ANGELS PICKED AS RIVALS OF BEAVERS

W. W. McCredie Also Predicts Seals Will Be Contenders for Championship.

Los Angeles to Be Strong or Weak Depending on Staying Qualities of Veterans, Is Opinion. Dillon Seeks Trio.

San Francisco, Los Angeles and Portland are W. W. McCredle's choices in the impending race in the Pacific Coast League. The astute Portland magnate doesn't claim to be a big league crystal gazer, but, like all of us, he has his own beliefs, and his favorites are listed above.

"Los Angeles will be either very strong or very weak, in my judgment," said the Portland owner. "At the finish last Fall the Angels were a mighty formidable outfit. Shortstop Johnson deserted to the St. Louis Federals during the Winter, but Dillon will fill that hole without doubt.

"Whether or not the Angels stick at the top will depend in a great measure on the staying qualities of his veterans. You can generally dope a young ballplayer to come stronger each sea-son. With an oldtimer it's different Usually the manager dopes the veteran on his last season's performance, with a little leeway for slumping.

"So I say the Angels will either be very strong or very weak, the latter alternative depending on whether such oldtimers as Charley Check, Jack Ryan, Harry Wolter and Cap. Abstein hold up to past performances or cave in."

It is reported in Los Angeles news papers that Pop Dillon is after Dick Egan, of the Brooklyn Nationals; Ar-nold Hauser, formerly of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Marsans, the Cuban tosser. Egan is well known on the Coast and Dillon wants him for second or short. In 1912, with Cincinnati, he played wonderful ball. Egan participated in 106 games last year, but hit only .226.

Second Baseman Page has been released outright, so the Angelic infield candidates are Abstein, at first; possibly Egan on second, and McMullin and Metzger for third. Dillon is undecided about Lee Tannehill, the ex-Chicago star, because Lee has the same batting weakness that besets Heinie

San Francisco's pitching staff re-ceived its needed reinforcements the other day when Manager Wolverton signed Charley Smith, ex-Chicago Cub. Smith was one of the four fading phenoms shown the door by Bresnahan a few weeks back, Leach and Sweeney also being members of the quartet. Smith hasn't been any wonder for the Cubs, but he is said to be a first-class minor league pitcher. In 1911 with Newark he won 10 and lost 10. with Newark he won 10 and lost 10, although Newark finished seventh for a percentage of .375. Smith has been with the Cubs for three seasons.
