TABOR PUPILS GIVE PLAY

The Headless Horseman" Staged by

Grammar School Graduates.

To every lover of Washington Irving, the play given by the graduation class of Mt. Tahor School in the auditorium Thursday night was a genuine delight. A part of the "Legend of Sleepy Hellow" was presented by the students to al-most 1000 people. The play was en-titled "The Headless Horseman," and titled "The Headless Horseman," and the leading character was the well-known and much-loved Ichabod Crane. The pupils staged their play under the direction of Miss Emma Sturchler, the ninth grade teacher.

the ninth grade teacher. The unique feature of it was the costumes, which were quaint Dutch ones, immensely be-coming to the girls with their long braids hanging over their shoulders, and atop it all a stiff little Dutch cap.

and atop it all a stiff little Dutch cap.
Some excellent acting for boys and girls so young was done. In saveral cases gnuine talent was displayed. Alfred Teller took the part of Ichabod to perfection. Alma Jones was most attractive as Katrina, and others in the cast took their parts equally well.

Advantage Taken of Representative

Eaton's Absence by Authors.

The measures were offered while Mr. Eaton was out of the room, but he said he would offer no protest, inasmuch as all of them are "harmless" and the creations of the House committees. One of them is the bill providing a series of revisions in the game laws as recommended by the game committee and as outlined heretofore in The Oregonian. Another appropriates $25,000 for the gapenses of the session.

Pollowing is the complete list of bills introduced:

H. B. 461, by same committee, amending Bill to Appropriate $450,000 ii. B. 482, by ways and means committee, oppropriating $25,000 for expenses of seasion.

H. B. 403, by roads and highways committee, designating rights of stockmen to build crossways under roads.

H. B. 468, by risheries committee, to pretent setning in Alsea River and Alsea Bay.

H. B. 463, by roads and highways committee, to abolish road supervisors.

Economy Used as Objection and Dramatic Speech Made by Representative Clark Against Increasing Taxation Burden.

STATE CAPITOL Salem Or., Feb. (Special.)—A defeat was administered to the irrigation programme in the to the irrigation programme in the House this afternoon, when the bill to appropriate $450,000 for irrigation purposes was indefinitely postponed.

It was not before the irrigationists had put forth their best efforts to save the bill, however, that the House reached its decision. When the roll finally was called the total number of votes in favor of the bill was 13. The full 47 remaining votes were registered against it. CIVIL WAR DAYS RECALLED

Representative Hinkle, chairman of the irrigation committee and the leader of the irrigation forces in the House, demanded a rollcall. He then proceeded to argue in favor of the appropriation. He declared it false economy for the state to refrain from appropriating this money and prevent development of the arid acres of the state. He was supported by Lewis and Davey, who spoke in similar vein. The discussion began in the morning, was resumed at the afternoon session and continued until 3 o'clock, delaying action on the pro-

The plan incorporated in the Schuebel bill was recommended to the Legislature by Treasurer Kay and other state officials. It is expected to save a smug sum of money to the state every year in interest.

However, the bill as passed by the House did not except the fish and game fund from the general fund, as Representative Schuebel and other House convened this morning that the measure should be passed as it stood and that the fight over the fish and game money should be made on Mr. Schuebel's bill, No. 161, which provides specifically that the fish and game fund shall become a part of the general fund. If that hill passes the fish and game fund will be abolished. If it falls the fish and game interests will continue to have their own fund in the full amount in which they pay into it, but it will be subject to use by the State Treasurer for temporary emergencies.

There was not much of a contest on the general fund if the subject to use by the State Treasurer for temporary emergencies.
