

WET OR DRY IS THE ISSUE, BUT HOW DRY

Extent of Ban Discussed at Open Meeting of Joint Committee at Salem.

SOME OPPOSE ALL USE Absolute Prohibition Argued, but Others Warn Legislators Not to Go Beyond Amendment in Driving Liqueur Out.

STATE CAPITOL, Salem, Or., Jan. 22.—(Special).—A prohibition bill that actually will prohibit is desired by both the Oregon Legislature and the overwhelming majority of citizens who voted the state "dry" at the last November election.

This fact was brought out conclusively at an open meeting in the hall of the House of Representatives tonight between the joint committees on alcoholic liquor in both the House and Senate. While the pronounced sentiment of the meeting, which was attended by most of the members of both houses, as well as by interested persons from all over the state, were in favor of a "dry" bill, there was some division of opinion as to "how dry" to make it.

Judge E. V. Littlefield, of Portland, chairman of the House committee, reflected the spirit of the Legislature when he declared at the conclusion of the meeting:

Favorable Report Certain. "This committee is going to report favorably on a prohibition bill. You can rest assured of that point. We want to be sure of the kind of bill the state demands and of the constitutional points involved."

Prohibition workers from many Oregon cities and towns gathered in Salem this afternoon prior to the meeting and held an informal conference at which they expressed their confidence in the good faith shown by the legislative committees and at which they outlined their views on the principal questions at issue in the bills now pending in the House.

These questions, summed up by Judge Littlefield at the opening of the session, are: First, relative to the proper safeguard for drug-givers selling pure grain alcohol; second, whether or not there is a legitimate demand for drug-givers selling liquor for medicinal purposes; and third, regarding the shipment of intoxicants into the state for domestic use.

Senator Butler Applauded. A score of persons addressed the meeting on these points. Their ideas seemed to vary. Some of them favored absolute restrictions against selling liquor, while others advised a low limitation.

Senator Butler, of The Dalles, speaking, as he explained, as a private citizen, judging from the applause he received, expressed the sentiments of a large proportion of the crowd.
