

WOOD BLOCK PAVING LARGE BY CHAMBER

Lumber Industry's Importance to State Is Cited in Advice on Road Bond Funds.

OREGON FIR IS ADVOCATED

Failure of Type in Portland Attributed to Poor Work in Laying and Success in Other Large Cities is Pointed Out.

Trustees of the new Portland Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Wednesday passed a resolution asking that the County Commissioners in arranging for the expenditure of the road bond fund take into consideration the greatest good for the greatest number of the citizens of the state, and urging them to do everything possible along the lines of good business judgment to foster the use of wood-block pavement.

Whereas, Multnomah County is about to spend a large sum of money for road paving, and

Whereas, A proper expenditure of this fund will be of untold benefit to the laboring men and women of Oregon, and

Whereas, Roads paved with wood blocks have many good qualities, including durability, and

Whereas, Many countries of Europe, as well as many sections of the United States have tested this type of pavement with success, and

Whereas, Of the 1,200,000 square yards of wood block paving laid in the United States during the year 1914, but a fraction of one per cent was in the state of Oregon, and

Whereas, There is standing in the State of Oregon today 20 per cent of all the timber in the United States, and

Whereas, Nearly 60 per cent of the population of Oregon is dependent upon the lumber industry for support, and

Eighty Per Cent is Actual Cost. Whereas, More than 80 per cent of the cost of converting our forests into lumber is represented by actual cash paid out to wage-earners, now therefore be it

Resolved, That the trustees of the Chamber of Commerce of Portland, Or., representing nearly 5,000 members, and having at heart the best interests of the State of Oregon, request the Commissioners of Multnomah County to make every effort to obtain the greatest good for the greatest number of the citizens of the state, by arranging for the expenditure of the money mentioned above and do everything possible along the lines of good business judgment to foster the use of wood block pavement.

It doubt if there are many persons who realize the importance of the lumber industry and its development," said O. P. M. Goss, consulting engineer with the West Coast Lumber Manufacturers Association.

For instance, how many persons know that the output of the best products of Oregon totals $30,000,000 a year? Compare this with the value of the fish output, $5,000,000; of the fruit industry, $6,750,000; of the wheat, $10,000,000. Though these are all important industries their combined total is less than that of lumber alone.

Importance Is Emphasized. "Wood block pavement is not an experiment. It is a thoroughly practical pavement and one that has been proved thoroughly in this country and Europe. As the resolution says, 1,200,000 square yards of wood block pavement were laid in the United States last year, yet right here in Oregon, where we have the timber in abundance, the best wood for wood block pavement, and where 80 per cent of the population is dependent upon the lumber industry, only a fraction of one per cent was laid.

"Just to show what some other places think of Oregon fir wood block pavement, it may be mentioned that the City Council of Seattle has just authorized $14,000 for the construction of block pavement on six blocks in Twelfth avenue south of Madison street. This order is the first of the kind in the paving of two of the busiest blocks in the city, in Second avenue, with the same material.

"What little wood block pavement we have in Portland is for the most part miserably laid and not in accordance with standards in use in New York, London and other big cities, where they have been laid right, they have given the greatest satisfaction.

"First of all, however, it is necessary to use Douglas fir in building some of our own roads and streets. A wood block pavement constructed in accordance with the specifications ordered by Multnomah County will give better service than other types of pavement, and obtain the approval of every person who sincerely wishes to back local development."

REPLY IS NEARLY READY

GERMAN NOTE NOW AWAITS FINAL APPROVAL OF KAISER.

Message May Reach Washington Tuesday or Wednesday—British Answer Regarded as Incomplete.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Germany's reply to the American note, sent a week ago today as a consequence of the Lusitania tragedy and other violations of American rights in the war zone, is almost complete, according to intimations which have reached here through diplomatic channels.

The return of Emperor William from the Eastern front is said to be awaited by the Imperial Chancellor and the Minister of Foreign Affairs, before the document is put into final form for presentation to Ambassador Gerard. It may reach here next Tuesday or Wednesday.

