

FESTIVAL SEEKING QUEEN AND COURT

Portland Folk Asked to Suggest Method for Choosing Royal Family.

CONTEST CLOSES APRIL 17

Committee Decides That Contestants for Queen and Six Princesses Shall Not Be Asked to Spend Money for Getting Honor.

PLAN FOR NAMING QUEEN WANTED

How to select a queen for the coming Rose Festival is a problem that is worrying the directors of that big public enterprise. At the request of the directors, The Oregonian, with other newspapers, will receive written suggestions as to the best method by which a queen may be chosen. The most meritorious of these plans will be published and all the letters will be turned over to the Rose Festival Association for a final decision. Letters may be addressed to Queen Contest Editor, The Oregonian.

Portland's 1915 Rose Festival Association is in search of royalty! A Queen and six Princesses, according to the latest decision of the governing board of the association, are essential factors in the big celebration, and the various members of the royal family to preside at this year's carnival will represent by a contest the choicest and greatest number of the people of Portland as possible.

Contest Plans Outlined.
Members of the executive committee of the festival with Dean Vincent, chairman of the Rose Festival Association, held a special meeting yesterday afternoon. President Olmstead and Secretary Berg and John P. Carroll, chairman of the festival center, where the queen will be crowned, met Chairman Vincent and many suggestions were offered as to the most popular manner in which a queen for this year's festival should be selected and the manner in which the contest could be conducted.

It was agreed by the festival governing board that the contest should not include any idea of expense to contestants, or money consideration for votes.

It was finally agreed the selection of a queen for 1915 festival would be left to the people. The plan to be carried out will give everyone, as individuals or representing organizations, an opportunity to advance suggestions, which they are requested to do in brief communications to the newspapers of the city. The best of these suggestions will be published and all will be turned over to the festival Association.

Contest to Close April 17.
The queen contest committee will assemble all letters forwarded to newspapers and a decision will be announced. The contest will close at midnight April 17, and the Sunday morning edition of April 18 will print the list of the suggestions.

The first seven years of the festival King Rex was the particular member of royalty whose authority was given serious consideration. In 1914 the festival for the first time proceeded under the guiding hand of a queen, and Queen Tielme and her court helped spread the fame of the festival far and wide.

This year a queen will once more be one of the central features of the celebration. When the member of the Royal Family is found she, with her six Princesses will be crowned at the crowning ceremonies and festival directors will outline a plan that will call for her appearance, uncrowned, in the children's parade opening on the morning of June 9 on the East Side.

Queen to Be Important Factor.
After the parade the festival Queen with her Princesses, and those taking part in the ceremony, will proceed to the festival center at the park, where an elaborate ceremony will take place. Thereafter the queen will have an important place in all the festivities of the three-day celebration.

In an official statement regarding the queen contest Dean Vincent said yesterday afternoon:
"It is the desire of the Rose Festival board to adopt a plan to secure a queen and six Princesses for this year's festival that will be the choice of the largest number of people possible. That we may get the benefit of a variety of opinions we are asking for suggestions as to a popular plan for the selection of the queen and her Princesses. The contestants must be residents of Portland or its suburbs. The plan is not to include any idea of expense to contestants or money consideration for votes."
"We want the contributors to make their suggestions as brief as possible and send them to the newspaper of which they are subscribers. Address letters in care of 'Queen Contest Manager.' The contest will close at midnight of April 17."

"The contest is open to all people and they may make their suggestions as a resident of Portland, or as the secretary or official representative of organizations or associations large or small. This opens the suggestions for a contest plan to everyone in the city and suburbs."

ELECTRIC PARADE IS WANTED
Jovians to Discuss Festival Plans at Hotel Benson Today.

Since the tentative programme of the 1915 Rose Festival, as announced by the executive committee of the board of governors, does not include mention of the electric parade, the Portland Jovian League has inaugurated a movement to determine what action is necessary to give this attraction to festival visitors.

This has always been one of the events of the annual fiesta that has proved a feature to attract thousands of visitors to the city, and Charles E. Warner, president of the Jovian League, yesterday issued a call for a special meeting at the Hotel Benson for 12 o'clock today, when the question of an electric parade as an attraction in June will be discussed.

The electrical parade is particularly important this year," said President Warner, "since a large number of Eastern people will be in Portland festival days on their way to the exposition in California."

Portland's position as a center of great hydro-electric development," continued Mr. Warner, "with many thousands of horsepower now developed and available for use in local industries requiring electrical power makes it of great importance that every opportunity be taken to advertise Portland as a great electrical city."

P. D. Weber, secretary of the Jovian League, will introduce resolutions at today's meeting outlining the plans of this organization to bring about the electrical parade.

The beautiful floats of last year's parade have been inspected by a committee from the Jovians and found to be in perfect condition. What work is necessary to put the floats in readiness for their share in the festival entertainment can be done in less than 30 days.

Good Things in Markets

FLORIDA and California are both sending us fresh strawberries and very fresh and ripe they look. Those from Florida are 25 cents a box; those from the Golden Gate 30 cents. As they all look equally attractive, the difference in price is probably an illustration of "the longer and shorter haul."

Oranges are very plentiful, really good stock being offered from 20 to 40 cents a dozen, and useful little sweet Navel can be had at two dozen for a quarter. Blood oranges are 15 cents a dozen. Lemons 15 to 25 cents a dozen.

Florida grapefruit, two three and four for 25 cents, California, six for a quarter.
Oregon rhubarb is getting larger in size and cheaper, four and even five pounds can now be bought for 10 cents.

