

AGGIES WILL NOT PLAY WASHINGTON Football Games With Wolverine Aggies and Syracuse on 1915 Schedule.

TWO DATES STILL OPEN Demand for 50-50 Division of Receipts and Two-Year Contract, Refused by Doble's Team, Is Cause of Break.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Jan. 24.—(Special).—Quite a sensation was sprung here tonight when Dr. E. J. Stewart, head coach of all athletics, gave out his 1915 football schedule and the University of Washington was not included. Coach Stewart held a consultation with Graduate-Manager Younger, of the Northern institution, Friday night and offered October 30, but Manager Younger announced yesterday noon that that date was not acceptable.

Dr. Stewart immediately telegraphed East and closed a deal whereby the Oregon Aggies will play against Michigan at Lansing, Mich., on October 30. This is not the only big Eastern school that will play the local gridiron warriors, for Syracuse University has completed negotiations with Coach Stewart for a game to be played in Portland, November 30.

Two open dates remain on the Aggies' schedule, October 23 and November 12. It is hardly probable that either date will be used, as the Aggies will start for the East two days after October 23, and they will be in no condition to put up a good game against Michigan State if they play on that date. It is known that Dr. Stewart will not slate a match for November 12, as that is a week before the date for the University of Oregon annual tussle.

The break between the University of Washington and the Oregon Agricultural College came when the Northern refused to allow the locals 50 per cent on all tickets turned in at the gate. It is the policy of the university to allow the students admission on season passes and the visiting team does not share in the proceeds of these tickets.

When the two eleven met at Albany last Fall each squad received the same amount. The University wants the Oregon squad to play in Seattle, but the returning game must be played in Portland, refusing to play here.

Nine Games Scheduled. "We have nine hard games on the schedule now," said Dr. Stewart, "and while I would like to meet the University of Washington, it is not right that the Washington people should try to dictate to us. All we ask is an equal share, but they don't seem to want to grant that."

Two-Year Contract Asked. "Our idea is to form a two-year contract calling for a game in Seattle and one in Corvallis, each team obtaining 50 per cent of the gate, allowing 75 cents on each student ticket, or 27 1/2 cents each for each school. This isn't asking too much after what we have stood for so long."

Following is the 1915 schedule of the Oregon Aggies: September 25—Alumni at Corvallis. October 2—Blaine at Corvallis. October 9—Whitman at Corvallis. October 16—Washington State at Corvallis or Portland. October 23—Idaho at Corvallis. November 7—Idaho at Corvallis. November 12—Idaho at Eugene. November 20—University of Oregon at Eugene. November 26—University of Southern California at San Francisco. November 30—Syracuse University at Portland.

THISTLES TAKE GAME COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY SOCCER TEAM IS SHUT OUT.

Bears Defeat Portsmouth Squad by 4 to 0, but Game Is Not to Be Listed As One of League Matches. The Archer & Wiggins Thistles defeated Columbia University in a 2-to-0 soccer game on the University campus yesterday. One of the Thistles' scores was made in the first half by Sam Duncan, and the other in the second half by Bloom.

Columbia University was without the services of three of its stars, Ray Leonard, George Nixon and John Murphy. For the Thistles, Grier, Grey and Shevlin, three of Multnomah's stars, featured, with Rankin and Bloom. Stars for the university were Riggs, H. Jacobberger and Gill Shea.

Portsmouth met the Bears on one of Columbia's soccer fields and went down to a 4-to-0 defeat. The game was to have been a league match, but on account of the failure of nearly the whole Portsmouth team to show up, the game is not to be a league contest. For the Bears Adams, Young, Foster and Fleming each registered one goal.

Sidelights and Satire

BY ROSCOE FAWCETT. "The Battle at the Dock" and the "Charge of the Affidavit" will go down in history as the two memorable battles of the baseball war of 1914-1915. The former was fought in New York when the Giants-Sox tour ended last Spring; the latter is still on in the courts.

We don't pretend to know much about this affidavit business, but we do know a little of the brutality of the game of baseball that might strengthen the Federal's case.

For instance, there's the affidavit of Al Klawitter, Columbia pitcher. When with Sacramento in 1913 Klawitter was set upon by a hiring of Portland named Gus Plisher. Without giving even one day's notice, Plisher whacked a three-bagger with the bases full and the score 5-0 in Klawitter's favor in the ninth inning. Before the smoke cleared, Plisher had hit Klawitter on the head with a bat.

This bit of brutality could have been prevented by organized baseball employing trained instructors for various club managers.

The one note missing from the voluminous and vituperative "Charge of the Affidavit" is an account of the Krueger charging that he was traded to Los Angeles for a chicken dog.

We may not be a big leaguer, but some of the big league dope wouldn't get by out here. One big league pencil-pusher, who has been singing the swan song of the Federal in long and raucous tones for months, called forth the other day with the bald chorle that even should the Federal win this suit against organized baseball they would lose it for you.

MORE IS FIRM Krause May Go to Feds if He Likes, Says Manager.

POLICY TO BE FOLLOWED If Coast Leaguers Were Worth Major Salaries They'd Be in Majors, Is Declaration of Boss of Portland Champs.

