ROSEBURG, Or., March 3.—(Special).—"I suppose everybody will be saying, 'There goes that $25,000 nurse,' said Miss Florence Brooks, when asked at Mercy Hospital here today regarding her heritage from a Chicago financier.

When asked what she intended to do with the money, Miss Brooks said she was undecided, but would probably invest it in some dividend-paying project.

"Don't think I am going to quit my profession because I have money," said Miss Brooks, "for I am not I love my profession and will continue to nurse the sick and afflicted."

"Do you ever expect to get married?" was the next query.

"Well, I haven't thought of that," replied Miss Brooks, as her eyes twinkled. "I am human, like all girls, and it might be possible that I would fall in love with the right fellow. But then, you needn't advertise that, as I am not in the market for proposals."

Miss Brooks is a graduate of Grace Hospital, at Detroit, Mich., and has lived in that city for the past two years.

Prior to coming here she passed some time in Chicago, where she became acquainted with W. J. Wilson, who bequeathed her the fortune.

COCOANUT OIL MAKES A SPLENDID SHAMPOO

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, the less soap you use the better.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and is very harmful.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly.

You can get multiflora cocconut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.
