

TWO WOMEN IN JITNEY CRASH ARE INJURED

Miss Lillian Spaulding Sustains Fractured Skull When Cars Collide.

BOTH DRIVERS ARRESTED

Mrs. M. M. Stout, Visitor From McMinnville, Is Other Victim of Accident Occurring at Flan- ders and Twenty-First.

JITNEY ACCIDENT VICTIMS.
Miss Lillian Spaulding, of 37 Vermont street, who sustained a fractured skull and minor cuts and bruises, serious, but not thought fatal.
Mrs. M. M. Stout, of McMinnville, scalp wounds, bruises and cuts, not serious.

Two women were injured, one seriously, when a jitney automobile, driven by R. G. Banks, aged 25, crashed into another jitney operated by George Poole, at Twenty-first and Flan- ders streets yesterday, shortly before noon. Both drivers are under arrest charged with reckless driving and will appear in Municipal Court today.

Mr. Banks, the driver of the automobile said by witnesses to have hit the other car, in the father of R. G. Banks, who, 12 hours before in the same jitney bus, was arrested for reckless driving after knocking down Mrs. J. W. Bullard at Fourteenth and Wash- ington streets. Father and son are both awaiting trial.

Driver Unable to Stop Car.
"I saw the other machine coming, but I couldn't stop," said Banks, the elder, yesterday in explanation of the accident.

The Banks jitney was going west on Flan- ders and the Poole machine south on Twenty-first. Poole, who had tried to slow down when he saw the other auto heading for him, but it was too late, and the jitney driven by Banks struck the other in a blinding blow in the side and both were carried about 15 feet south on Twenty-first, but neither overturned.

The two women who were injured were riding in the Poole jitney. There was a third woman in that car but she ran away from the scene and lost her identity in the crowd of passengers to the Banks. Mrs. W. B. Lingerman, at 624 Lovejoy street.

Miss Lillian Spaulding, who was the most seriously injured, was about to jump from the automobile when the crash came. She was flung to the pavement, her head striking first. She was quickly removed to the Good Samaritan Hospital.

McMinnville Woman Injured.
Mrs. M. M. Stout, of McMinnville, was also thrown out of the machine to the ground but was not hurt. She thought that she was assisted to the home of J. S. Eels, 34 North Twenty-first street, and a physician was called. She was later removed to the home of Mrs. W. B. Lingerman, at 624 Lovejoy street.

Both women were on their way to the business section of the city. Miss Spaulding is a dentist's office in the Scolding building, where she is employed, and Mrs. Stout to make a shopping tour. Miss Spaulding is the daughter of C. W. Spaulding, of 27 Vermont street, and will be removed to her home from the Good Samaritan Hospital as soon as her condition warrants the change.

Patrolmen Shaffer and Hart were on the scene shortly after the accident and arrested both drivers. George Poole lives at 781 Pettygrove, and R. G. Banks at the Beaver Apartments.

COMBINING PLANTS O. K.'D

Council Approves Plan to Combine City and State Laboratories.

City Health Officer Marcellus plan to combine the city and state bacteri- ological laboratories met with the ap- proval of the City Council yesterday. Dr. Marcellus was authorized as a member of the State Board of Health to appear before the board and urge the consolidation.

The plan originated by Dr. Marcellus would save the state about $2750 a year and the city $1000 a year in the items of salary and other expenses according to a report prepared by Dr. Marcellus. At present the city oper- ates its laboratory at the City Hall and the state operates a separate one at the Selling building. Both do similar work. Dr. Marcellus contends that it is a duplication of work and expense to maintain the two laboratories.

Melvin G. Winstock Says Awful Film Great Moral Lesson.

"I expect to be soundly criticized for putting on 'The Drug Terror,'" said Melvin G. Winstock, of the National Theatre, yesterday. "But I am going to stand it, believing the picture, although bold and daring and not proper for unlimited exhibition, is timely and that it cannot fall to do much good."

"It is not generally known that the United States Government March 1 put into force a law against the sale and use of narcotics which will do much to wipe out a great evil, but at the same time caused untold suffering and probably more crime, misery and even death to countless victims.

"The Drug Terror" was produced under the supervision of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt and is endorsed by a number of sociological organizations. It shows the extent of the evil and its effect on the individual and society at large.

"It shows who are profiting by the traffic. It points plainly what it does to the honor of man and the virtue of woman. It directs attention to the horde of unfortunates who will be driven to death and despair because they cannot procure the drugs, and points to the absolute necessity for some immediate steps to be taken to care for the tens of thousands afflicted.

"The Drug Terror" is in six parts, and, although sensational in every detail, is carried through on a consistent plot. It is well played by Harry Myers and Rosemary Theby. It will be on at the National Sunday and Monday, March 21 and 22. During the entire

PAINLESS PARKER WINS $1 DAMAGES

Jury in Libel Action Brings in Verdict Against Editor Hume of the Spectator.

DENTIST WELL SATISFIED

"It is a Roosevelt Verdict," Says Complainant, and He Asserts He Now Will File Suit Against State Dental Board.

