WITHIN a few days Miss Harriet Harlow will become the bride of Harold Henderson Grady, with whom she has danced her way into the hearts of Portland society at numerous large and prominent charitable affairs. Miss Harlow is a charming girl and comes from a family of dancers, who are also well known in Portland society. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Harlow, a granddaughter of Captain Harlow, a pioneer of Oregon, and a graduate of Portland Academy, class of '12. Miss Harlow is also a member of the popular Dix Sorority.

Mr. Grady's father, Henry C. Grady, was for many years United States Marshall here, and is now connected with the Q. V. R. Army Company. The bridegroom-elect is a University of Oregon man, a member of both Sigma Nu and Theta Nu Epsilon fraternities and of the Glee and University clubs of this city.

The wedding will be a simple affair and will be solemnized at Unitarian Church, after which the young party will tour California. The bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. H. A. Foreman, who is well known in this city as well as in San Francisco, where she is a pianist, taught practically all of Portland's older matrons to dance when they were belles of the city. Miss Harlow's aunt, Mrs. Mary Campbell, with her daughter, Georgine Nichols Meyer, will dance on special occasions at the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

An engagement of interest has just been announced in Seattle where Miss Mabel Selover, the bride-elect, has made her home for several months. Her betrothal to John J. Conway, of Spokane, was announced formally by her dining with her fiancé at the latter part of March. Miss Selover formerly lived in Portland, where she has many friends. She is an accomplished musician and has made a brilliant success as a singer. Mr. Conway is a business man with a wide acquaintance in Oregon and Washington. He is a member of a prominent Chicago firm.

Of interest to Portlanders is the wedding of Miss Grace Walker and H. J. Bender, which was solemnized in Seattle Saturday, February 13. Mr. Bender was formerly with the Burroughs Adding Machine Company, of this city.

The Gamma Phi Beta Sorority will hold their regular meeting this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Claude McCulloch, 1141 Senate street.

Multnomah Chapter of the D. A. R.'s will hold a reception Monday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock in Portland Heights Club. Willamette chapter will be their guests, and all unaffiliated daughters will be welcomed.

The Lactare Girls, of Vancouver, Wash., enjoyed a dinner at the college room at Hazelwood and a theater party at the Orpheum. Those present were: Lurline Williams, Rita Kousch, Ethel Teague, Ruth, and Mildred Walch, Ruth Padden, Rowena Bruhl, Grace Hirschbuhl, Ruth Meyer, Agnes Flynn, Zena Moore, Louise Lackaff, Helen Schulz, Catherine Steichen, Nelly Foley, Mollie Clancy and Mrs. P. J. Flynn.

The Warren Bible class of the First Presbyterian Sunday school will entertain tonight in the church parlors at Twelfth and Alder streets with a Washington birthday party. The Warren Bible class is known as one of the largest classes of its kind in the West, and the officers and members are especially versatile in presenting attractive programmes and amusements for the entertainment of the young men and women who accept their invitations. The entertainment, refreshment committees are busy evolving an evening of novelty and interest, and neither hatchet nor cherry tree will be spared in the effort to make this an historical landmark among the social events of the year. All young people who wish to enjoy a purely social hour are invited to go to the church-house this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gilchrist Owen, of Medford, Or., are passing a few weeks at Hotel Benson. They are being entertained by prominent society folk with informal affairs.

This evening at Irvington Club an elaborate affair will be given. In addition to the regular informal dance there will be special features, among them fancy dancing by Miss Frances Hanrahan and vocal solos by Mrs. Dudley Clark. E. R. Root is chairman of the committee.

Misses Maisie and Alisa MacMaster will leave today for a 10 days' sojourn in Roger's cabin on the steamer Mount Hood. They will indulge in all the exhilarating sports to be found at Mount Hood lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Shepard (Elsie Felling), of Hood River, are being felicitated upon the arrival of a daughter, who has been named Lucy. The little one arrived yesterday.

Miss Bonnie Cope, a most attractive Walla Walla belle, is the house guest of Miss Helen Gregg, and is being delightfully entertained. Several affairs will mark the next few days honoring Miss Cope.

A concert and dance will be given by the women's auxiliary of the Clan MacLellan 122, O. S. C., in Knights of Pythias Hall this evening. It is a benefit for the knitting fund of the British Red Cross Society. An elaborate programme will be given, and an address by Mrs. Thomas Erskine, wife of the British Consul, is a feature of the affair. There will be solo dances, songs, instrumental solos and harp selections by Pipe Majors Macdonald and Gray. Readings and quartets also will form part of the programme, and the latter part of the evening will be devoted to ballroom dancing. The committee are Mrs. D. H. Gowans, Mrs. Macdonald, Mrs. James and Mrs. Gibson.

members of the association as hosts. Many of the former principals, teachers and pupils attended. Principal Van Tine delivered an address of welcome, and Professor Grant, a former principal, delivered the main address of the evening. A musical programme was rendered.