The issuance today by the British foreign office of an explanation of denunciations of American cargoes was received with much interest in official quarters, but without comment. While the memorandum explains some of the points taken up in a note under preparation to be sent to Great Britain, it was said by some officials that the United States had not yet obtained a satisfactory explanation of the British inquiry with respect to England's right to halt any cargoes of non-contraband, including cotton, destined to neutral ports, which cannot be blockaded under international law.

Neither the State Department nor the Austrian or German embassies has any positive information as yet as to the tone or character of the German reply to the American note.

STREET CURVE MAY BE CUT

Washington-Street Property-Owners Favor Proposed Improvement.

Washington-street property owners met at the Carlton Hotel Thursday with Commissioner Dieck with reference to the proposed improvement of Washington street between Lowndside and Sixteenth street, where it is desired to cut away a strip of property on the south side of the street to eliminate a dangerous curve.

About a score of the heaviest owners of property on the street were present and unanimously agreed to back the Commissioner in his plans. The extent of the assessment virtually has been agreed upon.

It is estimated that the improvement in full will cost approximately $15,000, which will be paid for by the city itself. The plans provide that a strip be cut from the front end of the Sixteenth-street fire station.

Some differences have arisen, however, over the amount to be paid to the Schwab estate for the strip to be cut from two store buildings immediately west of the fire station.

EMPRESS GETS JOMELLI

NOTED SINGER TO APPEAR AGAIN IN PORTLAND MONDAY.

Madame Jeanne Jomelli, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, has been engaged by John W. Considine to be his first headliner at the Empress Theater here in honor of his resumption of control of the vaudeville circuit next Monday. Madame Madame Jeanne Jomelli, Prima Donna, Who Will Appear at Empress Theater Monday.

Jomelli arrived in Portland from Chicago yesterday. She will make her first appearance at the matinee Monday.

Mr. Considine engaged the noted diva of his Portland show immediately after she completed her tour of the Orpheum circuit at the Majestic Theater in Chicago. Madame Jomelli scored a tremendous hit at the Orpheum here last January and that success, in a measure, was responsible for her "come-back" Portland engagement.

She was such a favorite in her previous visit here she was retained for a second week, an honor never before bestowed on an Orpheum artist in Portland.

The celebrated singer was appearing at the Majestic Theater in Chicago when Mr. Considine and the Loew interests were conferring in New York over the transfer of the Empress circuit to his control. Mr. Considine, immediately after the decision of the Sullivan & Considine forces to take back the vaudeville circuit, Mr. Considine declared Madame Jomelli, offering her a week's engagement at the Empress here and she accepted immediately.

Madame Jomelli was engaged at a figure which records her as the highest-priced star ever booked by Mr. Considine.

In touring the Orpheum circuit Madame Jomelli made a distinct hit in every city and at the close of the tour she declared Portland was her beloved city, the reception won by her here being the greatest.

In her Empress engagement Madame Jomelli will be heard in a new repertoire. When at the Orpheum special request was made daily that the diva sing "Home Sweet Home" and she has decided to include that selection in her programs at every show.

FORGALTY FOREIGN AT CHAMBER MEETING

'Get-Acquainted' Gathering Is Marked by Good-Fellowship on Part of All.

JUICY STEAKS ARE ENJOYED

Unconventionality Reigns Supreme at First Function Since Consolidation: Speeches Informal and Thoroughly Liked.

Fine formalities were cast aside and delightful unconventionality reigned unrestrained at the big "get-acquainted" dinner at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday night from 8 o'clock to midnight. The function bore out its title in every particular. Every man present had repeated, if not continuous, opportunities of learning to know every other man present. Most of them embraced the opportunities with freedom and gladness.

It was the first entertainment provided by the new house committee appointed coincident to the recent consolidation of the Chamber of Commerce and Commercial Club. And it was agreed all around that the committee's initial efforts certainly were prolific of fun and good fellowship in superabundance.

