THE MORNING OREGONIAN. FRIDAY, MAY 7, 1915.

1: 108.2

festival center to a main street instead of the park blocks was suggested, but it was finally decided, upon the recom-mendation of J. A. Curry, to support the Rose Festival Center already selected sald:

preservation of cut flowers, in which he said that experiments by the United States and but experiments by the United States and by the French government brought forth the fact that a one-tenth per cent solution of sugar put into water, about an ounce to a pint, and having the stems split two inches from the bottom, would greatly prolong the life of the flowers.

FARMERS GET INVITATIONS