There were 65 children in the Receiving Home on May 1, 1914, according to the report of Mr. Arne.

"During the past year 162 new children have been received and 262 entered in previous years have been returned, making a total of 491 children," Disposition of Children Told.

"At the present time the society is responsible for 543 children, of whom 478 have been placed in free homes throughout the state and 65 of whom are in the receiving home."

Superintendent Arne sketched the history of the society, told how the conditions governing children had been improved and of the support and co-operation that had been given by County Judges and others.

The report of Mr. Woodward, treasurer, showed that at the close of the fiscal year April 20, 1915, the society had assets including cash, property and other items amounting to $167,511. The liabilities on the same date he gave as $7446. The expenses of the society for the past year amounted to $17,954.39 New Plan Satisfactory.

Nevadan Due Early This Morning, but She Will Take Mixed Cargo. Lumber Carriers Find Goods Plentiful for Western Trip.

There was no grain aboard the liner pennsylvanian when she sailed last night, neither will there be on the Nevadan, due here today. In fact, the Pennsylvanian would not have taken cargo had it been available, as she loaded no other commodities, simply discharging 3500 tons of New York freight here and proceeding to Puget Sound to get rid of the remainder. On discharging in the north she will go to the West Coast for a nitrate cargo that is destined for New York.

The Nevadan, which is to be off the Columbia River lightvessel at daybreak this morning from New York, may berth at Municipal Dock No. I, because the cargo of the Pennsylvanian, some of which was damaged by fire, occupies, so much of the space on Albers dock, the regular berth of that line. If she