The Buckman School was erected in 1857, then called the North Central. It is one of the oldest schoolhouses in the city, and will pass away in the course of a year or two when a new structure is erected on the newly-acquired site on East Eighteenth street.

The president of the National Council of Jewish Women, Mrs. Janet Simmons Harris, will be in Portland with Mrs. S. M. Blumauer, who is a member of the National board. There will be a meeting of the National board of the council in San Francisco in May and many of the women who will attend that gathering will visit Portland, some of them to be present at the meeting of the council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. J. Coulson Hare entertained Circle No. 6, Portland Psychology Club, on Monday at her attractive home in Caruthers street. Mrs. Nettie Greer Taylor sang a group of songs that were most delightful. Mrs. Rollo Holmbeck accompanied Mrs. Taylor. Mrs. W. T. Wade gave a book review.

"Chippendale" was the subject of Miss Bertha Stuart's lecture before the members of the Arts and Crafts Society yesterday afternoon in the library. The members enjoyed the artistic programme, which was one of a series. The closing lecture will be held next Thursday. The society has extended an invitation to all who are planning furnishing their home or to art students and others interested to be their guests.

ous death attracted nation-wide interest in 1907, has delayed the signing of a divorce decree for the young man's parents. Although the divorce was granted last week by Circuit Judge Gantenbein, the case at present apparently is deadlocked.

After young Sutton's death, which the Naval Academy authorities said was suicidal, the mother exerted every effort to clear the name of her son, but in vain.

James H. Sutton, the father, is a Southern Pacific agent in East Portland. Mrs. Sutton's divorce was granted last week, and she was awarded $20,000 alimony. The decree was not to be signed until the final property settlements were made.

Then arose a dispute over the picture. Mrs. Sutton, affirming her rights as a mother, declared she should have both of them. The father wanted to take one. One of the pictures is now in oil and the other is an enlarged photograph.

THE SANDMAN STORY FOR TO-NIGHT

By Mrs. F. A. Walker

MR. FOX went over the hill one morning in search of something good to eat.

He had not gone far when he saw a Hawk sitting on a tree. "Good morning, Mr. Hawk," said the Fox. "Why are you wasting this fine morning sitting there when there is a farm over the hill where you can get plenty of chickens?"

"But there is also a farmer there with a gun," said the Hawk, "and while I would like a nice chicken for my dinner, I am thinking of that gun."

"I can arrange that for you, I think," said the Fox. "I have taken a fancy to you, Hawk, and I am willing to give you the benefit of my knowledge and also my house in which to store your supplies."

"That is certainly very kind of you, Mr. Fox," said the Hawk; "let me hear your plan."

"In the first place, come with me to my home, and see where I live," said the fox.

Away flew the Hawk, following the fox to his hole, thinking that a lucky bit he was to have such a clever fellow as Mr. Fox for a friend.

"This is where I live," said the Fox, when they reached the hole. "I will store it here, and you can have the other. You fly over to the farm, and I will have a nice chicken for you. Bring here and I will store it, and then you can be off to another farm for another. You should get several today with my help," said Mr. Fox.

The Hawk thought that a splendid plan, and after waiting for Mr. Fox to put his supplies all on one side of his room they started for the farm over the hill.

Now what the Fox really did when he went into his den was to roll some stones to one side, and cover them with straw so that when the Hawk returned with the chicken he would see what would look like a generous supply of stores.

Mr. Fox was as good as his word. He showed himself to the farmer, and the dog began to bark so that the farmer left his work, and followed the dog over the hill. But the sly Mr. Fox had no intention of getting into trouble; he had a good start on the dogs, and then he dashed into the water and crossed to the other side, hiding until he saw they had given up the chase, and then he ran for home. There was the Hawk with his fat chicken, and Mr. Fox could hardly wait for him to be off for another so he could eat it. He took the Hawk into the water, showed him the covered stones, which, of course, the Hawk thought were chickens and geese, and he was impatient to be off so that he could have as many as his friend, Mr. Fox.

"We will cover this with straw just as mine are," said the Fox, "and soon you will have a nice supply, if you only attend to business, and do not loaf."

