"I thought you through the week. The First Universalist Church is never locked, day of night. There is water for horse and men. It is a community center, and a social center For any one in trouble the church should have an open door. The lonely, the sick and the down-and out should be free to come to the church. And hence I welcome you to this community and I hope you will emphasize the true spirit of brotherhood."

Roscoe P. Hurst read the articles of incorporation and the constitution, which were adopted together with the declaration of belief. The officers elected for the ensuing year are: President. Rev.
