MEMBER OF FRYE CREW IN PORTLAND

Everett, Wash., Youth Tells of Capture and Destruction by German Warship. CAPTIVES TREATED KINDLY

Food Not Good, but Kaiser's Men and Prisoners Fair Alike and Latter Are Permitted to See Other Vessels Sunk.

Duane Tweeddale, 19 years old, a resident of Everett, Wash., who was on the American bark William P. Frye when it was captured by the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich January 28 of the west coast of North America, arrived in Portland yesterday as quartermaster on the American-Hawaiian steamship Hawaiian. The Frye was sunk by the German warship.

Tweeddale said that while his experiences had been unpleasant at times, the Germans were kind to their captives. He saw no cruelty on board the Eitel Friedrich and received the same kind of food that was given to the German sailors.

On the afternoon of January 27 we were sighted by the Eitel Friedrich, which was sinking the Russian bark Isabella when we came aboard. Captain Theierken, in command of the German ship, placed an armed guard on board our ship and told us that we would have to dump part of our cargo overboard, leaving just enough for ballast.

The Eitel Friedrich then sighted the French bark Pierre Loti and, taking off its provisions and crew, sank it about 10 P. M. At 1 o'clock in the morning of January 28 the German cruiser returned and said that we would have to leave the Frye in the morning, as our ship was to be sunk at 5 o'clock. We took off provisions and then lowered the lifeboats containing ourselves and our belongings.

"I don't think that they ever had any intention of paying us for our work. The Frye was dynamited and went down at 7:30 A. M.

The French bark Jacobson was sunk by a shot on the same afternoon, the crew having been removed along with provisions for them. All these ships were caught in a calm and had collected together.

"We then traveled east and west at a speed of four knots while looking for other victims. February 9 the Norwegian bark Thalassa, bound for Sweden, was sighted, but was allowed to go unharmed, as it was a neutral ship bound for a neutral port."

The sinking of other vessels was described in about the same words used by the German commander on reaching Newport News.

"THE GREAT JEWISH QUESTION" IS TOPIC AT WHITE TEMPLE.

Lecturer Declares Race Will Yet Be One Through Which Others Will Be Blessed—Scriptures Quoted.

A large number of Jewish men and women were among those who heard Dr. A. C. Gaebelein give his address Tuesday night in the White Temple, where he spoke on "The Great Jewish Question," which was one of the series of sermons he is giving this week in connection with the Bible Conference under the auspices of several of the city's churches.

Dr. Gaebelein said that the Jewish race would yet be the one through which others would be blessed. It only remained, he said, "for the Jews to realize that Christ is the Son of God."

The speaker cited instances of Jews who had been converted to Christianity and who had been among the foremost workers for the cause.

The Scriptures were quoted freely in support of Dr. Gaebelein's convictions. He said that although God had predicted many sorrows and wanderings for the Jewish race, he had never said that these conditions would continue for all time.

The speaker said, "Their eyes will be opened. They will be brought home. The Jewish people in reality save salvation to the Gentiles. God wants to provoke the Jew to jealousy. His salvation will yet be given to the Jew."

"Four hundred years ago the Jews were driven out of Spain. Today everything in Spain is mortgaged to the Jew. When the great day comes and the scattered nations shall be reunited, how great will be the fulness of its riches."

YONKERS, N. Y., April 22.—The strike among the 1000 pupils of public school No. 20, who refused to attend school because William S. Maxon, their former principal, failed to be reappointed, collapsed today, when 13 of the boy strikers were fined $2 each by City Judge Beall.

Seven of the lads had spent a night of reflection in jail and promised today to go back to school.

Maxon himself was partly responsible for ending the trouble. He went among the pupils urging them to go back to their desks.
