PAY SCALE PLAN OF MR. DALY ATTACKED

Mr. Dieck Says Result Would Be Unceasing Trouble With No Compensating Benefit.

MANY OBJECTIONS NOTED

Attention Called to Increased Cost of Work With Continual Danger to Contractor of Forfeiture for Unwitting Offense.

On the ground that Commissioner Daly's proposed ordinance to require the insertion in all municipal contracts provisions requiring an eight-hour day for all workmen, establishing a minimum wage for all classes of labor minimum wage for all classes of labor and requiring contractors to give preference to local workmen, would increase the unit prices of paving from 10 to 16 cents a yard and would encourage the selection of cheap and inferior pavement. City Commissioner Diock agnounced yesterday that he proposes to fight the measure to the end.

poses to fight the measure to the end.
He says such an ordinance would have to be enforced by his department and he says he considers that it would be impossible to enforce it.
The ordinance. If passed, he says, probably would require contractors to add 20 per cent to their bids to cover the additional cost of labor and the item of contingencies. Increase in coninsencies would be necessary because item of contingencies. Increase in con-ingencies would be necessary because of the additional risks and burdens in-volved in the ordinance. An increase of 20 per cent in the present unit prices of pavement, Mr. Dieck soys, would mean about 30 cents a yard. He says there is much complaint about the high wives of paving new. prices of paving now.

Other Objections Found.

He has raised objection also to in-cluding concerns manufacturing mater-ials or supplies for the city or for con-tractors for the city. While an effort was made by the Council to climinate this feature, Commissioner Dieck says he questions whether the effort was or can be successful under the ordinance as it stands.

"The provision that no contractor employ men for more than eight hours a day would force the contractor using materials to be responsible for the acts of the material men." said Commis-sioner Dieck yesterday, "It would necessitate the maintenance of inspection at every plant supplying material or force the contractor to the impossible duly of demanding certificates from every firm furnishing him supplies. If this were not done his con-plies. If this were not done his contract would be open to forfeiture.

"The difficulty of the situation is well shown in the recent work on the Union-avenue and Grand-avenue bridges, where the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company (the only agency in the city squipped and ready to do track construction work) employed its labor on the basis of a nine-ployed its labor on the basis of a ninesloyed its labor on the basis of a nine hour day. If the proposed ordinance had been in effect during the execu-tion of this work, the company would have been guilty of direct violation of contract and the work might not have bean accepted.

Queries Put by Mr. Dieck

Queries Put by Mr. Dieck.

"It is proper now to nak: What is the prevailing wage in any line of work? Shall the establishment of wages be by the administrative officer in charge or by the Council? Shall maximum minimum or average market rates prevail? Shall these rates be as of the date of opening of bids, or award of contract, or of actual signature thereto? Where shall the rates he recentled?

"The section, while seemingly simple in wording, admits of the widest interpretation and application. It leaves the contractor is complete uncertainty as to the basis of his contract. It either in a better quality of work or in additional security sgainst failure of execution."