All Acquainted Early. Even before the soup was passed, C. C. Colt, president of the Chamber, got the party into the habit of being informal and easy with one another. He ordered every man to introduce himself and to shake hands with the man at his right, at his left and across the table. That started things going, and after that there was nothing to it but to get acquainted with everybody.

So far as similarity to other dinners is concerned, this one was entirely unique. Its principal dissimilarity was in the beefsteak, served on great slabs of meat, Mr. Colt, who presided at all such occasions, had to confess that he didn't know where the house committee could get such choice tenderloins. It was called upon John Cronan, chairman of the house committee, to tell, but Mr. Cronan refused.

Not content with departure from conventional ways in his dinner service the committee had another pleasing innovation in the post-prandial program. Those fellows who came intending to speak were good-naturedly not called on at all and many who never expected to be heard were made to get up and tell of the sensation they experienced in belonging to the Chamber.

Speakers Well Received. First among these was Carl Schallinger, who promised "to do all I can to bring about the success of the new organization."

McKinley Mitchell was taken so by surprise when the chairman called his name that he scarcely could give utterance to his feelings, but received a good-natured "glad hand" all the same.

John Hartog took a few cheerful flings at the chairman, but then struck a serious note by contrasting the present fortunate position of the people in America to the miserable lot of the men in the trenches in Europe. He brook no further delay and called for applause in his cordial tribute to President Wilson, "the man who is preserving the peace of the Nation."

Although he is a resident of this country who want to fight," he exclaimed, "let them take a convenient boat to Europe. If they can't find accommodations there, let them come here."

A. L. Barbur responded by asking that his membership be taken seriously. Although he is a resident of this country, he said, he nevertheless expects to do his share of the work in the new organization.

Upon the occasion, the architect, who is supervising the physical changes in the Commercial Club building, explained some of the details of the work.

Labor Speaker Applauded. Edgar E. Smith, one of the representatives of the Central Labor Council in the chamber, was received with vigorous applause. He said that the laboring people, too, want their affiliations with the chamber taken seriously.

Judge Colvig appealed for wider effort on behalf of the entire state and the whole Northwest, as well as for Portland.

O. W. Mielke was optimistic of the work that can be done, and R. D. Carpenter predicted that much can be accomplished by utilizing "the new blood" among the members.

W. F. Woodward, one of the directors, spoke in complimentary terms of the previous remarks of Mr. Smith, and declared that if the chamber can be instrumental in bringing about a closer understanding between employer and employe its existence will not have been in vain.

R. D. Timms, Henry E. Reed, Frank B. Smith, E. L. Thompson, John P. Dougall, J. C. English, C. F. Berg, F. C. Riggs and H. W. Mitchell, other directors, spoke briefly.

GRAND AVENUE TO BE GAY

Decoration Committee Completes Plans for Rose Festival.

J. D. Sherman, chairman of the decoration committee of the East Side Business Men's Club, reported yesterday that arrangements had been completed for appropriate decoration of Grand avenue between Burnside and East Burnside streets. Jacob Kanizer, chairman of Rose Festival decoration committee, has agreed to put up the decorations on Grand avenue and will furnish about 300 flags, 3 by 5 inches. The East Side Business Men's Club will furnish masts, flags and material for side decorations of the telephone and electric poles. The poles along grand avenue will be painted white.

The committee on grandstands will have ready to hand 200 grandstands for the race.

JEWES ARE CALLED LOYAL

Race Ready to Support President to Last Man, Says Editorial.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Referring to an editorial published in the Frankfurter Zeitung saying that the United States cannot declare war on Germany because of the millions of Germans, Irish and Jews in this country, the Warhelt said:

"The Jews should very much like the Frankfurter Zeitung and others to refrain from mentioning them in their discussions of a war between the United States and Germany. It is mentioned they must be, then let it be said in their name: 'The Jews of the United States will all, to the last man, and behind President Wilson and the United States Government of the President.

