BY ROSCOE FAWCETT. Buddy Ryan, cast off by Portland Guring the Winter, came up yesterday for Salt Lake with the bases full and his avenging line drive to center field put Portland on the skids.

Buddy's warclub wasn't solely to blame for the defeat in the opening game of the series, but it scored the first two runs and started young Mr. Coveleskie on the downgrade. One of Southpaw Krause's first achievements was to bean his rival pitcher, Gregory, full in the middle of the back with a wide heave. Gregory tried to go on and pitch, but Cliff Blankenship refused to take chances. He yanked his Hannibal hurler in the last half of the fifth and Hawalian Johnny Williams tolled the rest of the afternoon, piling up a winning record for Gregory.

At the recent meeting of the did it was decided to hold an open fly-cast-anglers throughout the Pacific North-west will be invited. A huge float will be anchored in the middle of the Necanicum, just below the Broadway bridge, for the contests.

Gregory set the stage for the pyrotechnics in the fifth by scratching a single over the pitching mound. Gregory stole second base. Shinn singled to left. Orr flied out to Davis. Coveleskie pasted Zacher on the funny bone and this filled the bases.

Buddy looked over a couple of the Shamokin lad's much-irrigated "spitters" and then cracked one on the nose on a beeline to center field. Two men crossed the plate, putting the Bees alread, 2 to 0. Gedeon belted another in with a single to center and Barbour cleaned up the remaining duet by a line drive that percolated through Fred Derrick. This accounts for the six runs, we believe.

Notes of the Game.

Buddy Ryan accepted two or three thrill-ing catches, besides hitting hard. Lober made a dandy catch on one of Buddy's long drives. Buddy looks better than he did last year with Portland. He was given quite an ovation first time up.

The Salts negotiated four double plays and one of them almost ended in a dispute. Cliff Blaukership claimed that Portland's score in the fifth should not be allowed because Krause was doubled out when he failed to return to first after Speas' sacrifice fly to center. Blank was wrong, because it was a reverse forcout and if the baserunner crosses the plate before this kind of a force the run counts.

Just why this rule is so is hard to understand. The fact is, the batted ball compels the runner on first to remain where he is until caught, or—as in this case—to return to first. The direction of the force is inverted, but it is no less a force. And yet custom decrees that the run shall count in the case of the reverse force and shall not count in the case of the direct force.

a run. If Finney had not noticed the change until after the hit Lush would have been called out for batting contrary to the batting order. . . .

Either Hall or Lefty Williams will heave for Sait Lake today and probably Lush for Portland. . . .

Cliff Blankenship announced the release of Benny Henderson. "I don't think Ben can get in shape." he explained. Speas surprised Elmer Zacher by stretch-og his single into a two-bagger in the third uning.

MARCAN SOON TO JOIN OAKS of the Giants off the field in the ninth Infielder's Coming Explains Tale

Alcock Is to Leave, It Is Said. SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—(Speclal.)—Marcan, the Oakland infielder, who was procured from Birmingham, in the Southern Association, and who was prevented from coming out earlier because Little Rock, in the same league, put in a claim for his services, has consented to join the Oaks and will arrive in three or four days. The Oakland club took the case to the minor leagues' association and won out.

The coming of Marcan perhaps explains the rumor that Scotty Alcock is to be let out by Manager Christian. Marcan had a pretty good scason with the Birmingham team last year. In 155 games he batted .254 and stole 29 bases, but his best work was leading the second basemen in fielding.