Off flew the sly hawk again, and by and by he returned with a larger chicken than at first. Mr. Fox did not let him stop. He hurried him off for another, and as the hawk saw on his side of the room something covered with straw he did not think of looking under it, but if he had he would have found a stone, for he was no sooner out of sight than the fox devoured the first chicken and the same thing happened with the second. Mr. Fox did not go with the hawk after the first time, and the sly hawk was so intent upon getting a large supply of chickens that he quite forgot the farmer's gun.

That night when he returned he was hungry, for he had worked hard and did not stop to eat. Mr. Fox told him he was a famous hunter and would soon have more than he had, and that because it was his first attempt at putting by supplies he would furnish the supper from his store.

So he told Mr. Hawk to come away and he would get a large supply of chickens for him. He took two chickens that the hawk had brought in, but the hawk did not know this, for he saw all the piles of straw on his side and was sure all the chickens were safe.

"What a generous fellow Mr. Fox is," he thought, as he dozed by the fire. "Look and see what I am to be acquainted with him."

The next day the Hawk worked hard all day, and was shot at several times, but he would get a large supply of chickens and the Hawk flew off again. But at last a bullet struck him, and although he was not much injured he had to drop the chicken he had caught and came back empty-handed.

When Mr. Fox saw he was empty-handed he began to be cross. "How do you expect to stay here if you do not bring home my dinner?" he snarled at the poor injured hawk.

"Your dinner?" said the Hawk, surprised at the change in his friend. "What do you mean by your dinner?"

"Well, of all the silly fellows you certainly are the silliest," said the Fox. "You do not think I was giving you a place to sleep for nothing, did you?"

"I did not think about that," said the Hawk, "but you can have one of my chickens under the straw. I am sure you are welcome."

"Under the straw?" said the Fox, with a laugh. "Look and see what is under your straw, you poor, silly bird!"

The hawk limped over to his store of supplies and lifted the straw. There was only a stone under each pile.

The hawk knew then that the fox had played him false.

BRONCHIAL COUGH STUBBORN AILMENT

Must Have Constitutional Treatment—Ohio Woman Tells How She Was Relieved by Vinol.

Crestline, Ohio.—"For years I was in a weak, nervous, run-down condition and while in this condition contracted a bronchial cough, which made it very hard for me. I lost weight and had no ambition. All the medicine I had taken did not relieve me to any extent.

"One day I saw Vinol advertised and decided to try it. Within a week after taking it I commenced to feel better and I am happy to say four bottles of Vinol have completely restored me to health, so I am feeling fine now."—Mrs. H. H. CARLISLE, Crestline, Ohio.

This is one more proof that our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, Vinol, which is free from oil or grease, is a remarkably strengthening and vitalizing medicine.

Men and women who are weak and in poor health, unable to sleep or eat well, and who have given up hope of ever being strong again, should certainly take Vinol without waiting another day, for it is exactly what they need.

We are having such wonderful results from Vinol that we offer to return the purchase money when not satisfied. The Owl Drug Co., Portland, Oregon.

DON'T YOU THINK SHABBY CLOTHES LOOK SHABBIER WHEN THE WEATHER IS DULL AND GRAY?

There's something about a man's looks when he takes on a rain-coat which is awfully depressing when his suit is old and baggy and indifferently fitting. You've noticed it, probably.

Rain doesn't hurt a new suit when it's a good suit, and will put a dash of flavor cheer into your personality if you go up to CHERY'S tomorrow and get fitted to one of their clever suits.

Or, if it happens to be sunny, you'll want to have a good suit anyway. Of course, no man ever feels just right when his looks are "out of focus" with the sunshine—that's certain.

Bargains are such tantalizing things that it's dangerous to one's pocketbook sometimes to inspect them. Not so with CHERY'S. An almost empty purse works just as well as a bulging one up to date, pleasant, up-to-date store. For you can buy what you want there ON EASY PAYMENT TERMS—systematic, sensible weekly or monthly payments.

Chery's patterns are just the kind particular men would choose.

Their store is at 339-391 Washington street, in the Pittcock Block.

The honors for looking the first family on a vacant lot in a "fresh-air home" belong to the Alberta Woman's Improvement Club, who initiated the movement and whose president, Mrs. Josephine Sharp, is active in social service work. Mrs. J. E. Miller reported the family that was first located. The club is doing practical work, assisting in regulating the condition of the unemployed. They are striving to make those who receive assistance in a measure self-helpful and encourage self-reliance. The club makes a plea for tents, garden tools and seeds to help carry on their work.
