Efficiency Expert Says Elimination of Waste Would Aid as Much as Speeding.

ENERGY USED RECKLESSLY

Soiled Clothing Burned Because It Is Easier to Replace Than Wash It. Sweeping Method of Reform Is Outlined.

LONDON, April 9 .- (Corespondence of the Associated Press.)-An efficiency expert who has been assigned to spe cial duty at the front studying possible economies in equipment and supplies, reports that there are endless opportunities for preventing waste. He says these opportunities would be just as profitable to the sum total of production as a 10 or 20 per cent speeding up of the overworked factory hands in Manchester or Liverpool.

"To most laymen and many soldiers war is synonymous with waste," writes the expert, "and the question of preventing it hardly enters into the calculation of the average man.

"When war comes a complete metaplies, reports that there are endless culation of the average man.

"When war comes a complete metamorphosis takes place. Necessity is mistress of the situation. All the checks and penalties of peace time are inoperative. What is wanted must be forthcoming, and of these wants the executive officer is the sole judge. There is no time for inquiries; no opportunity for penalties. Is it human that the average man, up to now bound hand and foot by regulations, will have any conscientous regard for the virtues of economy?

Reckless Spirit Is Pervading.

"This spirit of recklessness permeating all ranks is largely accountable for the preventable waste which every thinking soldier knows exists in the army today. A visit to the advance ordnance department is instructive to the man of business or the student of economy. In walks a quartermaster or his deputy, intent on getting what he can. He probably has requisitions signed by his commanding officer for what he wants: in addition he has one or two blank forms signed, which he or two blank forms signed, which he will complete if he sees anything in the depot that he thinks he would like. His characteristic attitude is not "What do I really want with a due regard for economy?" In fact he wants all he can get, without regard to the wants of others. It is not surprising, therefore, that equipment so easily procured will be carelessly expended.

"The writer has seen good solled clothing burning on a heap of refuse because it was easier to draw new than to wash the old. He has seen gricles exchanged for food with civilians or given away as souvenirs; he intered its fifth day with the outcome still in the Carpathians and in Russian Poland heavy artillery combats occurred at isolated points. This same disregard of economy is ex-tended to the expenditure of ammuni-tion, which, within limits, can be saved just as well as clothing, food or other munitions of war.

"It is easy to prove the case, but more difficult to propound a remedy. The hardened official will contend that waste, if excessive, is entirely due to defective discipline and that it is only required to the ten the discipline to required to tighten the discipline stop the leakage. But while punish-ment of offenders may be good, pre-vention of the offense is better and the ramedy is to be found, not in adding to the terrors of discipline, but in em-bodying the cult of economy in the fabric of army training Supervision

"A method such as this, although outlined for peace, should also be maintained during war, to the extent that the wastage of each unit should be tabulated in the base offices and an average for similar units arrived at. ANTI-KAMNIA TABLETS FOR Locomotor

In a very interesting article on Locomotor Ataxia. Dr. Henry C. Story says that drugs have practically no beneficial effect in these cases. He says that rest should be insisted upon, and there should be no worries or troubles. Plenty of fresh air and moderate exercise must be insisted upon, but oversexertion is injurious. The use of tobacco and alcohol should be strictly forbidden, and over-esting is dangerous, especially when the food is poorly masticuted. The food must be of the most nourishing kind, and the quantity and variety must be changed so that the patient will not lose his appetite. The most annoying symptom in these cases is the pain which at times is almost unbearable. Dr. Story says that he finds two Anti-kampia Tablets repeated in an hour if necessary, gives prompt relief and rest to the patient. These Tablets can be obtained at all druggists in any quantity desired. Ask for A-K Tablets.
