

FESTIVAL WORK SET

Civic Bureau Hereafter to Supplant Association.

FIELD'S SCOPE DESCRIBED

Retailers' Problems to Be Solved in Measure by Committees to View Advertising Schemes.

Under the consolidated organization of the commercial bodies of the city the handling of such matters as the Rose Festival will fall to the Civic Bureau, according to H. V. Chase, who is handling the work of the consolidation.

This is one of the largest of the nine proposed bureaus through which every conceivable department of civic activity is to be conducted.

The committee has gone over the field which is designed to be covered by the Civic Bureau and has provided that the following phases of the work are to be cared for under the direct charge of a committee appointed as the need for work in its particular line arises:

Rose Festival—This has been provided for under its own administrative forces for this season and its activities will be carried out under the direct management of the Rose Festival Association, aided by the proper committees of the Civic Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, which will also assist in the city's beautiful campaign, a part of the Rose Festival activities.

Safety Efforts Assigned. "Safety first" another important branch of the Civic Bureau, has three subdivisions requiring a great deal of work—fire prevention, regulation of vehicle traffic and industrial safety, the last-named having special reference to equipment and devices for the prevention of accidents in manufacturing and other industrial activities.

Health and sanitation committees will be required from time to time as various phases of this large question arise. Water, sewerage and drainage will have the attention of special committees as needed.

Schools and educational matters will be subjects for special consideration. Public utility matters will be handled by committees as the special questions demand, each having a committee for its specific work.

Parks and playgrounds call for separate committee work.

Market Committee Is Needed. Public market matters will obtain the attention of committees named for this purpose.

Parks and playgrounds problems arising outside the City Beautiful committee work call for special committees.

Street lighting matters are also provided for in this bureau under special committees work, and other committees may be named as occasion arises from time to time.

It will be seen that this bureau will have a large measure of the Chamber of Commerce work under its charge.

Further outlining the work under consideration, Mr. Chase says: "Perhaps no other citizens, as a class, are so much hit by the solicitor for financial aid, subscriptions to charities and other funds, propositions for advertising schemes and the like, as the retail merchants. How to get rid of this great drain upon their pocketbooks and their patience has been one of the vexing problems of nearly every merchant, and various means for attaining relief have been proposed.

All Proposals to Be Eyed. "That a great service will be rendered in this line by such a strong organization as the Chamber of Commerce is recognized by those in charge of preparing for work that the organization is to undertake. Provision is made for this in the retail bureau, one of the nine bureaus under which the work of the chamber will be grouped.

"The work in this bureau, like that of the others, will be carried forward by special committees appointed, when needed, and for the definite work to be done. In this instance the work will have to be carried on throughout the year, and the committee on Charities and Advertising propositions will be ready at all times to investigate and report upon all such schemes, to endorse or otherwise, as the findings may determine.

Retailers' Troubles Shifted. "As membership in the organization commits the retailer to abide by the findings of its committee, he is automatically relieved from responsibility in refusing to contribute to any cause not having the proper endorsement of this censorship committee. It will be a great relief to the merchants to know that they will not have to be on their guard all the time to avoid being flooded of their funds by fakirs.

"Among the other things to be undertaken and carried forward by committees in this bureau, are trade excursions, needs in retail trade legislation, and retailers' welfare work. The plan is to give to the retail merchant all the aid possible by directly providing for some of his most evident needs. In this way the Chamber of Commerce becomes of special service to the merchants of Portland.

DISMISSAL OF SUIT ASKED

Defendants Add $1000 to Demand Bank Receivership Case.

Urging that the suit of J. H. Ahlers, former president of the Salem Bank of Commerce, in which he asks the appointment of a receiver and the cancellation of four notes which he signed, be dismissed and that Ahlers be forced to pay a total of $3,996.74, which he alleged he owes on the four notes named in his complaint, the four defendants in the case, Mrs. Emma East, S. S. East, S. H. Elliott and S. M. Endicott, filed answers in the circuit court yesterday. Attorney's fees amounting to $1,000 is also asked.

