H. L. Bowlby, State Highway En-gineer, who was criticised at a meet-ing of the ways and means committee

Major Bowiby quotes a letter from S. Benson, whose efforts have been largely instrumental in bringing about the construction of the Columbia highway. Writing to Major Bowlby from California Mr. Benson said, "I think our start on highway work in Oregon compares well with work done here, and I know we make less mistakes and less experiments."

The statement of Major Bowlby follows:

"In my annual report for 1914 the itemized statements show the condition of the Columbia Highway in Columbia County on November I, 1914. This report accounts for in detail the expenditure of every dollar that has been spent in that county under the aupervision of my office. Thirty-four and a half miles of the new road have been started and 36% miles of highheen started and 26% miles of high-way have been completed. These 26 odd miles of road have been built 24 odd miles of road have been built 24 feet wide and no grade has been used in the county that is more than 5 per cent. All culverts are of permanent construction and the work is comparable in results to those obtained on the Columbia Highway in Multhomah County, and on the Pacific Highway in Jackson County. In fact, the work in Columbia County has been done at a less cost per cubic yard of material moved than was secured in either of the other counties.

"The only sore spot on the highway in Columbia County is a section of dry rubble masonry wall which has fallen. Parts of these walls fell on the tracks of the North Bank Railroad tracks, which are parallel to and alongside of the highway for many miles.

"The construction of the Columbia Highway was undertaken in the Spring of 1914. There was a clamor for the contracts to be let at once and the work to atart. The 57-mile section from Tide Creek to Astorio was located and work started at the same time that an egineering organization was commenced.