"We take the responsibility for the statement that in the United States is involved the Jews as a National unit are the only ones who stand solidly behind the Washington Administration. This was true with regard to the Mexican question; this is just as true now with regard to the world war. The Jews may have their sympathies, but where they live up to the President's neutrality proclamation is concerned they will not be found among those who under the pretense of neutrality carry on a systematic campaign against one or another of the warring nations.

The attitude of the Jews toward the sinking of the Lusitania may serve as an example of their loyalty and patriotism. A survey of the Jewish press and a comparison between the sermons in the churches and those in the synagogues of the country will prove conclusively that the Jews are individual in the United States and are ready to serve him and their country in any emergency that may arise."

BABY'S LEFT IN SALOON

MOTHER TELLS BARTENDER HE MADE BUM OF HER HUSBAND.

New York Woman Afterwards Repents and Seeks Child, But Police Arrest Her for Abandonment.

NEW YORK, May 15.—An East Side mother, suffering from poverty and abandoned by her husband, entered a saloon near Thirty-sixth street and First avenue yesterday afternoon, gently lifted a blue-eyed baby a year old from a basket on her arm and laid it on the bar.

"It's you that'll have to take care of the baby now," declared Mrs. Bridget McQuinn, the mother, beginning to cry, "and all I can do is to kiss it. Now my money's all gone. This place has made a bum of my husband, Tim. You know you did that, she flared up and shook her head. She kissed the baby quickly and went out.

Mrs. Bridget McQuinn lived with her three babies in a tenement at 430 East Thirty-ninth street. She had a husband, a roustabout sailor on cattle ships sailing between New York and Newport News and the French coast. But when Tim reached home he spent his money and time in saloons.

In her desperation the mother a year ago made a mistake, she had a baby and attempted alone to break it up. But Tim could not be reformed and the saloon kept open door.

Five months ago Tim left home and has not been heard from since. The mother does not know whether he is alive. Two months later Bridget and Tim's three children were taken care of by the Children's Society was forced to take charge of Pat, 5 years; Tim, Jr., 3 years, and Irene, 2 years.

Tim had worked in a laundry, but she never got her children back. According to the police she is not fit to keep them.

In her extremity she dressed the youngest baby in a little white dress, put it in a basket and visited the saloon. Three-quarters of an hour after reaching home she yearned so for her baby that she sent a little neighbor girl to fetch it. The girl returned, saying that the baby had been taken to Bellevue hospital by a policeman.

The mother hastened to the East Side police station and asked for her baby. She was told that she could not have it. Then the police were compelled to treat her on a charge of abandonment.

MIND LONG FOGGY CLEARS

Picture in Paper Brings Man to Himself After 12 Years.

NEW YORK, May 15.—The mystery of the disappearance of J. Foster Jenkins, ex-Police Commissioner of Yonkers, who had been missing from home since April 7, 1903, was cleared up by a picture in a newspaper which he had taken with him from Jenkins himself, in which he said he was in Cincinnati and that he could not in any way be reached.

Twelve years ago Jenkins suffered an attack of amnesia, and it is supposed the affliction came upon him while he was in the city of Cincinnati this morning to bring her husband home. She said he had written her that he had seen his picture published in a newspaper and that she should find it in whatever newspaper it is to be put.

WANDERER'S MIND CLEARS

Harry Williams, Who Came From San Diego, Recalls Friends' Names.

After making the trip from San Diego, Cal., to Portland, his mind a blank, Harry Williams, who wandered into the police station Tuesday, suffered in complete forgetfulness. He told the physicians that he was searching for "Glady's," but could not tell whether he was married to her or not, and understanding between her and the Emergency Hospital. He was able to tell the names of several of his friends in San Diego and like information and telegraphic communication was established with them.

A telegram was received last night by New York from a doctor, Dr. P. S. Ford, of Highland, Cal., in which the authorities here were asked to keep Williams at the Emergency Hospital until he was ready for braid or Ford said the man would be taken home.

