BY EDITH KNIGHT HOLMES.

The 27th annual convention of the Episcopal Church in the diocese of Oregon, which opened yesterday in Trinity parish-house, celebrates the 62d anni-versary of the founding of the church in Oregon and marks an epoch of hisin Oregon and marks an epoch of history-making for the church in this state. A new enthusisam, a broader spirit of optimism than has prevailed for a long time seemed to pervade yearerday's sessions, and in-spite of hard times and many discouragements the clergy and laity assembled from various parts of the diocese seemed to get the spirit that prompted Bishop Sumner in his address when he said, "Let us be my and doing and pressing forbe up and doing and pressing for-

The most important act of business of The most important act of business of the afternoon was the adoption of a resolution and the indorsing of recommendations that Bishop Scott School be closed permanently. The school, according to the report of the secretary, John K. Kollock, has been run at a considerable loss. Since its establishment in Yamhill County it has not been patronised, and even when established in Portland was a losing proposition for several years. for several years.

The advice of President Kerr, of Oregon Agricultural College, and Professor H. D. Sheldon, of University of Oregon, was quoted by the bishop regarding the expediency of closing the school.

The passing of Bishop Scott School recalls to old-time Portlanders its founding by Bishop Morris and the many classes of young men, now among the leading citizens, who were among its graduates.

The convention opened yesterday with a service in Trinity Church, celebration of the holy communion and the bishop's address.

fect.
"With this statement at hand we have checked up the securities and I am quite certain that the principal of every fund is conserved.

Fund Shows Growth.

"The total of the trust shows a gratfrying increase during Bishop Scadding's episcopacy, so that we have every reason to believe that even though no accounts are available showing the receipts and expenditures of these years, that undoubtedly they were accounted for to Bishop Scadding from time to time.

"The bishop's fund, as the trust is called, is a fund the management of which is left entirely in the hands of R the bishop. The income is expended for such objects as the various donors indicated when they established the fund. Failing to do this, the income is expended as the bishop may desire. My predecessors have not felt called upon to report to the convention the amount of the fund. In this they were Blahop Sumner paid high tribute to the memory of his predecessor. Bishop Scadding, whom he teamed "kind and gentle, a man who loved to be to his clergy as a father."

Finances Are Discussed.

The financial condition of the diocese was discussed at length. He pledged to the church his loyalty, his first thought, constant care and fervent prayers, and added: "We are not as men without hope. We must be the bishop stated that he had visited all the parishes except Coos Bay and a few scattering missions.

To the archdeacon, the venerable H. D. Chambers, and to the members of the standing committee, the bishop gave credit for loyal assistance and support.

support.

If the suggestion of the bishop and of the able men whom he has consulted is carried out it is probable that the Bishop Scott School, which is a financial failure, will be discontinued. Those who would have inherited the segment from which the Bishop Scott property from which the Bishop Scott School fund is derived are of the same opinion. An action of the court to dissolve this fund and place it in needed channels for diocesan work will be necessary.

Why "Mutual Creamery Company?"

You are entitled to have this question answered. We are glad to submit the answer:

"Mutual Creamery Company" because farm co-operation and elimination of middlemen are the natural outcome of the tendency of the times. The interests of the producing farmer and the company which directly handles his products, become "mutual" by the two working for the elimination of the useless efforts and waste so characteristic of an entirely competitive system. Co-operation between producers of the raw materials and the manufacturers of finished products, even to the extent of "sharing the profits" of such industry, is a modern-day innovation.

Because the predecessor of the Mutual Creamery Company, the Jensen Creamery Company, had achieved such marked success, it was big enough to adopt this present-day method of doing business when the new form of company was organized. The officers who built the Jensen Creamery Company are now directing the affairs of the "Mutual" organization. They are men of progressive ideas, who believe in the big, broad principle of "live and let live." They want nothing more than a fair compensation for investment of money, labor and ability, and offer the producers of creamery products, who make the business possible, an opportunity to share equally in all the profits that may come to the Mutual Creamery Company.

Such an organization, operating on a co-operative, profit-sharing basis, will effect economies that will permit it to furnish the public with the highest quality products at the lowest possible consistent cost. No matter what the price, however, patrons will always get extraordinary values in Mutual Creamery Company products.

Oil Treatment for Stomach Troubles

A simple prescription made up of a combination of pure vegetable oils is producing wonderful results for sufferers from stomach, liver and intestinal troubles. The remedy, which is said to have originated in France, where it has been used for years by the peasantry, was introduced into this country by George H. Mayr, a leading Chicago druggist, who cured himself of aevere stomach, liver and intestinal troubles by its use. Those who have used it say the first dose is sufficient to convince any one of its remarkable merit, and that within 24 hours the sufferer feels like a new person. This medicine, which has become known as Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, is sold by leading druggists everywhere with the positive understanding that your money will be refunded without question or quibble if ONE bottle fails to give you absolute satisfaction.—Adv.
