BY ROSCOE FAWCETT. Big Bill Burns—a familiar landmark in the Coast League along about earthquake time-tried to pitch and umpire at the same time yesterday in the second game between Los Angeles and Portland. Undoubtedly the prodigal southpaw is sorry now because he was kicked out of the game by Umpire Finney, and to another pitcher goes the credit for defeating the langurous Beavers. Outfielder Wolter was also banished by Finney later in the wrangly engagement.

Score: Los Angeles 6, Portland 5.

"Lefty" Scoggins, the head pelter in the Western League last year, ascended the mound when Burns was chased to the mosque in the sixth inning, and "Lefty" hung up his fifth consecutive victory since coming to the Angels this had a trial with the Chicago Sox dur-ing the Spring preliminaries. He looks to be S. S., which means "some south-paw." Higg's Support Poor.

Higginbotham, for Portland, pitched steady, consistent ball, but had erratic support. In fact, according to the offi-cial scorer's dope-sheet attached fol-lowing as Exhibit A, the really truly score should have been: Portland 5, Stumpf at second base booted an easy chance and let two filter across in the fifth, and Fred Derrick forgot that the umpires nowadays live up to the rule requiring batters to run outside the diamond going from home to first base. When Abstein bunted in the eighth Derrick's throw hit him in the back and this was directly responsible for the Angels company from behind in for the Angels coming from behind in that stanza and sewing up the matinee with two runs,

if we remember it Los Angeles won a game on the local lot about four years ago on this same play. George Hildebrand called the only one of these decisions ever handed down by the blue-serged tribunal, and it cost Portland the ball game.

Umpire Has Poor Day. Yesterday's battle was one of much yesterday's battle was one of much pepper, much see-saw, many base hits, many girls and giggles, many thrills and much sunshine. It was ladies' day and nearly 4000 feminines were on hand, all spick and span in new Sum-

Walt McCredie began the umpire baiting by hopping the umps about Southpaw Burns' balk move to first base. The Angels evidently had their instructions not to let Mack get the jump on the arbiters, because they began a concerted attack immediately

Burns met his Waterloo for intimating to Ed Finney that he would enter people's houses by the second-story windows. Finney peeved Big Bill for calling. Higginbotham safe at first when Burns had him caught off the bag. After a 10 minutes' argument, staged for no reason in the world except to give Scoggins time to warm his left propeller, the game proceeded.

Wolter Is Ejected. Harry Wolter objected to something later on—nobody could figure out what it was from the stand—and another southpaw wended his laborious way to the bench. Pop Dillon was later ban-ished from the coaching line for cinna-mon talk. All in all, poor Ed Finney earned his daily stipend.

Two new regulars appeared in the Portland lineup—Rodney Murphy at third and George Eircher at left—and hoth did that share toward checking both did their share toward checking the slump. Kircher secured three of Portland's 13 hits, besides a walk. Mur-phy played good ball, except for a costly wide throw in the fifth, after negotiat-

Los Angeles scored twice in the first inning on a walk, Buemiller's double and an infield out. Portland tied in the third on Stumpf's single over second, following hits by Murphy and Speas. Again in the fifth the Angels forged ahead with two runs after errors by Stumpf and Murphy. Ellis brought g a circus stop.

Benvers Lend in Seventh Doane put the Beavers ahead in the seventh, 5-4, by singling cleanly over short after two had been passed by Scoggins. As Higginbotham was going well this looked like the ball game. However, Hig began the eighth by walking Ellis. Abstein's bunt and Der-rick's consequent peg to his kidneys, put the men around to second and third. Maggert was intentionally passed, filling the bases. McMullen tled the count by a squeeze bunt, and Terry's sacrifice fly to Speas brought over the Notes of the Game.

Notes of the Game Elmer Rieger was out limbering up with the Angels. Elmer is trying to land a job with "Pop" Dillon.

Portland has now lost eight out of the last 10 games played. Terry left his position to take a throw at frame, second base in the third inning and found himself in exactly the right position to pull down a base hit by Carisch.

Shortstop Terry's work continues to be sensational for the visitors, but nobody wants to overlook Fred McMullen. The ex-Tacoma lad is playing great ball for Dillon.

Despite the defeat Higginbotham is leading his team with three wins and two losses.

Kircher took Lober's place in left and Murphy played third, Davis moving over to shortstop.

. . . Elmer Martinoni watched the embroglio from the grandstand. He was decidedly wrathy at Walter McCredic for his release. "I didn't get a chance except as relief pitcher without proper time to warm up," said he. Elmer doesn't know where he will