One dollar damages was awarded to Edgar R. ("Painless") Parker by a jury in Circuit Judge Gatens' court yesterday in Dr. Parker's libel suit against Hugh Hume, editor of the Spectator. Ten jurors signed the verdict in favor of Dr. Parker.

The editorial which the jury found was libelous was published in the Spectator of August 1 and headed "Suppress the Charlatans." In it Dr. Parker was referred to as "a wandering toothhiker" and "a nomadic tooth- smith." The article also said that Dr. Parker had been arrested and convicted of a crime. In instructing the jury Judge Gatens said that this state- ment was libelous if the jury found it to be not true.

"I consider the verdict a victory and a vindication," said Dr. Parker. "I am well satisfied. It was not the money I was after."

Result Held Roosevelt Verdict.
"I don't make my money that way. If I had recovered any considerable amount I would have given it to charity. I wanted vindication and I got it. It was a Roosevelt verdict."

"I intend to file suit against the State Board of Dental Examiners, believing that there was a conspiracy against me was clearly brought out in this trial and I intend to bring them into court and prove it. I will sue them for $50,000."

The jury went out at 10:20 o'clock yesterday morning, after Attorney Mannix, for Dr. Parker, had finished his closing argument. The verdict was reached at 4 o'clock in the after- noon.

In instructing the jury Judge Gatens said that the words "charlatan, fake, mountebank and quack" were libel per se. These terms had been used against Dr. Parker in several of the Spectator editorials. Unless the defense had proved that Dr. Parker was a charlatan, a fake, a mountebank and a quack, and that he was not a dentist, should be returned in favor of the plaintiff.

Definitions Are Read.
The judge read to the jury dictionary definitions of the words "charlatan, fake, mountebank and quack" making it clear just what the editorial allega- tions meant. The definitions drawn for the jury by Judge Gatens were:

Charlatan—One who pretends or exaggerates knowledge or skill; a pretender, quack, originally street mountebank who talked volubly of his wares.

Quack—Anything prepared or prepared for the purpose of deceiving, especially for the purpose of making money, making it clear just what the editorial allega- tions meant. The definitions drawn for the jury by Judge Gatens were:

Mountebank—A vendor of quack medicines at fairs and other public gatherings, who usually mounts a platform or wagon and draws attention to his wares by promises of curing by harranguing the crowd.

Quack—One who talks or deceives, who chatters or talks in praise of anything; pretends to medical knowledge or skill.

The suit has been on trial before Judge Gatens for 11 days. On both sides the fight has been bitter, and much time has been occupied with arguments between the attorneys.

Suit Grows Out of Campaign.
The suit grew out of Dr. Parker's campaign last year for the passage of a new state dental law. In this cam- paign he bitterly opposed the registra- tion of members of the Dental Society. The alleged libelous article were printed at the time of this campaign.

Dr. Parker said last night that Dr. Clyde Mount and Dr. Jean C. White, secretary of the State Board of Health, would be three of the defendants in the conspiracy suit he proposes to file. He cites Mr. Hume's testimony that he conferred with these men before writing the editorials as evi- dence of a conspiracy against him.

Dr. Parker has already announced himself as a candidate for the State Senate at the 1916 general election. If elected, he proposes to work for a revision of the state dental laws.

TIME OF HOSTS SHORT

SHRINERS ONE TO ENTERTAIN VISITORS TO SEATTLE COUNCIL.

Al Kader Temple Expects 100 Special Trains to Stop Over Here for Few Hours of Feasting.

"Portland will have a great oppor- tunity to entertain a high class of visitors when the Shriners pass through the city en route to the Im- perial Council at Seattle or from the council to the California expositions in Washington, Seattle and Portland. Al Kader Temple, Portland, yesterday.

"But," he added, "their time in Port- land is limited and the Portland Shriner plan to entertain according to the best advantage.

"The itineraries are made up at the starting point. At present I have re- ceived only one, that of the special train carrying Mecca Temple, New York City; Kismet, Brooklyn; Bouri, Baltimore, and Anas, Washington, D. C. This train comes over the Canadian Pacific route and is in Portland July 15 from 8:20 A. M. until 2 P. M.

"It is hardly possible to get any changes made in the itineraries of the prospective visitors, because they have a limited time for their entire trip and plan to pass three or four days in Seattle besides visiting the expositions in California and various cities through which they will pass. We expect to entertain about 100 special trains of Shriners in Portland.

"I think that the itinerary which I have received would be suitable sample to judge others, by. Portland fortunately being on the only road be- tween San Francisco and Seattle is bound to be visited by most of the Shriners who come to the Coast.

"The Imperial Council takes place July 13, 14 and 15. The visitors will arrive in Portland a day or two before and a day or two after those dates. Portland people are as proud of their city, its business possibilities, its resi- dence section, its scenic beauty, its rivers and climate, as well as its location amid many interesting places and con- nected by fine roads, that no effort to show the visitors a grand welcome will be spared."
