WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Evidence of extraordinary advances in trans-Atinatic freight rates since the outbreak of the European war, amounting in some instances to 960 and even 1150 per cent, was presented to the Senate today in a joint report from Secretaries McAdoo and Reddield.

"While this report is being written," the report says, "information is received that rates are higher than those given in some of the tables presented and that even at these extraordinary figures it is difficult to obtain cargo space for earlier sailings than March and April."

After studying Secretary McAdoo's report to the Senate, Mr. Mann announced that no such tremendous freight rate increase as 1000 per cent was true here. Only slight increases on Coast rates have materialized since Coast rates have materialized since the opening of the war.

The Johnson line, which sends steamers to Europe by way of Scandinavia, reported that because of war risk and other considerations rates on that line have advanced in oportion to trans-Atlantic rates, Trans-Pacific rates have advanced many instances from 15 to 25 per nt, and it is said to be due morely the higher cost of fuel and sup-

Mr. Mann discouraged Government control and regulation of ocean freight rates. He said he was in favor of the "unmonopolization of the highway of the sea," and believed that shipping companies should be permitted to work out their own economic dosting.

"I hope no attempt to regulate ocean freight rates will over be made," said Mr. Mann. "This issue should be settled by way of competition. I have always taken that stand and I am backed up by many of the foremost authorities on the subject in the United States. It would be unfair to regulate American merchant ships when it would be impossible to do likewise with forcign vessels.
