Versatility is one of Miss Jean Shelby's chief charms, and it is in a great measure due to this difficult talent that this young actress has made such an enormous hit in "Seven Keys to Baldpate." "Acting is very much like playing the violin," declared Miss Shelby recently. "It requires both strength and lightness of touch and a great deal of virtuosity."

Besides a regular routine and thorough stage training, asserted the uniquely beautiful young actress, a course in dancing is essential to any first-class artist of the stage today. "Although I have danced the modern dances only at private functions," she said. "I find them of great value in teaching me the expression of emotions, the use of the entire body rather than the modern of the dance of the entire body rather than the modern of the use of the entire body rather than the modern of the dance of the entire body rather than the modern of the use of the entire body rather than the modern of the dance of the entire body rather than the modern of the dance of the entire body rather than the modern of the dance of the entire body rather than the modern of the dance of the entire body rather than the modern of the dance of the entire body rather than the modern of the entire body rather than the had the mysterious man and woman, suspected burglars in our city, located. District Attorney Warns Against Use of Literature Without the Author's Name Thereon.

Violation of the corrupt practices act

Violation of the corrupt practices act was admitted by opponents as well as proponents of the $1,250,000 road bond issue, when representatives of both factions were called before District Attorney Evans yesterday morning. Both were ordered to stop the circulation of unsigned campaign literature.

The matter was brought to the attention of Mr. Evans by Roadmaster Yeon in a letter. Mr. Yeon enclosed a campaign card which had been circulated by officials of the Central Labor Council. The card said "Eighty percent of amount raised by good roads bonds will go for graft or profits or

Mr. Evans communicated with Eu-gene E. Smith, president of the Labor Council, who admitted that he had been responsible for the circulation of the cards. He called W. S. U'Ren as his attorney, and the two entered into a conference with Mr. Evans. Mr. U'Ren said the cards were circulated to offset similar cards which had been circulated