A blow on the head some time ago is blamed for the mental lapse.

'BRIDE BY PROXY' ARRIVES

Woman Married in Holland Comes to Meet Husband.

NEW YORK, May 15.—An iceberg 400 feet long and 35 feet high was sighted off the banks of Newfoundland recently by the Holland-American liner Noordam, from Rotterdam. Passengers said the berg was about 100 miles from Gibraltar. Other smaller bergs were sighted the same afternoon. That night the Noordam ran into a fog. The Noordam brought only 215 passengers, 23 of whom were in the first cabin.

Mrs. G. Sparrius, a bride by proxy, also arrived. She is a Dutch girl, a Holland-American, came here a year and a half ago to engage in the business of sugar importation and has since met her husband. He wrote to his brother to marry her by proxy and send her over here. The ceremony was performed April 22.

BASKET WEAVERS DUE

CHIPPEWA INDIAN WOMEN SOON TO BILLING IN WARES.

Year's Work With Sweet Grass, Basswood Bark, Black Ash and Hedgehog Quills Almost Completed.

SUTTON'S BAY, Mich., May 16.—As soon as the roads are fit for foot travel the Chippewa women will come from their homes, bringing in wondrous quantities of basketry and quilt work.

Throughout the winter the women spend their days and evenings working on their basketry.

It takes practically a year to gather, prepare and weave baskets. From one Spring to another the Chippewa woman is gathering sweet grass, basswood bark, black ash, hedgehog quills and white birch bark for her work, sometimes having to go miles into the woods to peel the bark, slay the hedgehog or gather the grasses from some wayside creek.

The sweet grass, which is a wild fragrant reed grass and grows on the banks of creeks and ponds, is gathered in the fall. Before it can be woven or sewed into baskets, it has to be rolled across the hot surface of a stove. When it has been sufficiently rolled and absorbed enough heat to make it suitable for her purposes, the woman ties a knot in one end and hangs it head downward upon a nail on the outside wall of her house or hooks it over a tree branch in the sun. This grass has been used by the Chippewa and Ottawa Indians for generations, and, although some commercial basket manufacturers have begun its use, their wares do not have the wearing quality of those made by the Michigan Chippewa basket weavers, because it is not dried by hand and thus loses its flexibility.

Other work done by these Chippewa Indian women is of white birch bark, which is embroidered and embellished with hedgehog quills. These receptacles are trimmed with bands of sweet grass and lined with a fiber made of basswood bark. This fiber, which resembles coarse yarn, is made by boiling the bark until of the right consistency, then drawing it through a hole in a bone or stone until it is twisted into strands. It is then dried in the sun and when dried is ready for braiding or for whatever purpose it is to be put.

"I am not a German, my God. I am a Belgian. My husband is in the Belgian army; my nephews are in the French army, and I have a Belgian passport. I got it to come here to sing for the Belgian relief fund."

"And why should Saint-Saens feel so bitter toward the Germans? The Germans have always loved his music and paid him honor. Art should know no country. Please say that for me; yes, art knows no country."

"Why," continued the singer, whose indignation was rising rapidly, "Saint-Saens and I were great friends. He told me I was the greatest singer in the world."

CRAZY SISTERS MURDER

Deputy Sheriff Shot and Killed When He Attempts Arrest.

FALL RIVER, Mass., May 15.—Samuel Hatfield, a Deputy Sheriff, was shot and instantly killed today as he was attempting to serve warrants on Miss Catherine McCloskey and her two sisters, committing them to an insane asylum. Catherine McCloskey was arrested, charged with murder. She is 45 years old.

Two other sisters were taken to the asylum by Hatfield, on an order from the court. When the deputy, assisted by two assistants, went to the McCloskey home today, he had to climb through a window.

Catherine McCloskey, the assistants said, shot Hatfield through the neck, after warning him not to enter.
