

INVADERS' ROUTED BY COUNTY ALLIES

Regular War Strategy of Commander-in-Chief Hogan, of Linnton, Partial Success.

TWO OF 3 UNITS CAPTURED

Suburban Garrison Makes Sortie, Connects With Sheriff's Reinforcements and Envelops Alleged Coop Raiders.

After a spirited action along Linnton road Monday night, during which a great deal of ammunition was spent, two men were taken to the county jail. A third, William Wallin, is believed to be still entrenched in the woods between Cliff Inn, on the Linnton road, and the Sky Line Boulevard. Residents of the locality lately had been complaining of chicken thefts. The commissary of one of the road camps was plundered one night, and Monday Chief of Police Hogan was called from Linnton. He arrested Joe Brown and William Wallin in their jungle camp. Wallin dashed into the brush and disappeared. Brown was held prisoner.

Chief Hogan brought three men with him and besieged Wallin in his jungle camp Monday night, fearing that Wallin would elude him in the darkness, the officer telephoned to Portland for reinforcements. Deputy Sheriff Bob Phillips, with seven men, responded.

Chief Phillips assumed command of the expedition, establishing field headquarters at Cliff Inn. At once he arranged his line of battle. Hogan's forces formed his light wing, and deployed along Linnton road. Phillips ordered his men, the left wing, to advance through the darkness, to occupy the heights along Sky Line Boulevard, and surprise "the enemy" from the rear.

About this time Deputy Sheriff George Hurlburt and Beckman discovered a man carrying a huge pack on his back, on the railroad right of way on Linnton road. They surrounded him and captured him. He said his name was John Penton. The pack, it was found, contained a quantity of alleged stolen goods.

Penton was taken to headquarters and questioned by Deputy Phillips. He then put the prisoner in his automobile and brought him to the County Jail.

The "soft" occupied Sky Line Boulevard without resistance and began an advance on "the enemy's" rear. These men had not advanced far through the brush when a fusillade of shots from Phillips' center brought them tearing down hill through the brush.

"Enemy" Evacuates Jungle.

This is what had happened: "The enemy" had evacuated his jungle camp just ahead of the deputies forming the left wing, and had endeavored to gain the open road. Thus he had been driven squarely into the center of the attacking column. He burst out of the brush and into the road not far from the open road. Thus he had been driven squarely into the center of the attacking column. He burst out of the brush and into the road not far from the open road. Thus he had been driven squarely into the center of the attacking column.

J. Howard, alleged leader of the night riders; Ernest Burke, Ralph Howard, Verge Dolan and E. S. Dillard, named in the indictments, were arrested by Sheriff Bell, of South Bend, last night. Others indicted were: H. F. Blaine, Mike Hanrahan, James Simons, W. F. Tidwell, Walter Burke, Claude Handspool, Joseph Oxford and Earl Timmons, all of North River.

Walter S. Boyer, special agent of the land office in Portland, who assisted in the testimony, is expected to be grand jury in South Bend, expected to submit evidence to the Federal grand jury, which will decide whether Government action is necessary.

'GOOSE GIRL' FINE PLAY

Marguerite Clarke Wins Hearts of Audiences at Star.

Marguerite Clarke, as the "Goose Girl," is winning the hearts of all who see her at the Star this week. No one could be more adapted to the quaint Dutch setting, more winsome a goose girl, or more charming and gracious as a princess.

In this five-reel Lasky feature, Von Herbeck abducts the infant daughter of the Grand Duke and 15 years later substitutes his own child, whom they force to become engaged to King Frederick, who is also unwilling to wed. King Frederick disguised as a peasant meets the pretty goose girl, Gretchen, who is none other than the real princess. Many interesting things happen before Von Herbeck's deception is discovered. An ideal ending has it that King Frederick and the "Goose Girl" are happily married, and the make believe princess, who would rather be just a girl, marries the American consul. Even were not the story as pretty as it is the beautiful scenery would be almost sufficient.

"Gasoline Gus," a Mutual film, is one of the most wholesome comedies offered for a long time.

"RIVAL" FLEES TO HILLS

Lumberman on Tenth Trip to City Again Meets With Trouble.

WALLACE, Idaho, May 25.—(Special.)—R. Longman, a lumberman from the northern part of the Coeur d'Alene, suddenly left Wallace yesterday as he vowed never to return. This makes 10 trips into the city during the past year. Longman has run across trouble.

He attended the regular Saturday night dance. While dancing with a woman, who had coyly invited him up for Sunday dinner, for the next day the husband suddenly appeared and without further ado wheeled the surprised couple to the street. The husband then administered a heavy right into the face of the lumberman, pitching him to the sidewalk.

The "soft" fled to the hills and the husband was hot in pursuit with a 33 waving in the air when last seen.

MOUNT CHINDERE SCALED

Party of 99 Mazamas Start Out and 77 Reach Summit.

The largest party of Mazamas ever gathered together for a climb attempted the trip to the summit of Mount Chindere Saturday. Of the 99 climbing on the trip 77 reached their objective point. The trip was one of the most interesting in the experience of the club. Of the four parties that started from camp 10 miles southeast of the Columbia River three were lost at various times and all suffered hardships due to the amount of drifted snow encountered near the summit.

Charles A. Benz lost his way and wandered far to the south of the mountain and eventually reached Herman Lake forest ranger headquarters. Osmon Royal was leader of one party that reached the summit.

TRADING STAMP LAW INJUNCTION ASKED

Merchants to Keep on Giving Premiums While Application Is Pending.

