MRS. G. W. PITTOCK DEAD

Former Portland Resident, 81 Since Last Summer, Dies in Arizona. News has been received in Portland of the death in Tucson, Ariz., last Sunday of Mrs. George W. Pittock, who formerly lived in Portland and had many friends here. She had been ill since August, 1914, and twice had undergone operations since that date. Mrs. Pittock was the daughter of the late Ruben Weeks and Mrs. C. W. Weeks. Besides her husband she is survived by a son, Ralph W. Pittock, a native of Portland, now a resident of Los Angeles. The funeral was held last Monday. The service was simple and private, as had been the wish of Mrs. Pittock.

Autoist Kind in Vain

With the consciousness of one doing a good deed, the driver of a big empty auto truck drove his machine slowly up the West Side incline of the Burnside bridge last night. He thought he was helping a tired team of horses pull a heavy load up the slope. A few moments before the big horses had stalled at the foot of the incline as they tried to haul up a heavy load of cordwood. The driver spared the whip and urged them on by voice. The kind-hearted driver of the auto truck hooked a chain from his truck to the waxon pole and started up the bridge. As he did so, the horses began to pull again, and, with eight or ten feet of loose chain dragging on the street, the procession made its way to the top of the bridge, and several hundred laughing spectators took in the show.
