trouble and I should not accomplish my mission in life if I sat here day after day looking as glum as you do. Besides that, what are a few knocks in this world? They only make us better able to see the funny side. This is no place for you; you better go back to the land you came from, where you can sit and dose all day. For my part, I am glad I was made in the land where they keep things moving."

BOYCOTT BANNER ISSUE

COMMERCE COMMITTEE AND LABOR OFFICIALS CONFER.

Meeting is Secret, but Result is Declared to Be That Offensive Placard Will Not Be Used.

With Mayor Albee sitting as a friend of both sides, labor union officials and members of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday started negotiations which are expected to result in the discontinuance of boycott banners on the streets of Portland without the necessity of the question of prohibiting them being submitted to the voters. While the meeting was secret, it is said the way was made clear for a settlement of the boycott banner problem in the near future.

Representing the Chamber of Commerce were O. M. Clark, C. C. Colt, J. E. Korr and J. G. Ainsworth. The Labor Council was represented by E. E. Smith, C. M. Ryerson, C. O. Young, William McKenzie and E. J. Stack. The meeting was called at the instigation of officials of the Chamber of Commerce and the Central Labor Council. It is expected by those who attended the meeting that the problem will be settled satisfactorily. Under the plan which is being formulated between the labor officials and the Chamber of Commerce officials the Central Labor Council will cease the use of boycott banners.

Boycott banners have been the source of annoyance in Portland for years past. A fight has been made against them by commercial organizations on the ground that they accomplish nothing and do great harm to the city by frightening away prospective investors.

Request of residents of Portland Heights that Tim Healy, formerly a night watchman in that part of the city, be paid for the time he lost on account of being shot in January of last year by two highwaymen was denied by the City Council yesterday because of the fact that Mr. Healy has received a place on the police force.

Mr. Healy was in the hospital several months as a result of his act of bravery.
