Miss May Hoffman Describes Conduct of Mysterious Watcher Named Linde.

MR. WORD'S LEAP RELATED

Sudden Change in Flood of Votes Noted-Officers Testify Guard Not Deputy Sheriff and None Know Why He Was There.

Mr. Huriburt Ahead in Morning.

"How did the vote run in the morn-ing" asked Dan J. Maiarkey, attorney for Sheriff Huriburt in the recount pro-"Mr. Hurlburt was ahead all morn-would gain so much on him all of a sudden."

"Oh, by the way," said Mr. Malarkey, "who did you vote for?"

"Mr. Word."

Miss Höffman's testimony was the most important and convincing of all that was offered at the inquiry before are men of a certain type around Pendleton who will deliberately sell an Indian liquor for no other reason than Circuit Judge Kayanaugh yesterday. About the mysterious Linde, whom nobody seemed to know, centered a great deal of yesterday's inquiry. Gustave Linde, a meatcutter, had been subpensed in the morning, but when Ross Copeland, one of the judges of the night board, said he was not the man, and when Gustave Linde himself declared the didn't even know where Precinct 37 was, he was allowed to go.

After Ross Copeland had declared Gustave Linde was not the man referred to, J. W. Drewsey, formerly a Deputy Sheriff under Mr. Word, was called to the stand.

Commission Not Issued.

"Mr. Word, Dode Parrott and I assigned the men to the various precincts as watchers or deputies," said Mr. Drewsey. "Linde didn't have a commission from us, I'm sure, but he might have had one from the Democratic county central committee, for Mr. Phelan was a member of that committee. All the men who went around for us had commissions. Maybe Mr. Phelan had given Linde one."

Testimony further showed that Linde was at the polls almost continuously from the time they opened on election day until late on the night of November 4, after the changes in the vote for Sheriff had become apparent. He is said to have left about the time the erasures were first discovered by the night board and was not seen afterward.

As he unfolded the hallots and looked at them in counting the measures on the first night, Mr. Copeland said the Other judges and clerks will be called Other judges and clerks will be called to the stand for examination today.

During all the proceedings yesterday, Special Agent Walter Geren, of District Attorney Evans' office, sat in court taking notes on the evidence with a view to presenting the case to the grand jury for criminal investigation.

Of the 230 votes cast in Precinct 37, 140 have been challenged as fraudulent. All of these bear changes or erasures in the Shoriff's column in fayor of exin the Sheriff's column in favor of ex-Sheriff Word.

ner in the hopgrowing and buying firm of McNeff Bros., dropped dead from heart failure in his office at 12 o'clock today.

He had recently returned from Portland, where he had been ill with pneumonia. His brother, Jack, and two other men were in the office at the time, and death came almost without warning.

Mr. McNeff, well known in Portland and Oregon hop circles, was conversing with friends when he suddenly fell from his chair, and within two minutes life was extinct.

Mr. McNeff was born in Ottawa, Canada, in 1875 and was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John McNeff. He is survived by a widow, two sisters, Miss Katherine McNeff and Mrs. H. L. Cahalan, of Seattle, and three brothers, Jack, T. L. and Joseph W. McNeff.

The body will be brought to Portland and interred in Mount Calvary Cemetery. The date of the funeral has not yet been set and will depend on the arrival of relatives.

OREGON DELEGATES PICKED

Governor Acts for Convention of Navy League at San Francisco.

With the testimony of Miss May Hoffman, the pretty 21-year-old clerk of Precinct 27 at the last general election, evidence offered yeaterday at the inquiry into the alleged irregularities in this precinct began to point toward a mysterious watcher at the polls named Linde. Nobody examined yesterday knew who Linde was. Nobody could be found in the courtroom who knew positively why he was there.

When she returned from luncheon on November 4 Miss Hoffman found Mrs. Hart, one of the clerks, walking up and down the sidewalk in front of the polling place. Linde, the sileged Deputy Sheriff, was inside alone with the hallets. He was lying on the long table apparently asleep, she testified,

"In the afternoon Mr. Huriburt didn't seem to get any votes, and Mr. Word ran clear across the page," testined Miss Hoffman.