Big Jack Ryan, of the Los Angeles club, may be transferred to the Washington Americans as penalty for holding out for more salary. This is the hope that comes from the South. Ryan is getting $2400, but "demands" $3000 and Ellis and Wolter of the same club are right with him.

"If I were running the Los Angeles club I would not send Ryan to the big leagues," remarked Walter McCredie, of the Portland champs. "I would politely tell him to go to the Feds. If Ryan or any other Coast League player was worth a major league salary he would not be here. He would be up there pitching. That is as much as Ryan ever got in his palmist days."

"They tell me Harry Clunie is well on the contract we sent him. Well, I am sorry. Krause is a good pitcher, but I hope he signs, but we can't pay out more than we take in. We have offered him all we can afford, and if he can't see it, he is welcome to go to the Feds."

"The trouble with most ball clubs is that some one or two players hold out for more money, and if you grant them what they demand, you are doing an injustice to some other player just as deserving. The Portland salaries are more equitable, I think, than any other roll in the league. We don't pay one man $500 or $600 a month, like San Francisco did to Leiffeld. Our aim is to make the standard as high as possible for all hands and the cook."

Nick Williams was present when the above colloquy and McCredie's course Walter's remarks started Nick's cogs working. "Well, sir," chimed in Nicholas, "I was pitching for San Francisco in 1905-06 when Andrew Clunie bought the club from Henry Harris and Clunie appointed me manager for a month in the winter. He sold immediately afterwards to Cal Ewing, so I lost my job as embryonic manager."

"Clunie didn't know much about baseball. He pulled out the salary list, averaged the bunch, and made every man's pay alike. He cut Charley Irwin about $1000, and talk about excitement. Some of these other outfielders are getting twice as much."

"Is that so?" inquired Clunie in surprise. "Well, I'll fix that." "Clunie then pulled out the salary list, averaged the bunch, and made every man's pay alike. He cut Charley Irwin about $1000, and talk about excitement. Some of these other outfielders are getting twice as much."

"Speed" McDonnell, of Venice, will not be a member of the Salt Lake City club after all. Hogan turned him over to the Mormons some weeks ago, but Blackship has notified him that he doesn't want McDonnell. Los Angeles is now negotiating for the Tiger utility player.

Walter McCredie is endeavoring to sign a young catcher named Barth, who worked in the Western Canada League last season. Barth is playing Winter ball in Southern California and Kid Mohler has been boosting him to the skies. Oakland also is angling for the youngster.

Buddy Ryan thinks Fred Derrick is by far the best baseman in the Pacific Coast League. "He is two to one better than Doc Johnson, of the 1913 and 1914 Cleveland club," said Buddy yesterday.

MULTNOMAH BASKETBALL PLAYERS CRUMPLE IN SECOND PERIOD. WEONAS WIN 25 TO 11.

MULTNOMAH BASKETBALL PLAYERS CRUMPLE IN SECOND PERIOD. WEONAS WIN 25 TO 11. The Weonas basketball team defeated Multnomah in the second period and before the audience knew what had happened the Weonas were returned winners, 25 to 11, in the main game of the Portland Basketball League, played in the club gymnasium Saturday night. By virtue of this victory the Weonas are the likely basket-tossers who will be sent South to represent the league.

One more game remains in the Weona schedule, but little difficulty is expected when the two meet. The contest last night was fast and furious and it was not until the middle of the second period that the tide took a decided turn. When half time was ordered by Referee Jamison the count stood 19 to 8, with the winners on the long end.

Not a field basket was annexed by the clubmen in the final period and the only points scored by them were made by masters' fouls. H. A. Goodie, one of the winning forwards, registered 15 points, having scored six field baskets and three fouls.

The Weonas showed to the best advantage at teamwork, and it was one of the main things in the downfall of Multnomah. In the preliminary game the Lincoln High School trimmed the team picked from the second string of the club, by the score of 16 to 8.

Following are the lineups: Weonas (25) P. Multnomah (11) Goodie (15) F. ... Roseman (12) Lewis (12) F. ... Masters (10) Irle (4) F. ... G. ... Toomey ... Edwards ... Charles ... R. G. Hennacker and E. Anderson, timers; P. Lee, scorer. Time of halves, 20 minutes each.

Little difficulty was experienced by the Weonas in defeating the St. Helens Sunset Athletic Club basketball team at St. Helens Saturday night, 44 to 12. This game was the first of a series of games between the St. Helens team, while the teamwork of the visitors was their mainstay.

The lineups: St. Helens (22) Propp (12) F. ... Capt. Sen ... McKellogg ... Wood ... Perry ... Referee, McNaully.

Manager John D. Dwyer took his Pacific Hardware & Steel Company still-ettes to Hillsboro Saturday night and administered a defeat to the Hillsboro basketball team, 24 to 12. This was five straight victories for the Stilettes. Ashworth, Elvers and Brooke were the best for the Portlanders, while Long was the star for Hillsboro.

The lineups: Hillsboro (12) Ashworth (24) F. ... McKellogg (10) Brooke (8) F. ... Reidler (2) John D. Dwyer, referee.

The Holmes Business College quint defeated the Portland Academy five 35 to 10 in the preliminary game. The game was a listless affair, the Holmes College team not playing up to its usual form in any department of the game. Manager Muldon and Louie were the chief point-getters for the college squad.