The answer alleges that Ahlers made a report March 2, 1914, in which he declared the bank solvent and in good condition and that January 1, 1915, he represented it in good condition in efforts to induce Elliott to purchase stock in the institution.

VAN HIDES POST GIRL

ESTHER GATZLOFF SAYS SHE WAS AFRAID TO GO HOME.

Loss Says Man Frightened Her When She Passed Woodpile and She Fled to Friend's House.

Although for two nights she had slept in a furniture van a block from her home at 362 East Oak street, little Esther Gatzloff did not return to her mother until 11 o'clock yesterday morning because she was afraid to go home after her absence since Saturday morning. Her wanderings, which only took her to the homes of friends, began following an unpleasant experience Saturday, when she was accosted by a man in the shadow of a woodpile and badly frightened.

"I was getting some wood near the river on Stark street," related the little girl yesterday afternoon. "A man came up to me and took my coat off, and—wasn't nice. He wanted me to learn some bad words and I wouldn't. I squirmed and got away from him and ran. He was tall and had on a long black coat. He was awfully dirty and needed a shave. He didn't hurt me, or even touch me, but I was afraid of him."

The police are now looking for this man. The girl took Mrs. Lola G. Baldwin, of the Woman's Protective Division to the scene of this occurrence yesterday.

The girl played with some friends that afternoon, but did not tell them of her adventure. When she left them that night at 9 o'clock she did not go home, but found a furniture van at Third and Stark streets and slept there. Sunday she walked to the home of Mrs. Ernest Nelson, 838 East Tenth street, about a mile, and stayed there for dinner and supper.

At 7 o'clock Sunday night Mrs. Nelson's girl on a streetcar for home and paid her fare. Either transferring at Union Avenue and Russell streets to a Russell-Shaver car and rode to Stark street. She lived on Oak. She was so frightened to go home and made her bed in the bottom of the same wagon, from which she could see the back door of her home. At 11 o'clock yesterday morning hunger got the better of the girl and she went home.

ADMIT PERFUME THEFTS

Confession Made and Four Members of Clique Are Paroled.

R. F. Smith and Harry Meister, after 48 hours in jail, decided to tell the truth with regard to the perfume thefts in which they were implicated, and yesterday afternoon admitted to Municipal Judge Stevenson that they had stolen the property and that Louis Larata and R. E. Foster were implicated. The latter two were arrested. Smith was sentenced to a year in jail and paroled. Meister was instructed to stay at home and away from Larata and Foster were released, for it was a first offense and not an aggravated one. Al Dawson, another member of the perfume gang, was sent to the County Jail for six months Saturday.

PLEDGE SHOWS FAITH IN COMMERCIAL MERGER

Edward Ehrman Declares His Company Will Combine Former Contributions and Back New Chamber of Commerce to Utmost.

(Talks on Consolidation, Number 21.) "To show in a practical way that I believe in consolidating our big commercial organizations, I intend to consolidate my subscriptions," said Mr. Ehrman. "By that I mean to say our firm will take memberships in the New Chamber of Commerce to an amount equal to our present contributions to all the business organizations. While I believe the cost of consolidation would actually be less in an ordinary year, I think subscriptions this year should be as large as any year in Portland's history. There will be a heavy exposition travel, and we must take this year to undertake so that they are properly directed and the proper hospitality is shown them."

"When we can make one subscription of the size that will cover the entire needs for all the work to be done by business organizations, we then know just exactly what this public work is costing, and we know we will not be pestered throughout the season by future calls. We are willing to make the subscription for three years, and heartily commend the Businesslike plan which makes this possible."

"I was a member of the Board of Governors of the Commercial Club under President H. N. Cake when the great work to advertise and develop Oregon was undertaken 11 years ago. At that time the Commercial Club was the only organization in the Northwest that made such a broad work. Since then other organizations have stepped into the field and there has been considerable duplication. This, I believe, will be eliminated by a consolidation along business lines. "I also believe that a representative organization that handle such a matter as fostering the Alaska Steamship Line-

MARY ANTIN WAITED

Noted Lecturer Is Coming to Talk on Alien Problem.

