

CHURCH OBSERVES 23RD ANNIVERSARY

Sunnyside Congregational's Pastor, Retained 23 Years, Celebrates Also.

HOME-COMING IS FEATURE

Many Attend Sunday School Who as Children Were at First Session. Minister Reviews Work and Cites Possibilities.

"A church for the people and of the people, a home for the boys and girls, young women and young men, and a social center in the community," has been the motto that has led the Sunnyside Congregational Church to the high place it holds in Portland and Congregationalism, and this was made the keynote of the services yesterday at the celebration of the 23rd anniversary of its beginning and of the pastorate of Rev. J. J. Staub, D. D.

The day was a red-letter day in the history of the Sunnyside Congregational Church. Its history in many ways while pastors of other churches have come and gone this church has retained the pastor, who, as a young man, preached the first message 23 years ago in Hunter's Hall, in Sunnyside, to 25 members. The church now has a membership of 550. The services of the day were full of interest. Many of the old members were present at the "home-coming" in the evening. At 11 o'clock in the morning the church was occupied with the Sunday school programme. Many attended who were children when the Sunday school was held in Hunter's Hall, on the corner of East Taylor and East Thirty-fourth streets.

The members of the Christian Endeavor Society, numbering 90, were hosts to former members at a meeting held at 6:30 o'clock in the evening. History Reviewed. The greatest interest was manifested at the "welcome-home services" at night. Dr. Staub spoke feelingly of the past, of the fine harmony that had prevailed. He touched on the beginning of things when the church was first struggling to become a factor in the community, religiously and socially, and the movement that led to the erection of the fine stone edifice on East Taylor and East Thirty-second, which he attributed to the united spirit of the members and the co-operation of the Men's League. Dr. Staub spoke of the past as a chapter full of interest and achievement, but as closed, and pointed to the future as full of opportunities for service to the community.

"While the achievements of the past 23 years have been such that we as a church may still be proud," he said, "the future opens still greater possibilities for service for God and this community. Let me urge on you a renewed hope and energy to make a better record than ever before. With this fine building and the fact that we can do better in winning young men and young women, and the boys and girls to useful lives."

The program was made up of old familiar hymns that were sung in the first church, and many an eye was moistened with the recollection of the words called before their mind as the old songs were sung. Then at the close there was a reunion of friends, and the greetings were given with tender feeling.

Social Spirit Factor. The success that has attended the Sunnyside Congregational Church for the past 23 years is attributed largely to the fine social spirit that has been its feature. Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Staub entered into the life of the church from the beginning. They found the stranger and made him welcome. They entered into the activities of the young men and young women, the boys and the girls, and all young persons knew they had a personal friend in Dr. Staub and Mrs. Staub to whom they could come in their hour of need. The church has been a center of social activity and real religious life. It has been made the home of the young people, and they have come to regard it as the best place to come. There has been a continuous stream of harmonious life from every one of the 23 years. When anything was to be done, when improvements were to be made, when a new church building was projected, all the members young and old put their shoulders to the wheel.

Dr. Staub might have had an assistant, and has had, but in the form of an automobile, which has enabled him to get into touch and keep in touch with all the members. His car has carried him quickly to the bedside of the sick and to the member needing words of encouragement. It

Sermon Thoughts From Portland Churches.

THAT there is a growing tendency for men and women to neglect their intellectual, moral and spiritual welfare was the statement made yesterday by the Very Rev. H. M. Ramsey, dean of St. Stephen's Pro-Cathedral. "There is nothing so pitiful as a neglected soul. There is no greater waste found in human life than waste of opportunities to keep the character up to the highest standard. You will often hear it said 'We are so busy we haven't time to read, to improve our minds, to go to church or to do other things we should do.' If you cannot manage yourself and your time so that you will be able to look after your mental and spiritual wellbeing as well as your physical welfare, you should go before the courts and apply for a guardian."

Large congregations attended both morning and evening services in the First United Presbyterian Church, East Thirty-seventh street and Hawthorne avenue, yesterday. In the morning, Rev. Frank D. Findley, who spoke on "Christ the Great Divine," preached a most inspiring sermon. He not yet made, it is still in the making. The nation is not yet built. One hundred million people are waiting for great workmen are toiling at their posts upward in the night. The story of incompleteness lies in everything about us. We need better laws, we need better enforcement of laws, and that is coming. We need a better distribution of the good things of life, better tools and better opportunities, and they are coming.

