HISTORICAL EXHIBIT MADE

First Public Recital on Olds Organ
Given in Evening by Portland Chapter of American Guild of Organists.

Yesterday was Founders' day at Reed College and memorial exercises were held for Mr. and Mrs. Reed. Dr. Thomas L. Elliot, who knew Mr. and Mrs. Reed for many years, was the principal speaker.

Dr. Elliot gave a sketch of the character and life of Mr. Reed and explained how Reed College came to be founded. Mr. and Mrs. Reed had an understanding, he said, that the greater part of their fortune was to be left to the City of Portland for the public welfare. When Mr. Reed died in 1894 he bequeathed his estate to his widow, and when she died in 1904, she carried out her husband's desire. After some delay the estate passed into the hands of the trustees and Reed College was founded.

After the exercises were concluded, an exhibit based on the history of the founders of Reed College was opened to the public in the afternoon.

Tonight the Reed College play, "Everywoman's Road," will be presented at the Hellig Theater at 8 o'clock, and will be repeated tomorrow. A baseball game between the faculty and senior class will be played on the campus Wednesday morning. Commencement day is Saturday, June 5.

In the evening the first public organ recital on the old Rees memorial organ was given by the Portland Chapter of the American Guild of Organists. The programme follows:

Tone poem, "Finlandia" (Sibelius), "In Moonlight" (Kander), Intermezzo and Meditations from Suite in G minor (Tchaikovsky), "The Song of the Lark" (Macfarlane), Frederick W. Goodrich, organist of St. Mary's Cathedral; Adagio Lamentoso, finale from Symphony in A minor (Tchaikovsky), "In Summer" (Steinbach), "Toccata" from Suite in G minor (Rogers), Mrs. Leonora Fisher Whipp, organist of St. David's Episcopal Church; "Evensong" (Coleman), "Minuet" in A (Boccherini), Fugue in G Major from "Pastoral Sonata" (Rheinberger), overture to "William Tell" (Rossini-Buchner), Lucien B. Becker, F. A. G. O., organist of First Baptist Church.

MAZAMAS END 3-DAY HIKE

Party of 67, Mostly Women, Back
From Trip to Silver Creek.

Sixty-seven Mazamas, more than half of them women, returned to Portland last night after a three days' outing and hike to the south and north forks of Silver creek, near Silverton, Or. The start from Portland was made Saturday afternoon and evening in two parties. At Silverton six more Mazamas joined the hikers, making 73 in all. That night they camped eight miles to Silver creek and camped.

Sunday the Mazamas walked first to the south fork of Silver creek, where they viewed what is known as the upper and lower falls. The upper falls has a drop of 180 feet and carries a large volume of water. The Mazamas declare it to be superior to Multnomah Falls in beauty, because so much more water goes over it. The lower falls, 100 feet high, was hardly less beautiful.

From there they tramped to the middle falls, on the north fork, 140 feet high, and made camp. The hike for the day was about 20 miles. Yesterday morning the party broke camp and tramped back to Silverton. Some who arrived early caught an early train for Portland, but most of the party reached here at 7:30 o'clock last night.

RAIN HALTS EXERCISES

LONE FIR CEREMONIES ARE HELD IN WOODMEN HALL.Graves of Veterans Are Turned Into Bowers of Roses—500 Old Soldiers Pay Tribute.

Memorial day exercises that were to have been held in Lone Fir Cemetery yesterday morning were adjourned to the hall of Multnomah county, Woodmen of the World, East Sixth street, on account of the rains. A programme of addresses and music closed with a dinner. At the cemetery the old soldiers of the Grand Army of the Republic and Women's Relief Corps of the city assembled at 10 o'clock, and, with the assistance of school children, decorated the graves of soldiers that had been marked with flags. Lone Fir Cemetery was a perfect bower of roses, with scarcely a grave forgotten. Four hundred veterans are buried in this cemetery.

About 500 comrades gathered at the hall. Commander T. H. Stevens recounted the history of the Grand Army of the Republic. Ogilbee read the orders of National Commander for Memorial day. After singing by the Veterans Quartet, Judge Gantenbein gave the history of Lincoln's Gettysburg address and read the address. He pointed out that this remarkable address had a remarkable origin, an origin of most thrilling interest.

The Portland Union Band played "America," with the audience standing. Tapes were wound and the programme ended. The guests were dined by the women of the Relief Corps. For two hours a reunion was held by the veterans.

Flowers Strewn on Bay at Newport.

NEWPORT, Or., May 31.—(Special.)—Memorial services for veterans were observed at Newport today when wreaths and flowers were scattered on Yaquina Bay to be carried to sea on an ebb tide. Thus were the soldiers and sailors remembered. Only 20 veterans live in Newport and some of them were too feeble to attend. Services were held at the cemetery yesterday. Mayor Bensell, a veteran, delivered two addresses in which he indorsed President Wilson's peace policy.

One-half of the 12,000 flies which took place in New York City last year were traceable to carelessness.

NEW SERVICE PROPOSED

TRAIN DIRECT FROM SEATTLE TO FLAVEL UNDER CONSIDERATION.

Existing Schedules Said to Be Too Unattractive to Puget Sound Residents Requiring Trip to Portland.

Officials of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific Railways now have under serious consideration the plan to operate through train service between Seattle and Flavel to connect at the latter point with the steamers of the Great Northern Pacific Steamship Company for San Francisco. It is apparent to these two railroads, which own the steamers Great Northern and Northern Pacific jointly, that the present service is not attractive to people living in Tacoma, Seattle and other cities on Puget Sound. Existing schedules require the Puget Sound people to travel to Portland, change cars here and go to Flavel, where they board the steamers.

These connections require the Sound people to be on the road more than 36 hours, including two nights. Under proposed arrangements through trains would run from Seattle to Flavel, leaving Seattle at 7 o'clock in the morning, ferrying across the river between Kalama and Rainier and arriving at Flavel at 1 P. M. This would provide half an hour for the transfer, which is considered sufficient. Similar service would be maintained north-bound.

If the railroads decide to put the new train into commission it is probable that it will be established before the end of the present summer to take advantage of the Exposition business.
