

PORTLAND CHINESE FIGHT CONCESSIONS

Yuan Shi Kai Declared Seeking Support for Monarchy by South Manchuria Gift.

DR. SEN HEADS OPPOSITION

Boycott on Goods Continued by Party That Says President Would Sell Republic, Not Yet Realized, by Yielding to Japanese.

Chinese residents of Portland are reported to be a unit in opposing the series of demands recently made upon their native government by Japan, and as a means of expressing their opposition to the Japanese government are continuing their boycott against Japanese-made goods.

Many Portland Chinese are distrustful of Yuan Shi Kai, the President of China, and accuse him of negotiating a trade with Japan so that he may be continued in power. It is openly asserted in the Portland Chinese colony that Yuan has agreed to cede to Japan South Manchuria and Shantung province, in which is located the fortified city of Kiau-Chau, recently captured after a long siege from the Germans while the Germans were engaged in war with the allies in Europe and not in a position to defend it.

At the time that Japan started to attack Kiau-Chau, the Japanese government explained that it was for the mere purpose of driving the Germans out of Asia and not to gain possession of Kiau-Chau would be ceded back to China, but now it appears that Japan is about to gain permanent possession of it after all by forcing Yuan Shi Kai to give it to Japan.

Opposition is Powerful Party. In return for this concession, local Chinese declare, Japan will support Yuan Shi Kai as Emperor of China, and between Yuan and the throne, however, stands a formidable group of Chinese residents, led by Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the first provisional president of the country. Thousands of Chinese in various parts of the United States, including most of the students and a majority of the Chinese colony in Portland, are allied with Dr. Sun and his followers. Among the leaders of the party now in power in China they are known as revolutionists.

It is reported here that Yuan Shi Kai, realizing the growing influence of the revolutionists, recently called upon Japan to expel all such in that country. In return the Japanese government demanded from Yuan Shi Kai a number of concessions with the secret understanding, it is reported, to support Yuan Shi Kai as Emperor.

War Preferred to Concessions. Meanwhile the Chinese students in Japan have quit. They have returned to China to petition Yuan not to grant these concessions. They would rather have war with Japan, they declare. It is reported, also, that agents of Yuan Shi Kai in Japan informed him that the students are not loyal to the present Chinese government and that they really sympathize with the cause of the revolutionists. Recently President Yuan ordered their arrest. Several hundred of them were subject to this order. Two or three of these students, including Quin Nam Tu, a leader among them, started for Pekin. They were warned by friends that they would be imprisoned, so found another medium for protest. They scattered in China to arouse the people to protest to Yuan Shi Kai against granting the Japanese demands.

Nearly All Blame Yuan Shi Kai. "Any story or report designed to create the impression that the Chinese in Portland are hopelessly divided into opposing factions and that the sympathizers with Dr. Sun Yat Sen and the revolutionary cause are a hopeless minority is not true," said a prominent Chinese last night. "As a matter of fact Portland Chinese are absolutely a unit on the question of resisting the demands of Japan. Also they are without exception agreed on supporting the boycott on Japanese trade."

Yuan Shi Kai is regarded almost universally as being primarily responsible for the present situation, and his early overthrow is being prayed for not only by adherents of Dr. Sun but also by large numbers of the conservative element, who have become convinced, reluctantly, it is true, that Yuan is not what they had hoped for, and that the Chinese republic has nothing to hope for from him.

Understanding Said to Exist. That there is a secret understanding between Yuan Shi Kai personally and the inner circle of the Japanese diplomatic group is the firm conviction of many of the best-informed Chinese residents of Portland. In fact, it is openly charged, by the so-called revolutionary element, that there exists a concrete and very specific dossier containing 21 distinct demands on China, all of which Yuan is prepared to have already agreed to grant. It is said that this theory of the nationalists, or revolutionists, is borne out by the recent accounts of negotiations between the Japanese government and the United States.

REED GLASS READY

First Commencement Is to Be Held in June.

GRADUATES ARE TO BE 48

Three, Lindsley Ross, Lowell Bradford and Stephenson Smith, Entering College in 1912, Complete Course in Three Years.