Yesterday was the fourth anniversary of the beginning of the pastorate of the Rev. John H. Boyd, in the First Presbyterian Church. Instead of a formal sermon, the pastor gave in a congregational address, in which he urged them all to join the ranks of those who were always faithful, always dependable. This church will celebrate Children's day next Sunday at 10:30 o'clock. More than 200 children are expected to attend. The church has preserved a perfect record of attendance, will receive medals.

QUEEN TO BE CLUB GUEST

Rotarians Preparing for Elaborate Luncheon Tomorrow.

Although the official opening of the Rose Festival will not be until Wednesday morning, the Portland Rotary Club will hold a preliminary Rose Festival luncheon at its luncheon at the Benson Hotel at noon tomorrow. Decoration of the dining-room has been in the hands of Max Smith and he had worked out a plan which will make the crystal room of the Benson a bower of roses. In the center of the room a special table will be set aside for the Festival queen and her attendants and maids of honor, who are to be the guests of the day. At the table of President Spoerl will be the chairman of the day, J. A. Currey, and the speakers, Howard Everts Weed, O. H. Becker and R. R. Routledge.

BAKERS GOING TO EMPRESS

Actors Have Special Jokes for Those at Vaudeville Party Tonight.

Members of the Oregon State and Pacific Bakers' Association will attend the Empress Theater in a body tonight, every box and every log having been reserved for the bakers, who will assemble in annual convention here today. Officers of the association will occupy two boxes on the right side and the boxes just opposite are held by the Fleischmann Company. The bakers will attend the first night show and nearly every performer in the show will have jokes to crack on members of the theater party. Tickets to the Empress will be distributed among the bakers at their first business meeting this morning. The gathering will be the largest convention theater party ever held in a vaudeville theater in Portland.

MRS. GARDNER ENDS VISIT

Noted Suffrage Worker Leaves for Seattle After Few Days Here.

Mrs. Gilson Gardner, of Washington, who is quite as prominent as a suffragist as her husband is well known as a newspaper writer, left Portland last night for Seattle, after passing several days of varied and successful activity. Mrs. Gardner was a guest at the luncheon of the Civic League Saturday, and in the afternoon was shown the sights of Portland by United States Senator Chamberlain. Mrs. Gardner spoke Saturday night at the headquarters of the Women's Congressional Union of which she is member of the National Executive Committee.

POLLING PLACES FOR CITY ELECTION GIVEN

Polling places in the majority of precincts will be the same in today's city election as they were in the special county road bond election held recently. ACTS... THAT'S ALL

Just a little of the plain truth about C. V. Cooper.

What does the public want to know about a MAN who offers himself as a candidate for city commissioner? It wants to know the record of that MAN. If his record is good, so much the better for him; if his record is bad, the public is entitled to know it. Having the facts concerning C. V. Cooper in my possession I consider it my duty to give them to the public. Cooper's attempt to make the presentation of his record appear to be a personal matter and his evasion of the issue by slandering my race do not answer the charges. In the same space Cooper could have explained his record if he had any explanation.

Here are the facts about C.V. Cooper, Candidate for City Commissioner: AS GRAND BANKER W. O. W.

John Deland, formerly of Seattle, but now of Tacoma, was in a business deal with him. When interviewed, stated.

"Cooper and I made a verbal agreement to purchase a large tract of land in Mexico, for which we were each to pay an equal amount. In addition to this verbal agreement, Cooper drew up a written agreement which called for the purchase of additional land, after we had acquired the first. After a trip to Mexico, where I thoroughly inspected the tract, I went to Chicago and took an option on the property. When the time for payment on the land came I discharged my part of the obligation and requested Cooper to make his partnership agreement good. He gave me the horse laugh and I had to put up the balance of the purchase price myself. It was then that I discovered that Cooper had cleverly worded the written contract so as to give him a half ownership in the original tract, for which I paid the entire amount. He was therefore getting a good many thousand dollars' worth of land for nothing.

"I paid him more money for his interest in the land and informed him that our connections had been severed and I did not wish him to speak to me or have him tell people he knew me. I still have possession of the Mexican land and the contract, by which I lost a good many thousand dollars."

ANOTHER ONE

He was interested in the Adjustable Liquid Gauge Company, and its literature, while Cooper's name was not mentioned, it stated "Offices 813-14 Chamber of Commerce Building," which is Cooper's office. The company filed a preliminary statement with the Corporation Commission at Salem and the Commissioner did not allow it to do business.

Is C. V. Cooper a proper man to be placed as one of the heads of the Portland City Government?
