Resident naturalized citizens having families dependent upon them are to be given the preference by the County Commissioners in employing men on future road construction work.

If the people of Multnomah County vote today to issue bonds for permanent road improvements they will aid thus in furnishing employment to worthy citizens of the county.

To establish the position of the county on this point the Commissioners, at a meeting on March 4, adopted the following resolution:

BOND ELECTION IS TODAY

(Continued From First Page.) enthusiasts, have conducted an active campaign in favor of the bond Issue. They have held frequent meetings and some of their members have toured the county, addressing small neighborhood gatherings, civic organizations and clubs, explaining the merits of the bonds and pointing out the necessity for improved roads.

In the midst of the campaign the new Chamber of Commerce perfected its organization and immediately the weight and influence of its 5000 mem-

"If we lose this election it will because the friends of good be because the friends of good roads stay at home," said John B. Yeon last night.

"We have the election won if everyone goes to the polls. The people who favor good roads are greatly in the majority in this county. So much so, I am afraid, that a great many of them will think it unnecessary to go to vote today.

"The enemies of good roads all will be out. Don't forget that. If you want this bond issue to carry you will have to vote. If you stay at home you might as well vote against it."

was thrown behind the movement. The Chamber has been active in the work and has aided materially in arousing the voters to a necessity of

J. Fred Larson, chairman of the road committee of the Chamber, has sent canvassers into every precinct of the peals to the men and the women, urg ing them to vote for the bonds. Partial reports from these solicitors last night indicated an overwhelming sentiment in favor of the bonds in the rural and residential districts.

Some adverse sentiment has been aroused, however, by the leaders of organized labor, who, because the County Commissioners would not guarantee a minimum of $2 a day for all laborers employed on the proposed improvement minimum of $2 a day for all laborers employed on the proposed improvement work, decided to boycott the bonds. They instructed members of organized labor to vote against them.

But organized labor, it is reported, will not generally obey the instructions. Many union men have openly expressed their intention of voting for the bonds, largely for the reason that the improvements will provide work for thousands of unemployed men.

Within the last few days Judge Henry E. McGinn and Colonel C. E. S. Wood have joined the speaking forces of the road advocates and through their efforts alone have convinced many laboring men of the wisdom of voting for the bonds.

Conomy Chief Argument.

One of the principal arguments made in favor of the bonds is that of economy. It has been pointed out that the maintenance charges on 79 miles that it is proposed to pave is $1600 a mile each year, and that the cost of oiling is $18,000 additional—an aggregate of $88,000. If the roads are improved these expenses will be eliminated entirely. Economy Chief Argument.

these expenses will be eliminated entirely.

Interest on $1.250,060 in bonds at 5 per cent will be $52,500 a year. Thus the county will effect a clear saving of $25,500 if it votes for the bonds. It has been calculated that the cost of the bonds to the average home owner will be so slight that it will hardly be noticeable. For the first four years none of the principal is to be paid. The interest during this period will cost precisely 18 cents for each $1000 of assessed valuation. In the fifth year one-tenth of the principal will be paid and one-tenth will be paid each succeeding year until the whole debt has been paid. The interest thus will be automatically reduced each year after the fourth year. The entire cost to each $1000 of assessed valuation, it is figured, thus will be only $5.40, distributed over a period of fifteen years. And as it is expected the assessed valuation of the whole county will increase this figure will be proportion. uation of the whole county will in-crease, this figure will be proportion-ately reduced.