Although the bulk of the apple crop has disappeared, good fruit is still being offered. The Dowell Public Market most presentable Newtowns can be had at 90 cents, $1.10 and $1.25 a box; by the dozen they bring 15 and 20 cents a pound. Various apples that class as fancy fruit, Black Twig are 25 cents a dozen, Ortley and Wine-spas each 20 cents, and Ben Davis 10 cents a dozen.

In the vegetable market Oregon is coming forward at a great rate. Local cauliflower, which would require a capacious pot to cook in entire, are offered at 10 and 15 cents. Local asparagus, 15 cents a pound; California, 10 cents. Oregon hothouse cucumbers, 15, 20 and 25 cents.

DEATH FORESEEN 10 DAYS

HENRY JENNING PASSES AWAY AS HE PREDICTED TO SONS.

Funeral Services for Pioneer Furniture Dealer, 35 Years in Portland, to Be Held Today.

That Henry Jennings, head of the Henry Jennings & Sons' firm of furniture dealers, predicted the day of his death 10 days before it occurred, was affirmed by his sons yesterday. They said that their father had not been feeling well, and he called in a physician who told him that he could not live. Mr. Jennings' reply to the physician was that he would live 10 days more. Ten days from the time he made that remark his death occurred.

Mr. Jennings, who died at his home, East Eighth and Multnomah streets, about midnight Wednesday night from heart failure, was a man who had risen to his high place in the furniture business world as the result of his own ability alone. He was born in Waterloo, Ontario, Canada, in 1854. When a boy he learned in the shop the furniture maker's trade, drawing a meager pittance as an apprentice.
Mr. Jennings came to Portland 35 years ago, and with his savings established himself in the furniture business at First and Columbia streets. After several changes in location he located at Second and Morrison, where one of the stores of the company still is situated. Recently the principal store of the company was moved to Fifth and Morrison in a building leased from the Meade estate.

Three grown sons, all associated with him in business and all native Oregonians, survive Mr. Jennings. They are: Fred O. Jennings, Charles Jennings and Henry Jennings, Pioneer Furniture Dealer of Portland, Who Predicted the Day of His Death 10 Days Before.

INDIAN'S PARDON ASKED

GOVERNMENT ETHNOLOGIST AID LAST OF MOLALLAS.

Dr. Frachtenberg in Portland in Behalf of Louie Savage, in Prison for Murder 12 Years Ago.

As a step in efforts to obtain a pardon for Louie Savage, the last of the Molalla Indians, Dr. Leo J. Frachtenberg, Indian ethnologist of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., who is stationed at Chemawa Indian School, visited Portland yesterday. Louie Savage shot and killed another Indian named Frank Wacheeno, on the Grand Ronde Indian Reservation 12 years ago. Savage was fighting with another Indian when Wacheeno interfered as peacekeeper and was shot by accident. Savage was later sentenced to be imprisoned for life in the Government penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

The case of Louie Savage is said in many particulars, said Dr. Frachtenberg. "He is the last of a noble tribe of Indians. Not exactly the last however, for his father, Steve Savage, an old Indian nearing 80 years of age, is living at St. Helens, Or., but is quite sick and his days are numbered."

Steve Savage was my informer of the Molalla tribe history, and greatly assisted me in preparing my Indian history for the Government. He was so valuable that I took him to the Grand Ronde Reservation to assist me there. It was then that I became interested in the case of his only son.
"I corresponded with the warden at Fort Leavenworth penitentiary and learned that Savage had been a model prisoner, never suffering any punishment for breaking rules. His crime was not premeditated and the man he killed was not meant to be hit by Savage."
"A petition was got up for Savage's pardon. Every living juror signed it, but John W. Hall, United States Attorney, who prosecuted Savage, and Dr. Andrew Kershaw, at that time United States Indian agent of the Grand Ronde Reservation, who later resigned but still lives at Williams, would not sign the petition. Dr. Kershaw has agreed to sign a petition for Savage's pardon come back to the Grand Ronde. Supervisor of Indian Employment Dagenett has promised to employ Savage in Colorado if he obtains a pardon."

merly partner in the firm of Henry Jennings & Sons, and a sister, Mrs. Kate Schwab.

The funeral services will be held today at 2 o'clock at the home, Rev. C. E. Cline, an old friend, officiating. The pallbearers will be: W. H. Beharrell, R. E. Bristow, William Gadsby, T. H. Edwards, Thomas Varwig, E. C. Oliver and G. E. K. Fitchner. Rev. Mr. Cline officiated at the funeral of Mr. Jennings' mother about 24 years ago.

WEIGHTS CODE OPPOSED

Ice, Fuel and Feed Dealers Will Protest Today Against Changes.

Dealers in ice, fuel, feed and other commodities sold by weight or measure will appear before the City Council at 10 o'clock this morning to protest against the passage by the Council of a new weights and measures code, proposed by Commissioner Brewster. The ordinance, if passed, will cause a number of important changes in the business methods of the various concerns, particularly the dealers in ice, fuel and feed.

The measure, among other things, provides for the testing of scales before they are sold. It provides that any dealer in ice, fuel or feed must furnish with each delivery a tag showing the exact weight or measurement of the delivery made. This is the provision which is most objectionable.

CITY AGAIN OFFERS WOOD

10,000 Cords to Go at Retail Unless Dealers Bid Enough.

Unless wood dealers make substantial bids for 10,000 cords of wood, to be advertised for sale by the city at once, the wood will be sold by the city at retail. Bids will be opened April 16 for the sale of the wood on the ground and for a contract for hauling it to the city. It has been proposed, but the bids have been too low to be considered. Wood dealers have been asked to bid for the entire 10,000 cords and transportation companies have been asked to bid for the contract for hauling it to the city in the event it is not sold on the ground as it stands.
