

CANAL OPENS FOR OFFICIAL STEAMER

Undine Carries Jolly Party to Celilo Celebration at Lewiston.

STOP MADE AT THE DALLES

Wonders of Giant Work Are Viewed by Passengers and Notables Taken on Board for Upper Columbia Trip.

BY SHAD O. KRANTZ.
MAY 1, (Special.)—Imagine the Yeon building in Portland, or the City Hall or the Courthouse lifted bodily 81 feet into the air and maintained there without inconvenience or discomfort to its occupants while the conventional activities inside continued uninterrupted and the world on the outside looked on with manifest approval, without surprise.

Nothing like that ever happened to the Yeon building or to the Courthouse or City Hall.

Undine in New Territory.
Nothing like that ever happened to the steamer Undine—until today. It was a strange sensation for the familiar lower Columbia River vessel and its jolly crew of 100 passengers.

The Undine was locked through the Celilo Canal this afternoon. She completed her voyage through the locks at 7 o'clock tonight and today struck out for the mouth of the Snake River above. It was the first time that the Undine ever had voyaged above the Dalles. She brought fresh evidence in a concrete form of the continuity of service that the new waterway provides between the Upper Columbia and its tributaries and the Lower Columbia.

Lock Trip Takes Four Hours.
The 81-foot lift through the four steel and concrete locks was negotiated in about four hours. Captain Thomas at the wheel and Captain L. P. Hoxford on deck nonchalantly navigated the vessel on her strange voyage with no outward indication at all that this was their initial trip through the canal.

