

GAY STREET IS PLAN

Grand Avenue to Be Festive for Parade of Rosebuds.

MERCHANTS DEVISE WAYS

Conference With Festival Officials Outlines Elaborate Work to Be Done on Decoration. Electric Pageant Wanted.

Grand avenue, on which the "human rosebud" and the automobile parades will pass during the Rose Festival, will be elaborately decorated between Hawthorne avenue and East Burnside street, as will also Hawthorne avenue, East Morrison and East Burnside streets from the bridges to Grand avenue. The Rose Festival managers and the East Side Business Men's Club jointly will undertake the placing of decorations.

At the conference yesterday of the club committee, of which P. D. Sherman is chairman, and Jacob Kandler and H. L. Wold, of the Rose Festival managers, at luncheon in the Hotel Edwards the plans for the parade on East Side streets practically was settled.

We were glad to know that the East Side Business Men's Club had appointed a committee on decorations," said Mr. Kandler, "for we used all the assistance and co-operation we can get from you people and you can help us materially this year."

Children Well Trained.
It is admitted that the "human rosebud" parade is one of the great features of this Rose Festival. It will be held on Grand avenue, the avenue must have a suitable setting. Robert Krohn, who is drilling the children, will have one of the best parades ever given in Portland, according to reports we are receiving. The Rose Festival committee plans to place flags, five by eight feet, on the crosswalks between Hawthorne avenue and East Burnside street, to which will be added such other decorations as the East Side Business Men's Club may have. Mr. Wold, who has charge of the decorations, will put up the Grand-avenue decorations.

It was decided to use the additional flags and streamers in possession of the East Side Business Men's Club on Grand avenue, which are under the control of J. D. Sherman, chairman of the decoration committee.

Electric Parade Also Wanted.
These flags were found in good condition on inspection after the luncheon. With the material provided Mr. Wold said Grand avenue can be made one of the most attractively decorated streets in the city for the Festival. It was further planned to have all the poles on Grand avenue painted white.

There was some discussion as to whether the electric pageant should be brought across the bridges to Grand avenue, and it was the sentiment of Mr. Kandler and Mr. Wold that if it could be done it would greatly increase the interest of the electric feature. They promised to assist the East Side Business Men's Club in its efforts to have the electric pageant across the bridges.

The conference will be held at the home of Mr. Wold, representing the Rose Festival committee, for the proper decoration scheme for the streets to be used by the parades.

TIME TO ACT HELD NOW

SENATOR LANE TELLS REALTY MEN CITY SHOULD "GRAB TRADE"

Utilize Columbia and Other Waterways Fully to Bring Increased Prosperity is Advice.

That Portland will suffer in comparison with other cities along the Pacific Coast if it does not make the best of its natural resources by utilizing the Columbia River and other waterways to the fullest possibility was the principal contention of United States Senator Lane in an after-luncheon address before the Portland Realty Board at the Commercial Club yesterday on "Portland, Past and Future."

Portlanders must adopt some of the Seattle spirit and reach out to grab all the trade they can, said Senator Lane. "We are not an enthusiastic people, we are too prone to take things easy. By this I do not mean that we should be foolish enough to boost our heads off, but we must grasp every opportunity to advance. Portland is entitled to be the largest, richest, most prosperous city on the Pacific Coast. It is the time that decides Portland's ultimate fate. Our happiness and our prosperity, for better or for worse, depends upon what action we now take."

In Washington Oregon has the reputation of not making requests, and when requests are made for appropriations they are usually respected. But we will not get any further appropriations for the Columbia River unless we make use of the Columbia and the Snake and show by actual statistics that we are making tonnage both ways. The Columbia River is of little advantage unless we develop traffic along the river."

After telling the history of trading activity in Portland, commencing in the early days, Senator Lane traced the steps that made Portland a great city.

Secretary Cowell announced to the board that the Chicago Realty Board would pass through Portland on July 8, en route home from the real estate convention at Los Angeles.

CHAMBER BEGINS CAMPAIGN

Further Use of Oregon Goods Sought Under Advantage of Bingham Bill.

To stimulate the use of Oregon manufactured goods and Oregon labor, the Chamber of Commerce yesterday began a campaign, through its bureau of industries and manufactures, to take advantage of the Bingham bill, which becomes effective this month.

The Bingham bill gives a preferential of 5 per cent in favor of goods manufactured in Oregon, or in favor of Oregon labor, in the consideration of competitive bidding before County Courts, boards of County Commissioners, School Boards, City Councils or other public officers authorized to purchase supplies or contract for labor.

The purchasing officer is authorized to accept as the lowest bid that offered by representatives of Oregon products, the bid of the latter is not more than 5 per cent higher than the lowest or from any other state.

The opening of the new Broadway central office of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company tomorrow morning in its new building at the corner of Oak and Park streets marks another milestone in the advance of Portland, as the increase of telephones has come to be regarded as one of the factors which determines the progress of a community. In 1887 there were but 1113 telephones in Portland, while today there are nearly 44,000 telephones connected with the Pacific system in Portland.

The new long-distance switchboard installed in this building is the latest thing in switchboard design and will be placed in service about June 1. It embodies every feature that will tend toward improvement in the long-distance service.

Other expenditures have been made recently embodying distinctive features for the good of the service generally, including a 1500-wire underground cable, which is the largest capacity cable in the West. Another distinctive feature in the new switchboard is the new submarine cable, which is the largest capacity submarine cable in the world.

The new switchboard together with these additions represents an expenditure of approximately $350,000.

Manager Spoerl says that the new office, to be known as "Broadway," will serve for the present 2114 telephones located in the northern end of the west side business district. The area will be extended at a future date.