MEN AND WOMEN PRAISE

Thorough Grasp of Facts and Careful Discussion of Topic Are Credited to Speaker—Every Address Is Convincing.

BY EDITH KNIGHT HOLMES. Mary Antin is coming to Portland to lecture.

Students of literature, those who are interested in the present-day immigration problems and all who have made a study of the achievements of this interesting woman, are taking note of the date. The time will be the night of March 31; the place, the White Temple; the sponsors for the lecture, the Council of Jewish Women; the subject, "They Who Knock at Our Gates—An Immigration of the Immigration Problem."

Mrs. Julia Marquam, a prominent clubwoman of this city, who has met Miss Antin and frequently heard her lecture, said yesterday of the approaching appearance of the celebrated woman: "I think Portland will be fortunate to have her here. In the Forum courses in Boston whenever Miss Antin spoke the audiences packed the hall. Professors from Harvard and Yale, statesmen and authors were among her most interested auditors."

Convincing Message Delivered. "In her speaking she is intense. She is so much interested in her subject that she carries everyone along with her and inspires all who hear her. She has a message to give, and she presents it with a directness that is convincing."

Mrs. Marquam said that she regarded Mary Antin as one of the most distinguished women of the day. With the opening of the Panama Canal people of the Pacific Coast are expecting a certain amount of immigration, and it is on this subject that Miss Antin will give her views. They are deduced after much investigation and actual experience.

Mary Antin in private life is Mrs. Amadeus W. Grabau, wife of a Columbia University professor. Her ability was early recognized by her family, who made every sacrifice to keep her in school.

Dr. Hale Aided Education. Her teachers gave her all possible encouragement and help. Dr. Edward Everett Hale also became much interested in her development, and Josephine Lazarus inspired her with ideals.

With characteristic racial persistence in the face of adversity and often among the most discouraging surroundings she pursued her studies, graduating from the Girls' Latin School of Boston and entering Barnard College in New York.

Today Mary Antin is an ardent woman. A progressive in the best sense, a democrat of democrats, she burns with a desire to give no recourse to whatever race, color or creed. If all immigrants were of the Antin type there could be no immigration problem.

Address on Problem Lauded. A prominent man who has heard her pays her this tribute:

"I have rarely listened to a more soul-stirring address. In her simple, yet masterly manner, she presented her theme. She spoke quietly, but the large audience had no difficulty in hearing her. She had no recourse to the usual devices of the platform speaker, yet no orator could have gained the attention of the audience quicker nor held it longer than she did. And what a wealth of information she gave in one address."

Mrs. Julius Louisouso, who is chairman of the committee of arrangements for the presentation of Mary Antin by the Council of Jewish Women, has as assistants Mrs. Solomon Hirsch, Miss Mary Frances Ison, Mrs. Julius Lipschitz, Miss Josephine Hammond, of Reed College; Mrs. S. M. Blumauer, Miss Ruth Catling, Miss Getta Wasserman, Dr. C. H. Chapman, Sigmund Schick, Isaac Sweet, Marshall Dana and R. C. Nelson.

HASHISH TESTS ARE MADE

Probation Officer to Ask Sale of Drug to Boys Stopped.

Chemical tests are now being made in the Pernot laboratories of a narcotic called hashish, which is said to have been sold by some druggists of the city to boys, and if it is found that the narcotic is of such a composition that it comes under the state law regulating the sale of poisons, prosecutions will probably be brought and a test case made.

As a result of his investigations of the use of the drug Chief Probation Officer McIntosh said yesterday that he would ask City Attorney La Roche to draft an ordinance prohibiting the sale to boys. He said that much of the recent delinquency among boys could be traced to the effects of the drug. It is said that a dozen boys from the ages of 12 to 15 have acquired the "hashish" habit.
