Money was raised by the association at a silver tea given Friday afternoon to pay for the dishes used at the school-house.

He has been in the city for 12 years. His last night was, "What I Have Tried to Preach and Why." His congregation parts from him with regret. Rev. Mr. Spalding and wife will return to their home at Cedarhurst, King County, Washington, where Rev. Mr. Spalding will take up the work of supply for a few months.
