The proceedings were not conducted last night entirely according to the wishes of many petitioners.

The bishop opened the meeting by announcing briefly the purposes for which it had been called. He then turned the meeting over to the First Church trus-tees, with Dr. F. L. Loveland, the pastor, presiding.

Dr. Loveland called on George F.

The tragedy was discovered this morning when Henry Stubblefield, a farm hand, found the body of Mrs. Oglivey on the porch of her home and Mr. Oglivey unconscious inside the house. A note written by Mr. Oglivey last night as a dying declaration, named Dale as the siayer. Regaining consciousness Mr. Oglivey gave a more detailed account of the shooting, saying Dale stopped at the house between 8 and 9 P. M. and quarreled with Mrs. Oglivey. The husband went toward them, when Dale shot the woman through the chest, Mr. Oglivey said. She fell in her husband's arms and Dale fired another shot at them. Dale fired another shot at them.

Dale was found at his home drunk, with a loaded rifle at his side. A posse surrounded the house awaiting the arrival of the Sheriff, but Dale offered no resistance.

He professed a complete lapse of menory concerning events prior and following the time of shooting. He said he was drugged and robbed in Pendleton yesterday and was in a desperate mood when he left the city to go home. His place adjoins the Oglivey ranch. Dale is married.