WOMEN SCORN CASH OFFER

New Act Makes Merchandise Gifts Economic Impossibility, So Company Backs Up Business Men in Court Action.

Pending a hearing on the application for a preliminary injunction filed in the Federal court yesterday, all merchants in Portland who have been giving trading stamps will continue to give them, despite the law passed by the recent Legislature, to put an end to the trading-stamp business.

An awful cry of disapproval went up from the women folks when the companies who issue the stamps announced that instead of merchandise premiums they would be compelled, in order to comply with the law, to redeem their customers' stamps in cash.

Women Want Only Premiums.

No amount of money would satisfy the woman who had been saving up her stamps for the purpose of exchanging them for a red cedar clothes chest, a choice piece of silverware or a rare creation in mahogany furniture.

"No, they don't want money," said an attendant at a stamp redemption station yesterday. "They want the premium."

Merchants who have been giving stamps declare that they will have to fight for the right to continue to give them, more to satisfy their women patrons than to protect themselves from possible economic losses.

F. A. Kress, manager for Sperry & Hutchinson, a trading-stamp firm, said yesterday that his company is prepared to test the constitutionality of the Brown law in the courts in the event that the Federal court refuses to grant an injunction. Similar laws have been passed in 28 other states and invariably have been unable to stand the constitutional test.

Law Is Draught in Effects.

The way the situation is at present, the trading stamp company, under orders obtained from a number of merchants with whom they have contracts, is required to continue redeeming their stamps with merchandise premiums. Under the new law, which went into effect Saturday, it would have been an economic impossibility to continue giving premiums for stamps.

This law requires the trading stamp company, as well as all merchants who give stamps with their sales, to pay 5 per cent of their gross sales into the state treasury every year. The effect of this provision would have been prohibitive against all merchants—and that was precisely what was intended by the Legislature when the measure was passed.

Mr. Kress says that his company is standing firmly behind the merchants who have brought the court action, although that company does not appear in the case. The action is brought against Attorney-General Brown and District Attorney Evans to prevent them from enforcing the law.

Merchants Aim at Protection.

While it would be impossible for the Attorney-General or the District Attorney to proceed against the trading stamp people under the Brown law prior to next March, Mr. Kress and the merchants who give stamps are seeking to protect themselves from action at that time. The law requires that they make a report of their sales in March of each year and make their 5 per cent payments with the report.

But the trading stamp people are eager to keep the law from going into effect and promise to continue their activity through the courts until the issue is brought to a conclusion.

It is probable, therefore, that if the injunction sought by the merchants in the Federal Court, the application for which is due to be heard on June 1, is not granted, a new action will be brought to test the constitutionality of the law.

SO THE PEOPLE MAY KNOW

The "Economically Inclined" Are Urged to Read This Advertisement. It's a Message of Thrift

In these days of "tuck and pull" economy is the watchword. Thinking people, to whom the saving of a dollar is equal to a dollar earned, are buying where they can get the most for their money. Simon cannot regulate the prices on Groceries, Hardware, Dry Goods, Etc. While business at other stores in at a standstill, the Simon Salvage Store is going ahead at full speed, serving the public with bargains at all times and doing a large volume of business—WHY? Because Simon does not buy his goods in the ordinary way.

If Simon bought from wholesale houses, as is the custom with other merchants, Simon could not exist one month—selling goods at less than wholesale prices would mean ruin and the Sheriff. Simon sells for less because he buys for less—Simon buys SALVAGE STOCKS and FIRE STOCKS—stocks of merchandise that were wrecked in transit by railroads and steamships. Simon buys these stocks at a fraction of their first cost and sells them to the public the same way, with a little profit. The Simon Salvage Store is always busy. WHY? Because Simon gives you more for less.

If coffee Don't Agree Use POSTUM

A Nurse Says:

"I have been a trained nurse for some fifteen years, and like many nurses, drank strong coffee. About two years ago I had to call a halt. I missed my coffee until some one recommended Postum, which I have used ever since, recommending it to many of my patients."

A Teacher Says:

"I have been a coffee drinker ever since. I can remember. I have been teaching school for sixteen years, and became more and more nervous. I could not sleep. After reading some of your literature I decided to try Postum. I have been using it about thirty days; my nerves have improved; I have no headache; sleep peacefully, and am able to do my school work better."

A Doctor Says:

"I often find it necessary to prohibit the use of coffee for my patients, and have advised the use of Postum with good results to the nervous system and digestive apparatus."

PER CAPITA TAX $45.41

COUNTY ASSESSOR REE'S FIGURES TOTAL AT $36,328,000.

Revenue Department of Civic League

Hears of Food and Labor That Money Could Purchase.

Taxes in Oregon last year, including Government, state and city, amounted to $36,328,000, $45.41 per capita, H. E. Reed, County Assessor, said at the regular meeting of the revenue and taxation department of the Civic League at the Hazelwood yesterday noon.

"This sum," he said, "would buy food and fuel for one year for 82,380 families of five persons in the three principal cities of the State of Washington, according to the average of their cost of living as computed by the State Labor Commissioner. Calculated in terms of labor, it is quite startling. The tax burden last year would mean the labor of 29,230 men for one year."

Mr. Reed told of the various methods of raising revenue and of the amounts raised for the support of the Government and states.

He also showed how the renter, although not paying taxes directly on the home in which he lives, is, nevertheless, a taxpayer.

About 20 members of the league were present. Charles E. Warner, president, presided. A general discussion of the questions of taxation followed the address.