Reed College has begun active preparations to graduate its first class this June, when the members of the class that entered the college in September, 1911, will receive their degrees. Fifty students entered the freshman class in 1911 and of this number 34 have continued in college and will finish this June. Three students have completed the course in three years and 11 others have entered Reed with advanced standing from other institutions, making a total of 48 to graduate this year. The three students who have finished the course in three years are Lindsley Ross, Lowell Bradford and Stephenson Smith, all of whom entered the college in 1911. Five other students, all of whom entered the college with advanced standing, completed their work for the degree last June, but will not receive their degrees until this June. They are W. H. Boddy, Arthur Cayler, Gladys Lowden, Lindsley Ross and Claude Newlin.

Graduation Thesis Required.

Donald Langfield is the class president. Alvin Bradford was president the first year, Ellis Jones the second year and Newton McCoy served as president last year.

Although the time before graduation is short, there is plenty of work for the seniors to do, as the faculty has planned to have them work as long as they remain at the college. Every senior must present a graduation thesis embodying the results of some original investigation in the department of study in which the student has done his major work. A few are lucky enough to have their theses finished, but most of the seniors are still hard at work on them, on departments in which students have majored are English, economics, education, sociology, German, mathematics, physics, physical education, psychology, philosophy, classical languages, chemistry and biology.

They were sentenced to serve three months in the Multnomah County Jail. J. C. Wannassay was found guilty of taking liquor on the reservation and was given a sentence of 60 days and a fine of $100.

RULING HURTS "GREETERS"

Hotelmen's Smoker to Pay Delegate's Expenses Is Doubtful.

The order prohibiting boxing, issued by Chief of Police Clark yesterday, has landed a knockout in the first round to the Greeters' Club, an organization of hotel clerks.

The Portland Greeters' Club had planned to send two delegates to the National convention of Greeters' Clubs, to be held at Atlanta, Ga., in June. In order to raise funds for this purpose they had advertised a smoker at the Armory, April 17.

With the new mandate, the Greeters find themselves in a trying predicament. William G. West, president of the Greeters' Club, Portland, interviewed Mayor Albee, who said that the smoker could be held if it were within the law.

Earlier, William H. Warren, secretary to the Mayor, said that Chief of Police Clark had charge of such affairs and that he should decide. The Chief of Police then said that it was up to the City Commissioners. The Commissioners said that they were not aware of the order, then Chief Clark said that the smoker of the Greeters could not be held.

The boxers at the Greeters' smoker will receive medals if the Chief of Police has fallen before the meeting to take place. If he upholds his ruling that no bouts shall be held until the City Commissioners pass a new ordinance governing boxing, the Greeters' Club of Portland probably will have to go without representation at the convention in Atlanta.

"BIG TIM" ON CITY FORCE

Portland Heights Special Officer Who Was Shot Now Policeman.

T. J. Healy, familiarly known as "Big Tim" is now a member of the Portland police force. He was appointed yesterday by Mayor Albee and will take up the work in a few days.

Mr. Healy, who is an unusually large man, broke into prominence January 27, 1914, when he tackled singlehandedly three highwaymen in Portland Heights. He shot one of them and was himself shot twice. He was in the hospital about two months.

He took a recent civil service examination for policeman and passed. A few days ago a delegation of residents of Portland appeared before the Council and urged an appropriation to pay Mr. Healy for his loss of time and for his hospital bills which followed the shooting.

Instructor Hostess to Club Which Studies and Sews for Home.

The Girls' Club of Frazer Home met with Miss Myrtle Gram, one of the instructors, at her home, 362 Larrabee street, Thursday. They are taking a consistent course of self-culture under Miss Gram's tutelage, and she reports that they are doing splendidly.

The girls are bright and apparently anxious to learn. Miss Gram is more than pleased with her charges. To prevent shoe laces from becoming untied a New York inventor has patented small metal clasps to be fastened to the tops of shoes to hold their ends.

SALMON IN MARKET SEIZED

Proceeds of Sale to Go to State of Washington if Law is Found Valid.

ty Game Warden, and J. P. Burcham, Deputy State Fish Commissioner, who continued the sale. If the emergency clause, about which there is litigation, is found legal, the proceeds of the fish will be turned over to the state.

This law provides that it is unlawful for anyone to have fresh salmon in his possession during the closed season, as well as to catch them.