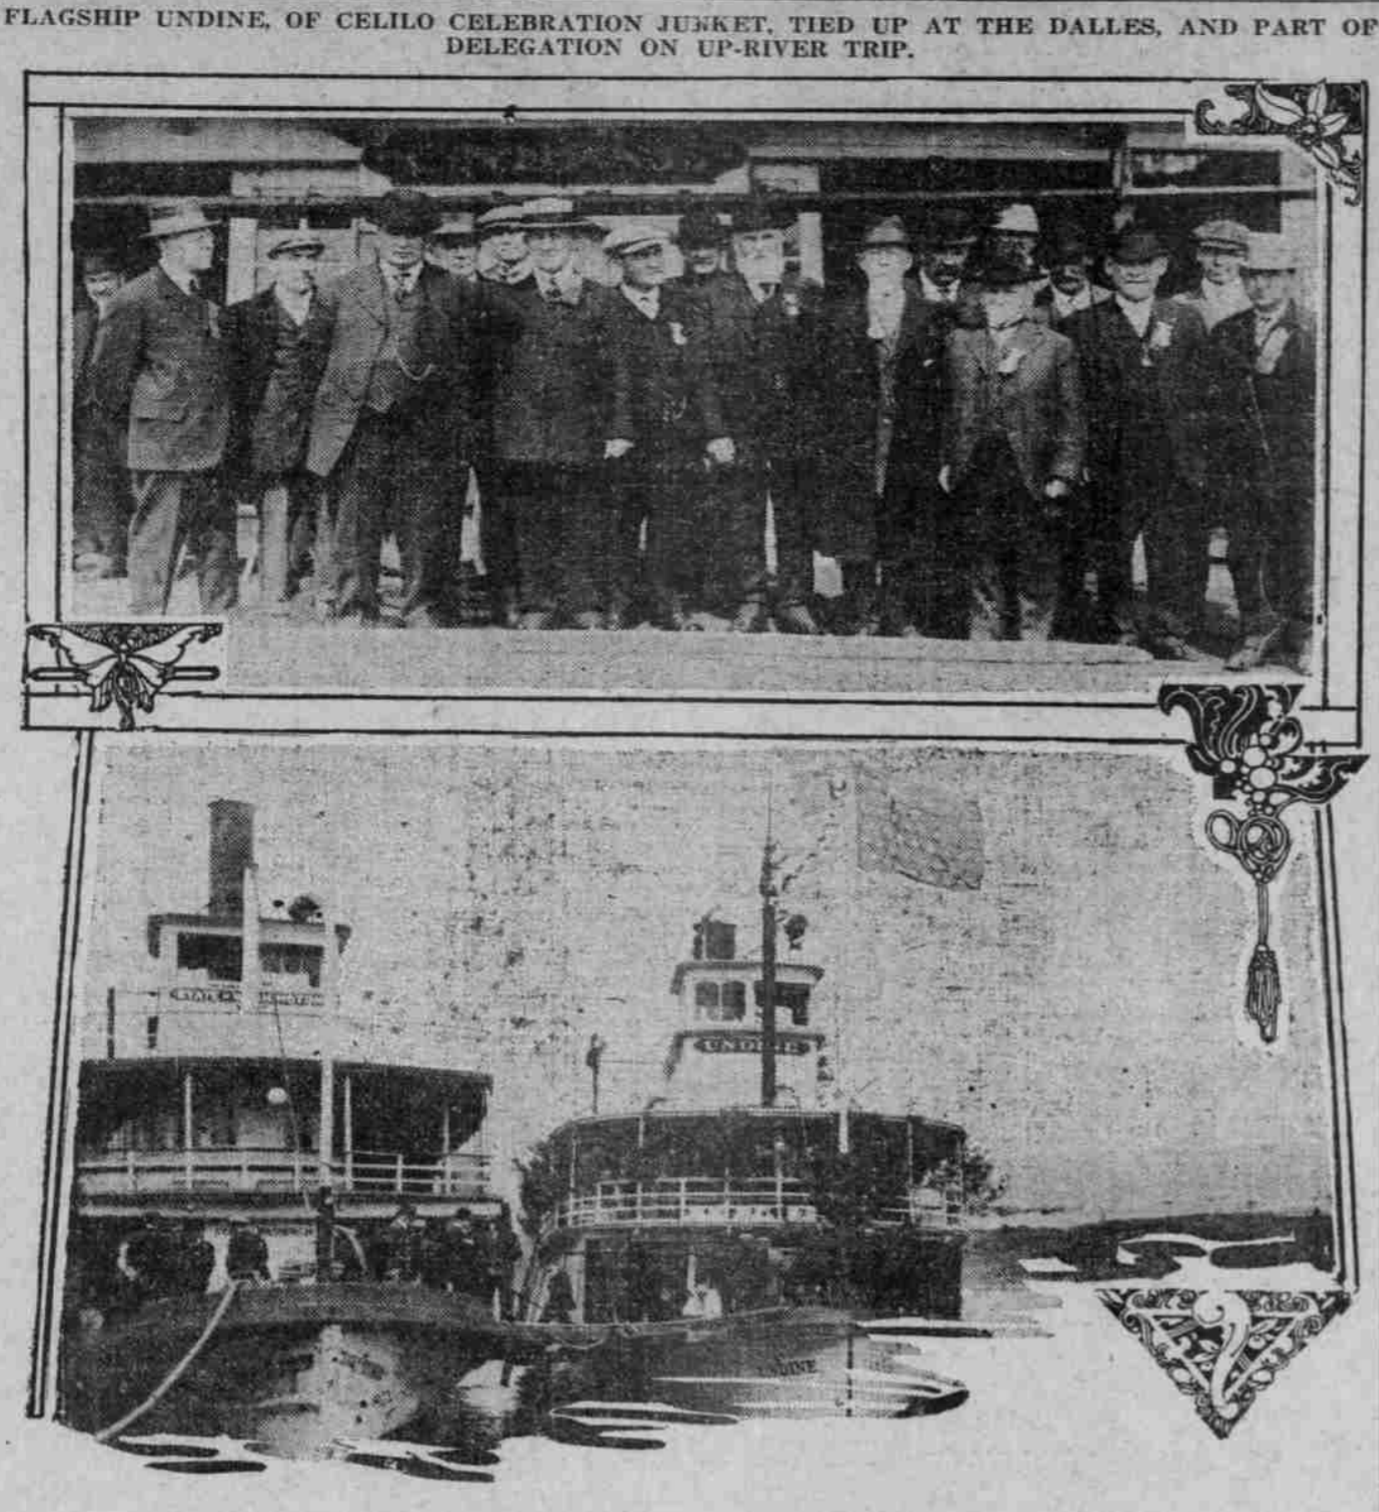

The passengers gathered on the decks observing the nature of the construction work and noting how the Federal engineers had labored to conquer the barrier of rocks that Wednesday, when the canal and locks will be dedicated for regular use.

Engineer Acts as Guide.
Fredrick C. Schuber, the Army Engineer, who has been in active charge of the construction, followed the vessel in his gasoline go-devil, advising the officers of the nature of the channel.

The passage through the canal followed a morning and early afternoon of disappointing weather. At 9 o'clock this morning the wind was blowing a steady gale. Captain Hoxford decided to take no chances. He waited at The Dalles until after 2 o'clock, when comparative calm prevailed. Meanwhile, passengers and crew were informally entertained by residents of The Dalles, who told of the preparations they are making for an elaborate celebration next Wednesday, when the canal and locks will be dedicated for regular use.

Mr. Sinnott Joins Party.
N. J. Sinnott, Representative in Congress from the Second Oregon district, joined the party at the Dalles and will continue on board throughout the week of festivities. The canal is in his district, and he always has taken an active interest in its development.

Miss Wilma Bonnell, of The Dalles, selected by the people of that city to pilot a boat of water into the canal at the celebrating exercises, also came on board and will remain for the trip to Lewiston. Ex-Mayor Wingate, of The Dalles, also joined the party there today.
