. With 73 of the 97 members of the lower house interviewed, McArdle found 62 favoring a reduction of the permanent highway levy, four favoring a reduction of both the permanent and public highway and seven standing for retention of both levies at their present figures.

Permanent Levy Wanted.

The good roads men were given an open hearing before the joint roads and bridges committees in the House chamber this afternoon and again tonight, many legislators and good roads advocates attending.
