PENINSULA MASS MEETING SATURDAY NIGHT.

A mass meeting of the Peninsula Park owners on the Peninsula, from Parkrose to St. Johns, has been called for next Saturday night to meet in the North Portland library. The meeting is to be held at 8 o'clock at the Columbia Street, to consider the sewerage. It will be held under the auspices of the North Portland Commercial Club, the Woodlawn Improvement Association and other Peninsula organizations. There will be two propositions for discussion. One is to open the intake of Columbia Street sewer slough from some point near Parkrose to the mouth at the Willamette River at an estimated cost ranging from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000. It is expected that either the Commission or the City Engineer will attend and explain what has been accomplished and what is proposed to do for this sewer system. Data on the subject has been gathered in the past two years for this sewer system and it is felt on the Peninsula that definite action should now be taken to adopt a plan.

ROSE CLUB GAINS MANY NEW MEMBERS.

The Hawthorne District Rose Association gained more than 60 new members at the meeting held in the East Portland city hall yesterday night, the occasion being the illustrated lecture by Sam Hill. The hall was filled to capacity and high tributes were paid to the speaker. The club has a membership of 1000 members. The next public lecture will be held each month.

GREETERS PLAN ENTERTAINMENT.

Plans for an entertainment late in March or early in April will be made at the meeting of the Greeters, an organization of hotel clerks, at the Multnomah Tuesday night. The committee in charge reported that they arranged to have a light boxing bout in addition to a curtain raiser. Some of the prominent show houses of the city also have promised to furnish an act. The organization voted to send a delegate to the National convention of Greeters at Atlanta, Georgia, June 6.

THOMAS P. HOWARD DIES.

Thomas P. Howard, aged 66, died Tuesday at his home, 550 Alberta street. He had been a resident of Portland for the past 15 years and came from Woodstock, Ill. He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Mary T. Howard, and was father of Mrs. Guy Dupue, Mrs. George Carvell, Miss Francis and the late Matt Howard. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from St. Andrew's Church, East Ninth and Alberta streets, and the interment will be made in Mount Calvary cemetery.

SKIN TROUBLE ON BABY'S EAR

Great Itching, Spread in Form of Pimples, Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment, in One Week Well. Also Healed Ringworm.

Green River, Utah.—"Last winter my baby had a little crack appear on the top of her ear. It caused great itching. I used borax acid water to wash it, and it would go away and maybe not reappear for weeks, but each time it would be a little worse. It was badly swollen. The breaking out finally began to spread in the form of pimples, and a lump formed behind the ear. I used carbolic acid washes but they did not give permanent relief. Finally I grew worse. I sent for some Cuticura Soap and Ointment which I used at once. The breaking out began to dry up after the first application and in one week was well and has not appeared since.

Three and a half years ago one of my children had ringworm on his head which was very annoying. It itched so. It was very irritated and his hair came out where the breaking out was. I used home remedies without effect. I then procured a box of Cuticura Ointment which healed the ringworm." (Signed) Mrs. H. E. Blake, November 5, 1914.

Clairvoyance Fails at Critical Moment.

Herman Schroeder, Unable to Read Judge Stevenson's Mind, Will Have His Head by Alienists.

ALMOST uncanny were the clairvoyant qualities displayed by Herman Schroeder, who was hailed before the Municipal tribunal yesterday morning by Motorcycle Patrolman Tully, on the complaint of a woman who said she had been annoyed by the defendant. Schroeder had asked for food, home where a lone woman was living. He was treated well, but talked so queerly that the woman became frightened and telephoned the police bureau. "I just told her that I would read her hand for her," complained Schroeder, gesturing wildly with his arms. "Then I heard a baby cry. I knew that was a sign."

"A sign," said Judge Stevenson. The man peered at the jurist as though he suspected he was not being taken seriously, but replied, "Yes. It is a plaintive, pitiful cry, as though the infant hungered."

"She then went out of the room," he continued, his tones becoming low and mysterious, "I had a feeling that something was wrong. It was a presentiment, but I did not know of what. Then the officer came."

"Before I left my home in Missouri I had a reading and was told that there was coming a great change in my life. This was it."

The court agreed that the incident might have marked a change in his life. Irrelevantly, Schroeder continued: "I am a student and a deep thinker. I have started to compose a piece of poem."

"Do you think you were cut out for a poet?" asked the judge. "Well, I don't know," was the frank reply. "But this I do know. I am more generally developed than anyone else, and I can read a face like an open book."

"Marvelous, Holmes, marvelous," the court was heard to mutter, and then: "Can you read in my face what is going to happen to you?" "The prisoner looked bewildered. "No? Well, you are to have an opportunity to read the minds of some eminent physicians and find out whether or not they think you sane. Who's next?" said Judge Stevenson.
