Witness Whose Wife's Family Is Friendly With Bryan's Defends Minister.

Santo Domingans Described as Opposed to Every Existing Government-Bryan Himself May Be Called to Testify.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Austin J. Collett, Director-General of Public Works in Santo Domingo, to which post he was personally recommended by Secretary of State Bryan, he said, appeared as a witness today in favor of James Sullivan, American Minister to the Dominician Republic at the investigation of Senator-elect Phelan into the Minister's fitness to hold his post.

Collett asserted that in his opinion Sullivan was eminently fit to represent the United States in Santo Domingo in Sullivan, he conceded, was not popular with Dominicans, but he held that Sullivan was not to blame.

"I think no American Minister to Santo Dominica ever will be popular," he asserted. "Santo Dominicians are always against their government, and if the government is recognized by the United States the American Minister is bound to be unpopular." bound to be unpopular.

Never, Collett said, had he been asked Never, Collett said, had he been asked by Sullivan to favor one contractor above another, nor had he seen any-thing in the Minister's private or of-rficial conduct that was improper. The Banco Nacional, which has been called an untrustworthy institution for the deposit of government funds, was char-acterized by the witness as "all right." John L. Mann, who preceded Collett as director-general of public works, said he never had heard of Sullivan's compelling a contractor to take off $21,000 from a $100,000 road contract.

will be conflined to reports of a few important offices. The reports of others will be typewritten and filed for record in the office of the Secretary of State. It is estimated that the bill will save about $30,000 a year. The Senate also made final the repeal of the law requiring a state census, thereby insuring a saving to the counties of the state about $100,000.

What may be said to be the first exhibit of German military tactics is being demonstrated in the Senate chamber tonight. The sportsmen of the state have attacked in mass formation. They are here from all parts of the state and fill the chamber in the effort to prevent such radical amendments of the game laws as will abolish the Fish and Game Commission and convert the game funds into the general fund.

Wise Money Use Sought.

Wise Money Use Sought.

In the matter of forestalling a change in the method of handling game funds the sportsmen have a strong continuent to overcome. The impression prevails that there is more money accraing to the fund than is wisely expended. The attitude of members committed to a change is not that game protection and propagation shall be neglected, but that part of the money which has heretofore been wasted shall be devoted to useful purpose. Perhaps, if a means can be devised insuring a more business-like administration of the funds without converting them into the general fund that compromise will be acceptable.

Senate Shelves Act Against Publish-tax lists. The author urged that delinquents by notified by letter.

Garland said the proposed plan would not save money to the counties, for the delinquents had to pay for the publications, and that it would not be nearly so satisfactory as the present system.
Bingham said the system suggested had been tried and found unsatisfactory, which accounted for the present law providing for publication of the lists. Smith said he had been informed by the Tax Collector of Multnomah that, he got better results from notification by letter than by publication.

Garland declared if there were any business men who do public work for a small remuneration they are the publishers of the country newspapers.
Hinton supported the bill, declaring the poor who were delinquent had to pay for the publications. The vote was a live forever as one of the greatest laugh producers for young and old the stage has ever known.

The fact that Gus Hill produced and managed the play, was good fortune for "Bud," as there is no more successful and consequently able showman in the country than Gus Hill. It can be truthfully said that he never had a failure, which is due to good judgment and not good luck. That "Mutt and Jeff in Mexico" bids fair to be more profitable this season than in either of the previous two, is due to the personal attention Mr. Hill gives to every attraction that bears his name. He never allows anything to become shopworn or moth-eaten. Every year a show is sent out to tour the country it is a new one in everything but the title. No matter how many seasons the old title may be used, the material in the entertainment is not permitted to retrograde, therefore, managers and theatergoers may always rest assured that at every visit of our old friends, "Mutt and Jeff," the entire offering will be new.

the offering will be new.

"In Mexico," the vehicle used for laughing purposes this season, is an innovation in play writing, which fact can be proved by a visit to the Heilig Theater, Broadway at Taylor struct, tonight, tomorrow or Saturday nights, with a bargain matinee Saturday, when the big "Mutt and Jeff in Mexico" production, requiring a full 60-foot carload of scenery and properties with 35 performers, will be presented.

WILSON VIEW UNSHAKEN

VETO OF IMMIGRATION BILL IS EX-PECTED TODAY.

Literacy Held Not True Test of Quality of Newcomer-Congress Discusses Probability of Passage.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.-President Wilson's veto of the immigration bill is expected in Congress tomorrow, with is expected in Congress tomorrow, with a special message giving as the reason for disapproval of the literacy test which it proposes as a condition of entry to the United States.

Two hours of argument at the White House today with Senators and Representatives of the Congressional committees which handled the measure left the President unshaken in his belief that a literacy test is not a true test of the quality of an immigrant for citizenship.

The prospect of repassage of the bill of the quality of an immigrant for citizenship.

The prospect of repassage of the bill over the President's veto was the absorbing tople of discussion in Congressional circles tonight. Senator Lodge, at the White House conference today, was said to have intimated to the President that such action seemed likely. Supporters of the measure, pointing to the overwhelming votes by which both House and Senate rejected amendments to strike out the literacy test when the bill was on its passage, predicted that the necessary two-thirds vote to make the bill a law without the President's signature could be mustered. Opponents of the bill were sure they could not.

An immigration bill vetoed by President Taft for the same reason was passed over his veto in the Senate, but falled by five votes in the House. There are 2521 beneficiaries of the fund at present. The average pension for each case added was $20.40 monthly, the average age of the beneficiaries was 63 years and the average term of service a fraction under 29 years.

Three Things to Settle at the Motor Show

1—Gasoline Economy or Real Economy?

2-Right Weight or Wrong Weight?

3-A Proved or an Unproved Car?

IT isn't gasoline saving that keeps your car's expenses

It's very little that can be saved in gasoline. There isn't $25 difference in a season's driving between the gasoline bills of any two 'light sixes" on the market. It's cutting down repair items that is REAL economy.

Often one repair bill will wipe out a year's saving in gasoline

If that were not true, the Chalmers "Light Six" wouldn't be any more economical than any other "light sixes."

There are other cars which are just as sparing of gasoline.

The big difference is that the Chalmers "Light Six" STAYS PUT"—keeps running month after month without any need of

So Chalmers "Light Six" owners have come to call this the "car of economy."

BUY a car that's underweight and you get a flimsy car. It may save a little in oil and gasoline, but it's going to cost a lot more in repairs.

You must have enough weight to make the car sturdy and strong, to make it easy riding, to make it hold the road when you "open up" a bit, and to give season after season of service at the lowest cost.

When you buy a Chalmers "Light Six" you are settling this weight question sanely.

Take a good look at this car in the Chalmers Exhibit at the Show.

Note how substantially it is built where weight is necessary for strength and safety. Glance at the strong torque tube anchored to the frame that takes up the stresses and strains of driving.

Because this car is a RIGHT weight "Light Six" it rides most easily, gives longer service and holds upkeep cost at the very lowest notch.

THE purchase of an un-I proved car is a speculation -of a proved car a wise invest-The Chalmers "Light Six" has proved in the past season's service that it costs far less to own than any car of similar size and power on the market. The motors in the Chalmers "Light Sixes" put on the road in May are still running "sweetly" and smoothly. Six million miles of travel have produced no signs of weakening. Originally this car was priced at $1850. It was a big value at that price-now, at $1650, it is a $200 greater value. You should see this car. It's at
