Oregon City Fishermen Draw Record Haul First Night.

MANY NETS ARE ON RIVER

Launches Return to Canneries Full of Chinook-Results Show Best Spots Are Those to Be Closed May 22 by Gill Bill,

OREGON CITY, Or., May 2.—(Special.)—In the 12-hour period, beginning at 7 o'clock last night and ending at 7 o'clock this morning, 50 tons of salmon were taken from the Willamette River by the net fishermen in their first night of activity, after the opening of the season at noon Saturday. The estimate of 60 tons for the night's peared here every Spring for 35 years, declared this morning that he never experienced such a cutch. In the earlier days individual catches were probably as large, he said, but the total never reached that of last night.

Cannery Launches Loaded.

The launches that come here from the cannery were loaded with fish and a scow was obtained to take the rest of the catch down the river. Several the individual catches were enormous. Charles Gates, with his associates, caught seven tons last night, while many of the fishermen brought in two, three and four-ton catches. Ninety fish were taken from one set net at times early this morning when the fishing was at its best.

The night was not without its law-breakers. Wardens Clarke, Jewell and Ware, who are stationed here, found six nets whose owners did not have licenses. In such cases the nets and fish are taken. Warden Jewell this morning displayed a receipt for 530 salmon caught in unlicensed nets. The money will be turned into the state

30-Pound Carp Taken.

Fishermen say that almost all of the fish taken out last night are old and have been in the river for a long time. Included in the catch were a few steel-heads, although 98 per cent were chinook. Jack Albright landed one 30-pound carp, said to be the largest caught here for several seasons. Although with the beginning of the net-fishing season, trolling has been met-fishing season, trolling has been spoiled, 40 or 50 boats of line fish-ermen were out this morning, but only a few catches were made.

The Gill bill, which will close the river to net fishing from the falls to the suspension bridge, will become effective May 22. Last night's fishing showed that this stretch of water is the best in the river, as most of the fish was taken from these deep holes.

Fog. However, Comes in Time to Prevent Heavy Damage.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., May 2.—
(Special.)—Heavy frost damage to fruit was prevented early this morning by a fog which came up just after the mercury had reached the lowest point, 32 degrees on the ground, and 32 in the weather bureau. About midnight the sky cleared and the mercury began to go down, then the fog started the mercury back up the tube. Some places reported slight damage, but it is not general. Some foothill orchards have been hurt to some extent.
