Important to Business Women

Most women engaged in or employed in business are restricted to sedentary habits and get little active outdoor exercise. This brings on constipation, which is the forerunner of numerous other ills. When possible, business women should take regular outdoor exercise every day and drink an abundance of water, especially half an hour before meals, also eat liberally of apples and bananas. This will help to prevent constipation. When a laxative is needed take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are mild and gentle and their action is not followed by constipation.
